Ready for the camera

During spirit week Jennifer Henriquez (12) and Nicole Betson (12) show their spirit by dressing up in orange and black. Dressing up for this day took a lot of effort to get their hair and clothes looking just right.

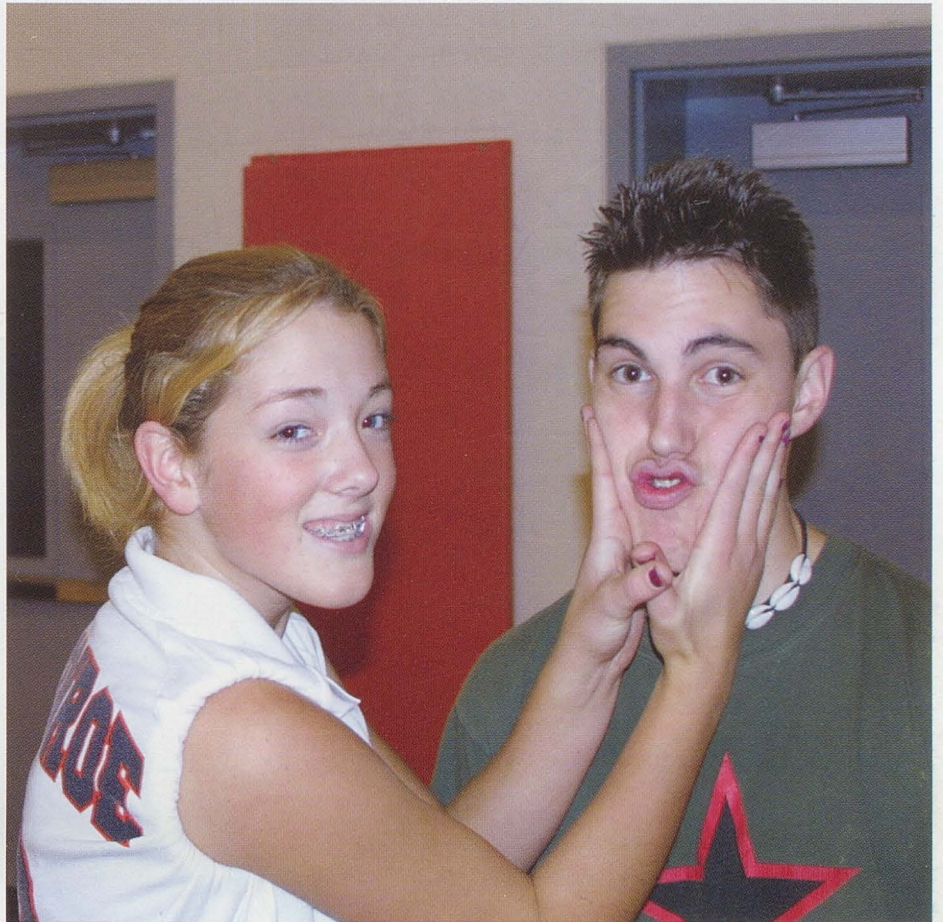

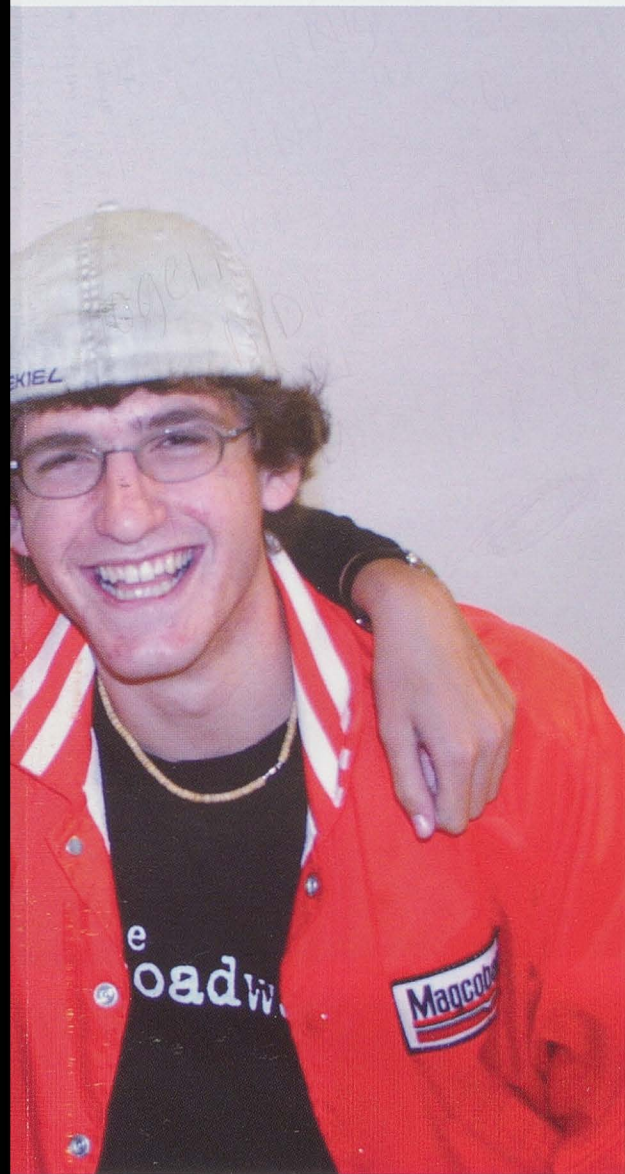

Hungry for Cookies?

Waiting in line to be the first people to get their chocolate chip cookies are Trevor Hoeker (11), Aubrey Nilsen (11), Carin Wright (11). The problem is Aubrey only likes the white chocolate.

Friends Can Make the Day More Exciting

Walking to class can be very boring if you don't have a friend to chit-chat with. Ansel Carroll (11) takes care of his boredom by escorting Kendall Thompson (10) to her next class.

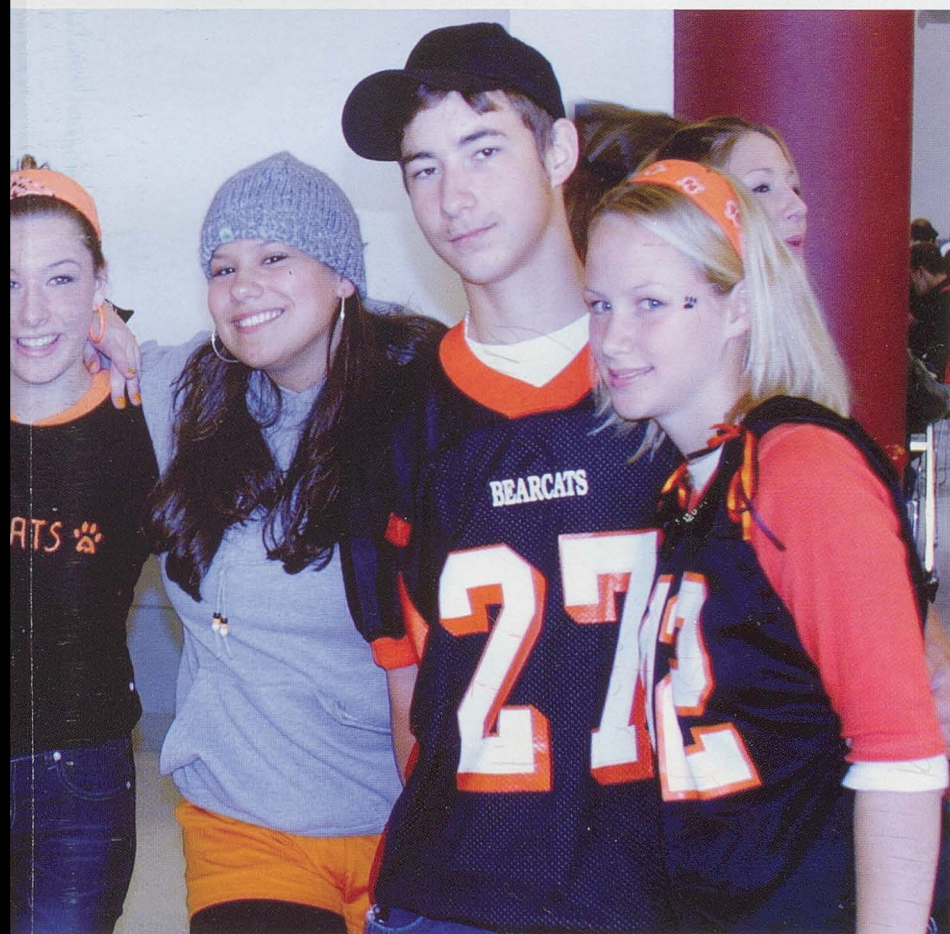

Smiling Like a Guppy

Nicole Crim (10) squishes Brian Weaver's (12) cheeks after a volleyball game because he wouldn't smile for the camera. This picture was taken all in good fun.

Having Fun At Lunch

Socializing at lunch is a big part in a student's life. Taking a quick break from talking non-stop are Cassie Williams (10), Ashley Delp (10), Megan Mendez (10), Jess Griswold (10), Natachia Kling-Mattern (10).

MHS Bites

"Taste the Spirit" Theme

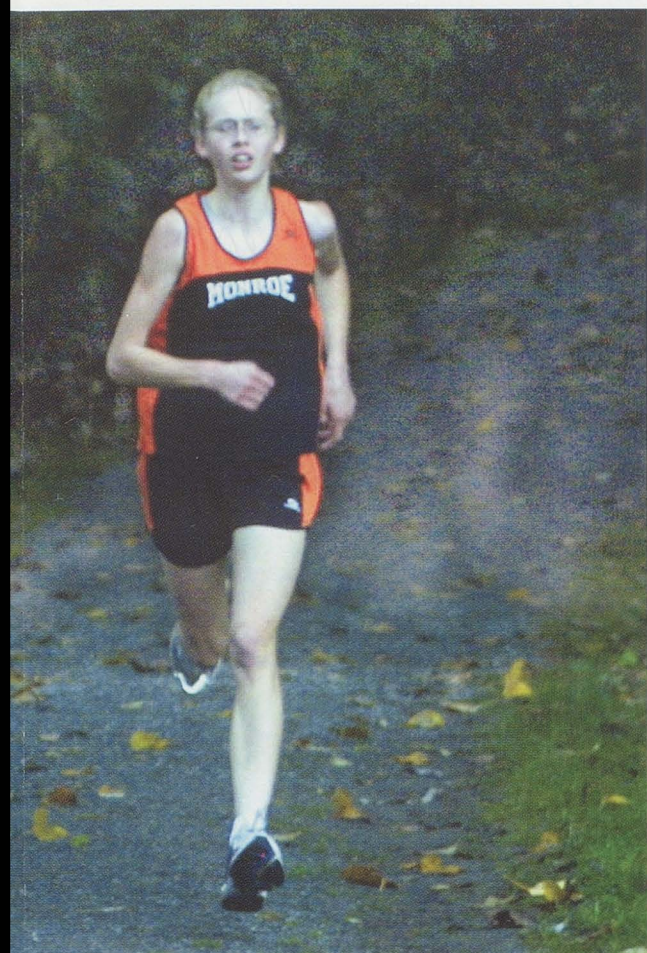

OK. Maybe all that we needed was to have a little year long theme such as "Taste the Spirit," so that kids would get involved. I mean, this year, people participated in practically everything. I don't think there was one kid left that didn't get caught up in all this spirit jazz. Academic clubs popped up all over the place and people had no problem trying out for a new sport. Either way, I'd have to say that this year was, overall, a great success.

Giddy Up!

MHS' men's choir is known for their hilarious outbursts during the scheduled time during assemblies. This particular show involved galloping and hat tipping.

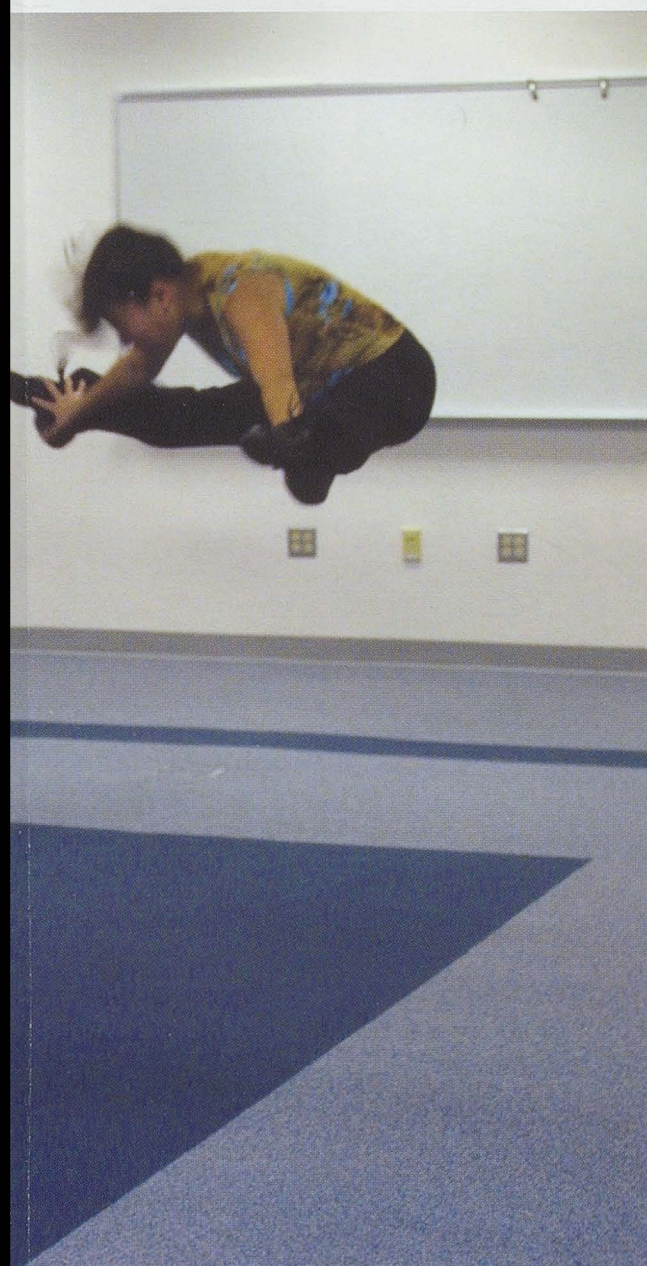

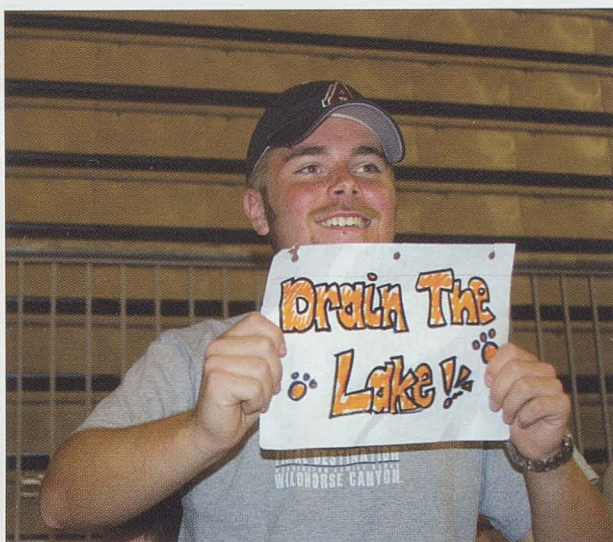

I Think I Can. I Think I Can....

Sarah Johnson (12) gets caught with her head in the clouds and her feet of the ground. This quiet girl is known for her participation on the cross country team and the track team.

It Took Me A Long Time To Make This Sign..

Nate Goodwin (11) shows his support to the girls volleyball team at their home game against Lake Stevens.

Did I Shave My Armpits Today?

Linda Hill (12), though not known for her school spirit, decided to give Costume Day a whirl and she came out looking like she just escaped from a women's prison.

Hi Yah!

Christina Groeneveld (10) and Stephanie LaBoda (11) practice their toe touches for the special routine they have planned. These girls practice everyday after school so they can get just the right amount of height.

Sunburned Feet & People to Meet

The Paris Crown...

Friendship blossoms in the shadow of the Eiffel Tower as Rachael Latschaw (12) and Ashley Long (12) enjoy the beautiful scenery during this once in a life time opportunity.

Ready to go...

Mitch Bickler (12) and Colin Johnson (12) take a break from selling soda at the annual Monroe Community Parade that helped benefit the Bearcat cheer squad.

Building a Dream....

Kelly Franke (11) and Leslie Loeslin (11) stop to smile while at the World Sandcastle Championship in Harrison Hot Springs, British Columbia, Canada.

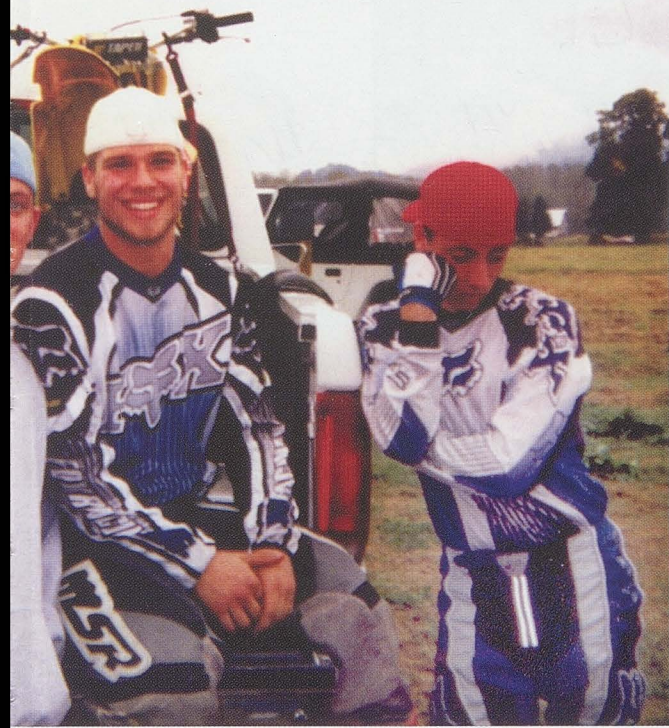

Flying Fast...

After an exhilarating day of racing at Sky River Motercross Park, Tyler Wagner (12), Morgan Kerner (12) and Skyler Goodnight (12) kick back and relax.

Splish, Splash...

Maui provides fun in the sun for Becky Cason (12) and Breckie McCollum (12) as the water swirls around their ankles.

Anchored?

The ship has sailed into the Oregon coast and Christina Swenson (12) and Joshua Nye (12) hold on tight.

What's In Your Nose?

Jason Zuehlsdorf (12), Olivier Quessy (11) and Stuart Bryant (12) are suprised by the size of the moose in Juneau, Alaska.

GET BACK TO WORK!

Going to school is hard. However, going to school and holding down a job is an entirely different ballgame altogether. Especially if you're the type of student that actually likes to get sleep and finish your homework.

This is a page dedicated to any hardworking individual who is willing to don an apron, hat or funny nametag and sacrifice their free time for a mere $6.75 an hour. We salute you!

Warning! Employee X-ing

Riley Mahoney (10), a parcel clerk for Albertsons', is shown here patrolling the parking lot for stray shopping carts.

Congeaed Chemical Butter or No?

Jena Bratsch (11) pops corn, takes tickets and serves with a smile at Monroe's Galaxy Theater.

It's In the Bag...

Carlos Anderson (10), a Safeway courtesy clerk, helps a customer get a handle on her groceries.

PAYDAY :: NINE TO FIVE :: HOLD THE MAYO :: CASH ONLY :: MONEY IN THE BANK :: ATM OR DEBIT? :: TIME IS

:: MONEY MONEY MONEY :: GAS MONEY :: LUNCH MONEY :: CLOCK IN :: CLOCK OUT :: PAPER? :: PLASTIC? :: UNION FEES :: SOCIAL SECURITY ::

A Penny Saved...

A perfectly "candleriffic" time is always in order at Ben Franklin Craft Store, where Natasha Malysheff (12) has been employed for two years.

Ready, Set, Go!

When race fans are hungry, they come to Aaron Gardener (11) who serves up food for ABC concessions.

Look What I Can Do!

Ryan Hanks (12) and Jeremy Arnold (11) "shake it up" at Dairy Queen. When they're not messing around, Jeremy and Ryan usually take orders, make ice cream cones, and mop the floors.

I'm Getting Squished!

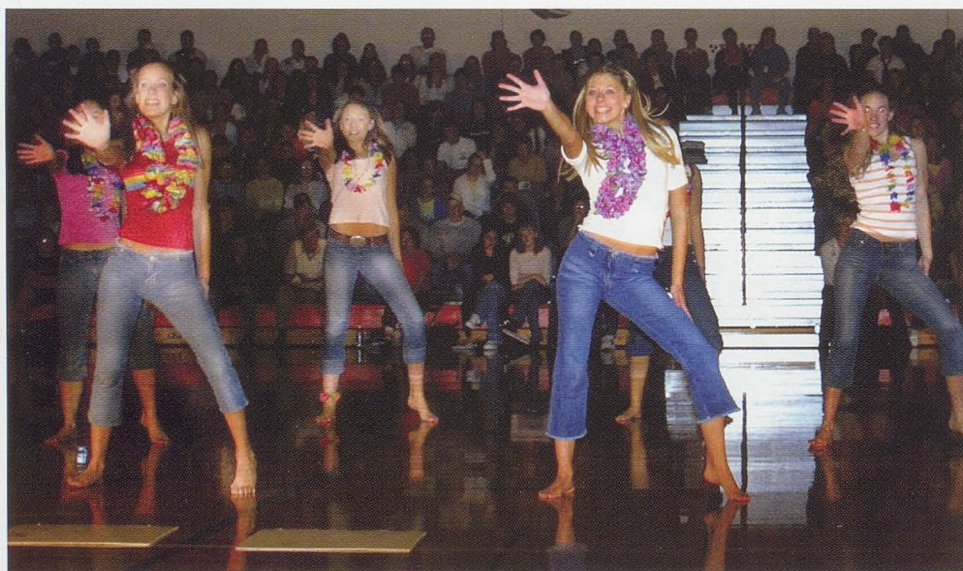

These seniors have something to smile about. Friends, a rowdy football game, and some hot chocolate is all anybody could ask for.

Leadership Class Pulls It Off

Spirit Week was unlike any other this year, thanks to the leadership class and all their hard work. Mrs. Avery put the class under serious pressure to pull together some amazing assemblies and a decent Spirit Week.

This year's Spirit Week consisted of scattered people walking down the hall in costumes, pajamas, Bearcat colors, and Hawaiian prints. There were also various lunchtime activities including throwing marshmallows down shirts and an ice cream eating contest.

The class even added a new factor this year; a parade. This parade was held before Friday's homecoming game and just after school. The royal homecoming court paraded down Main St. in convertibles, with the dance team and cheer squad trailing along behind them.

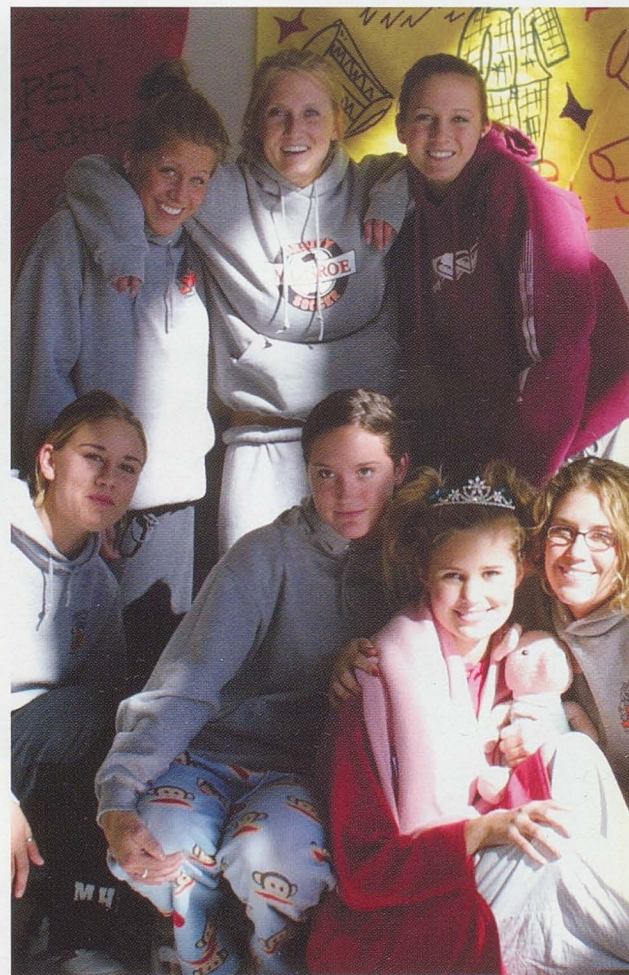

I Think I Just Pulled A Muscle

Acting out the Beach Party theme for the revealing homecoming assembly are: Adrienne Heffner (11), Katie Starniri (10), Stephanie Smith (11), and Jessica Carroll (12). Even though this theme didn't win, these girls still put on a great performance.

Get That Sun Out of My Face!

Showing their school spirit on PJ day are seniors: Rachel Mowry, Megan Cressman, Anna Peltonen, Carmen Barr, Julie Durringer, Taylor Trombley, and Danielle Davis. This day was, hands down, everyone's favorite.

Banana Split

Danielle Davis (12) and Allie Wagoner (12) clutch hands as they attempt wade through the lunchtime crowds to get to their lunch table. These two borrowed thier costumes from their boss at Jamba Juice

Brain Freeze?

Krystal Rupart (12) gives her best during the ice cream eating contest that was held at lunchtime during Spirit Week. She and Morgan Kerner (12) succeeded at this event.

Pretty in Pink

Ian McNiven (12), and Teryn Vailar (12) smile while they watch to see how their lunch time activity is going. Both Teryn and Ian were involved in Leadership and took part in assemblies as well as lunchtime activities.

A Night in Paradise...

Homecoming is the first big high school dance of the year where students get together and come up with different way to have fun. It's the night everyone waits for after watching Spirit Week pass by and the excitement build.

Homecoming is a time where the air is buzzing with tension and worries. Worries because they're not sure if the dance will go according to plan, or if everything will tumble to pieces. Katrina Langland (10) knew exactly what her homecoming night was going to hold. "I expected to have one of the best nights of my life."

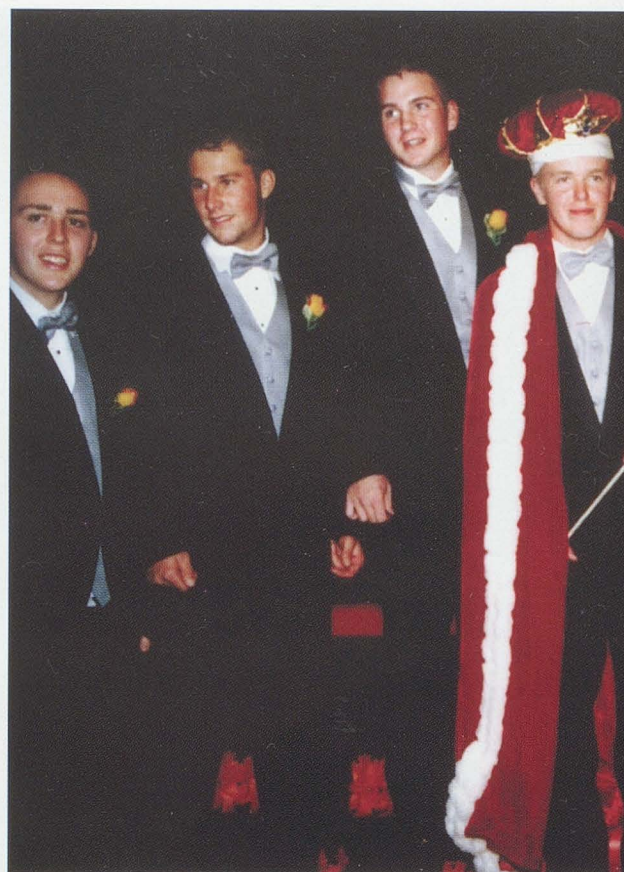

But, despite everyone's expectations, not everything turned out as planned. "I would have liked it more if there was better variety of music," commented Brittany Seagle (12). The dance is often expected to be perfect, but mishaps are bound to occur, no matter how much time and effort was put into making it perfect.

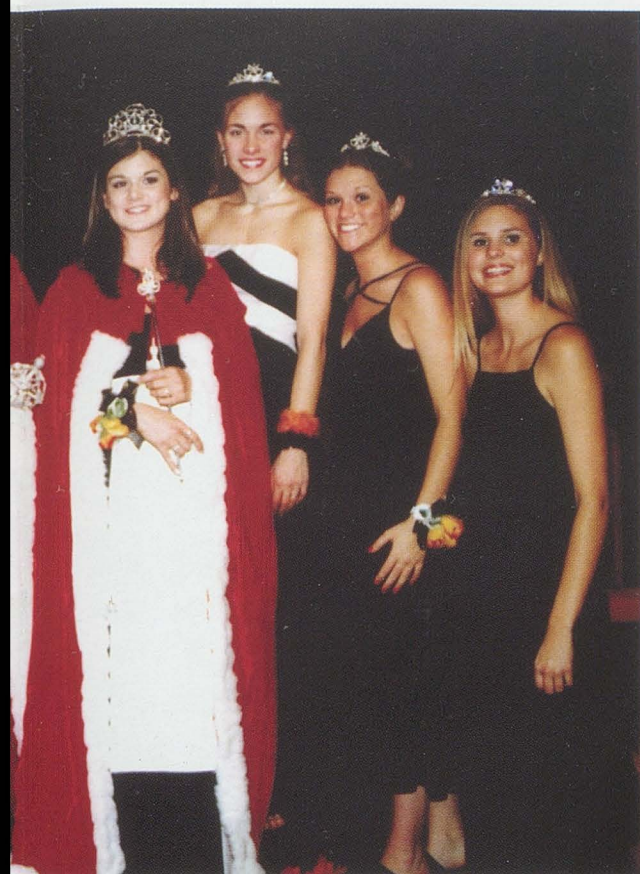

Quick Shot

"I danced all night and had a lot of fun," stated Jillian Munro (11) She had to get special permission from the school to bring her date, Aaron Johnson, because he goes to another school.

"Quit Squeezing Me so Tight"

Lindsey Rodriguez (10) and her date, Joseph Pieroni (a graduated MHS student from the class of 2002), complemented each other's outfits perfectly.

Royal Homecoming Court

Daniel Ayers, Brent Thomas, Eli Reeves, Jesse Clark, Jennifer Squire, Jessica Carroll, Genesis Day, Taylor Trombley get dressed and ready to be showered with attention from the rest of the student body.

Paired up Guests

These students look like they've spent hours pampering and perfecting themselves. Kailyn Ellinger (11), Garrett Hopkins (12), Trent Vanhulle (11), Chris Bryant (12) & Debra Eizak (11).

Glammed Up For the Big Night

Enjoying one of their first nights at a high school homecoming dance are: Geena Davis (10), Jarelle Crocker (10), and Stephanie Dunlap (10).

Dancing Out

Erica (10), Sandra Barbra (10), and Korena Duenas (11) hug as they gossip about how much fun the homecoming dance was and how great everyone looked.

Coupled Up

Mike Shumauker (12) and Jenny Bruce (11) arrived at the dance early to pose for their homecoming photos before the line got too long to bare.

MHS Show No Signs of Fashion Failure

"Because its comfortable," is what most students said when they were asked why they dress the way they do. Coming to school in pajamas seems to be easiest thing to do after having stayed up until midnight doing history home-work.

At Monroe High School, there are no limits regarding current fashion trends. There are five main social elites that roams the halls. The Trendy people; who know the latest fashion every season. The Punkers; who seem to love the music and choose to express it through studded belts and basic black. The Prep/Jock; intend to keep it real and casual, without sacrificing comfort. The Boarders; shredding current boarding logos. Last but not least, The Alternatives; who say that comfort is their only key to self individuality.

Common Looks

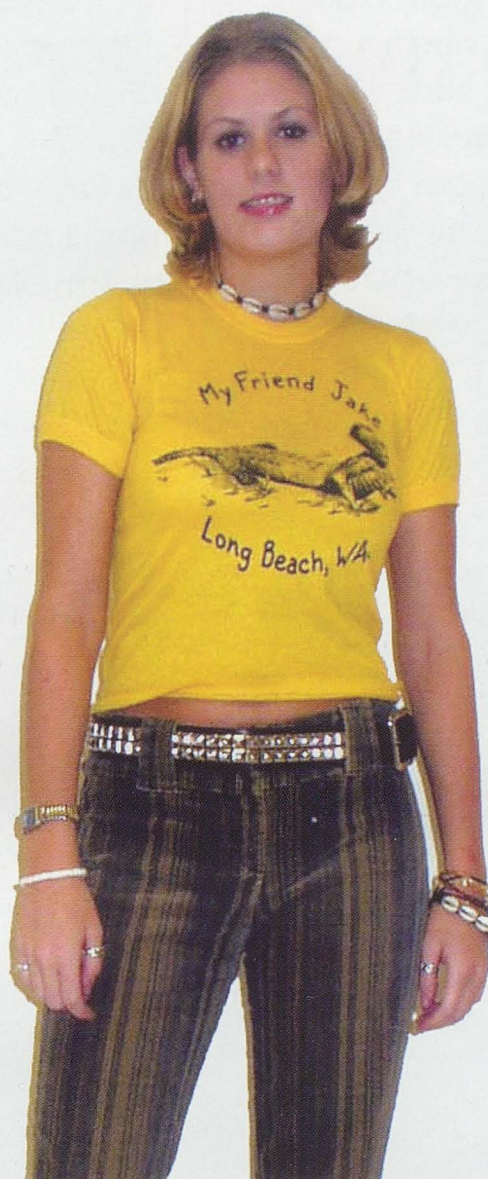

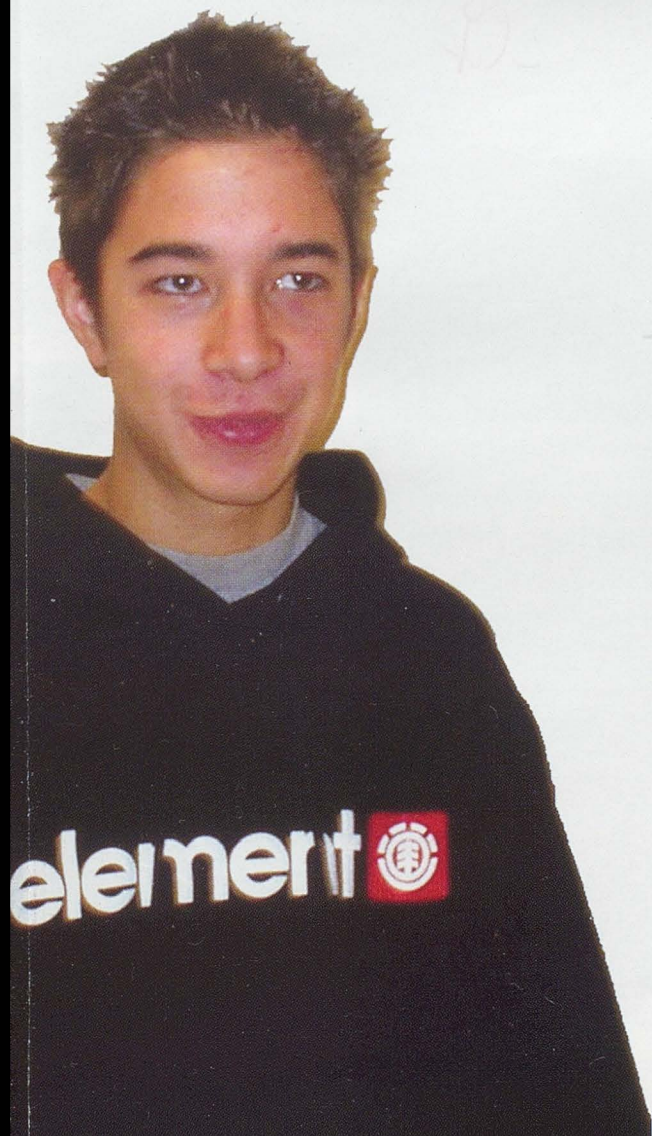

Dan Taylor (11) shows us a popular look at MHS for guys and girls is a t-shirt, a long-sleeve shirt underneath, pants and a pair of Converse shoes. It's the comfortable way to go.

The Rock Stars Come Peeking Up

Todd Lindem (11), Billy Hamilton (12), Ian Wood (12), Chris Catlin (12), Matt Dobish (10), & Brent Keller (12). Here and there you start to seeing the Rocker look popping out and hitting the fashion market.

My Way.....

Jennifer Henriquez (12) "I like shopping for the new looks that come in every season."

All 'bout Details...

Kim Walters (11) "I like sticking to accessories like the studded belts, cuffs, and hemp shells because without it, it's just not a complete outfit."

Starry Eyed

Not quite going for the pajama look is Kelly Malone (12). These are her favorite shoes, along with a pair of leopard sandals.

HOODIES

"I usually wear pull over, hooded sweatshirts that are boarder labels like Element, Volcom, Independent...etc," Jacob Harris (11) commented on his fashion sense.

Body Art - Is it Worth it?

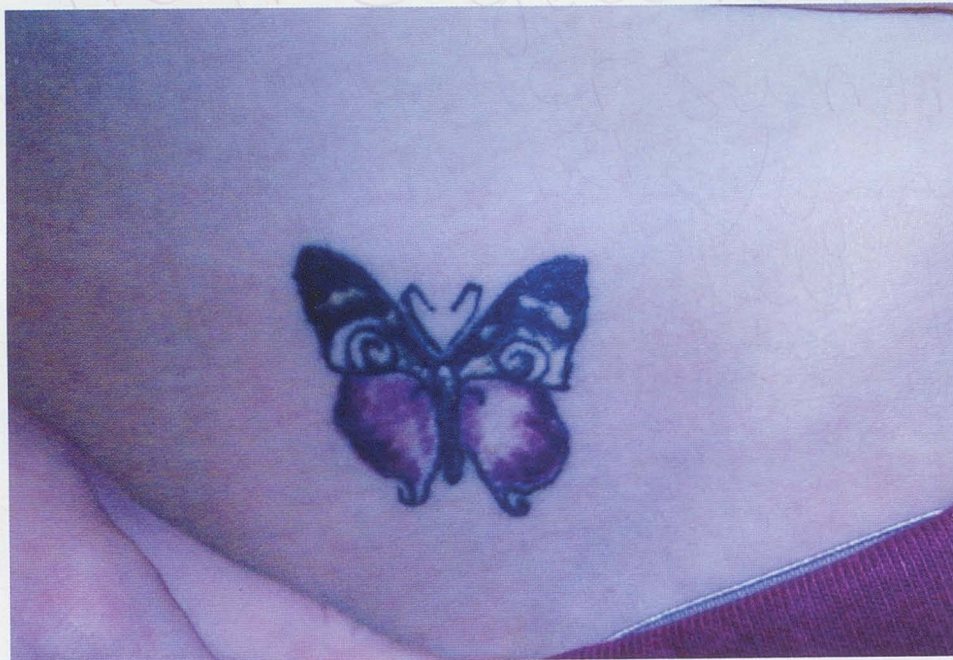

There are three essential questions that one may ask before getting a tattoo (very important ones too!).

The first question is whether it hurts or not. Answer: yes it hurts, because you're stabbed by a needle and injected with ink. After the process of getting a tattoo is over, there's still that stinging and burning pain that stays for while. "Yeah, it hurt a lot, but only on the outside," stated Katie Walker (12) who got one just days after her eighteenth birthday.

"Which design should I get?" Most people have trouble with this part because they don't want to get something everyone else might have. It's all about taking the time to pick what you want to put on your body permanently!

"Will I regret it?" It's the final but most common question that people ask themselves. People always trying to find their own individuality feel a unique tattoo is the way to go. No one knows what they will be thinking from years to come. It's a matter of choice, if you want it now, later, or never.

Flying Butterfly

Not wanting to back out of a bet, Ashley Barron (12) got a tattoo of a butterfly, so she could go to Venice Beach. She paid sixty dollars and it about took forty-five minutes.

The Panther

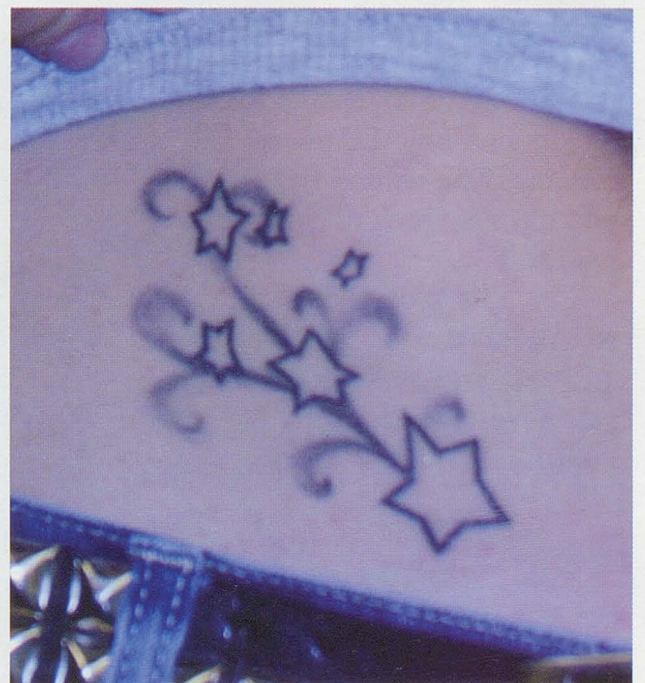

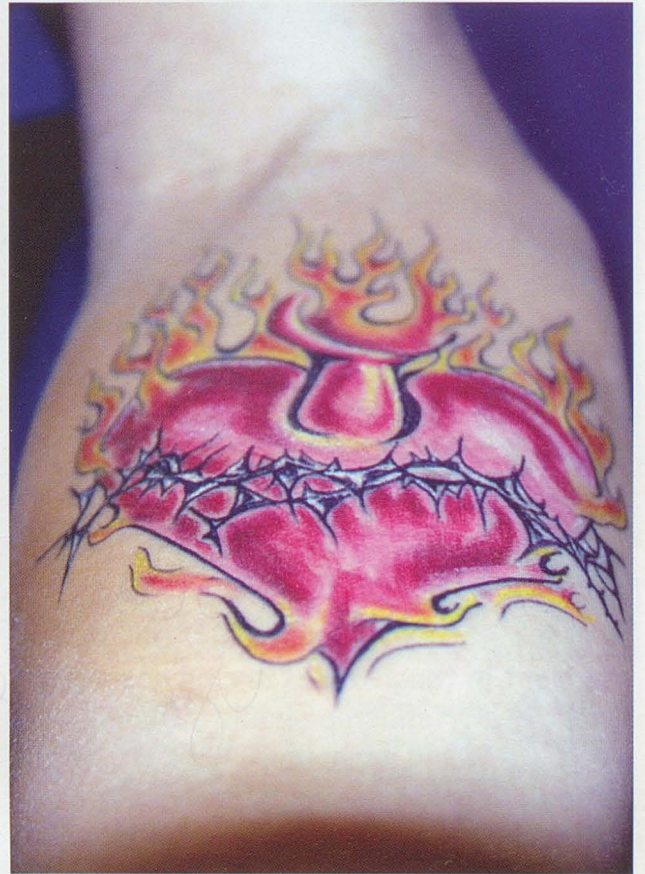

"I wanted something new," said Brian Pope (12) who got his tattoo when he turned eighteen.

When You're Smiling...

Emily Wright (12) bares her back to show off her smiley face tattoo. This tattoo reminds a lot of people of her, because she is so happy.

Big Hearted

Showing his sacred heart on his forearm is Martin Risher (12). "I got it for fun, by a tattoo artist in Redmond named Thea."

Wish Upon a Star

Kaylee Savanio (12) wishes upon her stomach every time she needs a wish.

The Storm of Friendship...

The pressures of high school, such as homework, hard teachers, and family problems come in like a flood. The only thing that seems to be able to calm the storm is a good friend, who'll listen to your gripes. Your "surface-level" friends are with you with the good times, but the true friends are the ones that are there for both the good and the bad. Certain qualities such as being able to talk to, listening to the whole story before judging, and offering support in tough times are an absolute must if a friendship should survive.

A world without friends would be a cold, depressing one. Colin Johnson (12) admits that, "Without friends, I would go into a dark corner, get into the fetal position, and suck my thumb." Ms. Anderson thinks that "being a friend is a 80/20 relationship - 80 percent is giving, and only 20 percent is taking." You must be willing to make sacrifices and always think of your friend before yourself.

It's true that a good friend is worth more than gold. You should strive to keep, and make new friends, for if you have a good friend, you are truly rich.

Check Out Our Matching Tube Socks!

Seniors: Morgan Neal-Tape, Jessica Carroll, Kelsey Macintyre, Ashley Robertson, Teresa Fish, and Taylor Trombly show their spirit during an eighth grade boy's basketball game. The matching socks were an absolute must for this event.

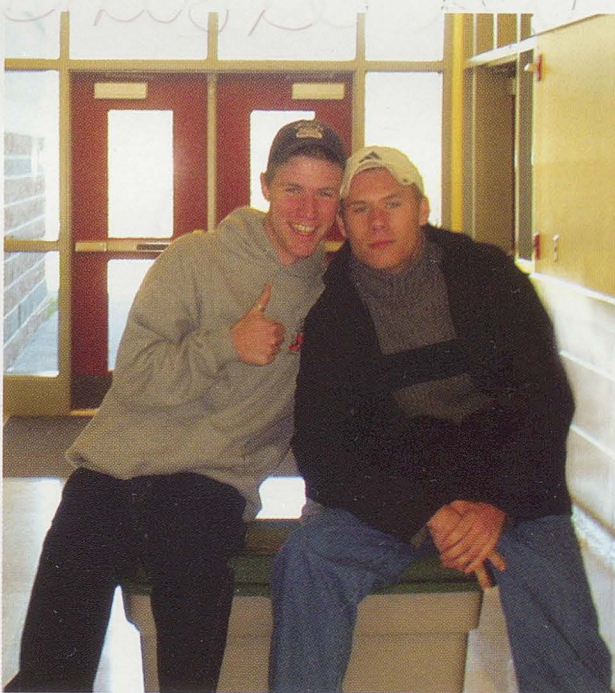

We Want You to Join Brad and Crew

Amy Sand (12), Brad Ranko (11), Katie Kelso (12), and Nicole Betson (12) show off their moves in the hall during a break from art class.

Look At That Shine...

These two shocking blonds, Kristina Berner (11) and Carolyn Burns (10) take a break from their debate to smile.

We've Got Spirit, Yes We Do...

Carmen Barr (12) and Rachel Mowry (12) had school spirit even as 5th graders. They show this spirit by dressing up as cheerleaders, on Halloween in 1995.

Get Your Arm Away From Me!

Josh Pardee (12) and Justin Rood (12) skip shop class to show off their friendship.

A Chance of a Lifetime...

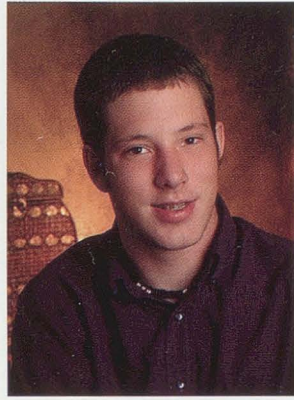

Not very many students at Monroe High School can say they traveled across the Pacific Ocean to eat fried octopus and raw eel this summer--nor might they want to. That's just what I did, though. From mid-June to July I participated in a six-week exchange to Japan that I won from a scholarship exchange program called Youth for Understanding. The trip was to broaden my cultural understanding. This entailed going to a Japanese high school for a week, visiting thousand-year-old temples and eating probably the strangest and most unfathomable food I have ever had in my entire life. The perks to the trip didn't lie simply in the sights or the adventures in meals, though. The people who I met, including my host family, were the most accepting and hospitable I had ever met in my entire life. Through them I learned what it was like not only to be Japanese, but in turn, what it meant for me to be an American.

Back In The Day...

Remember the good old days when life was care free and nothing was going to trouble the times when we would explore with our friends. Although the days have changed and our world is no longer care free, the memories we have together will last forever. Looking back the changes are evident but now the time has come for us to venture out and write our own stories. The times spent together will forever be cherished as we embark on a new adventure in our lives.

On Their Way to High School...

Each stunning young lady has prepared herself for an afternoon of fun and excitement at Monroe Middle School while celebrating their eighth grade recognition.

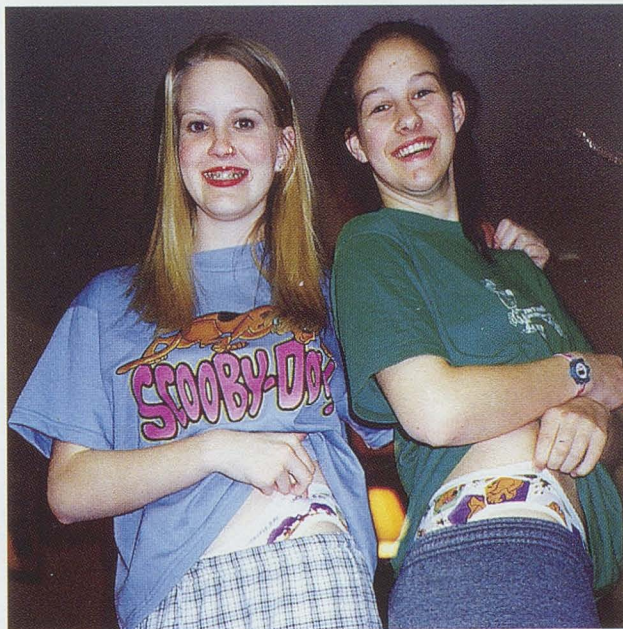

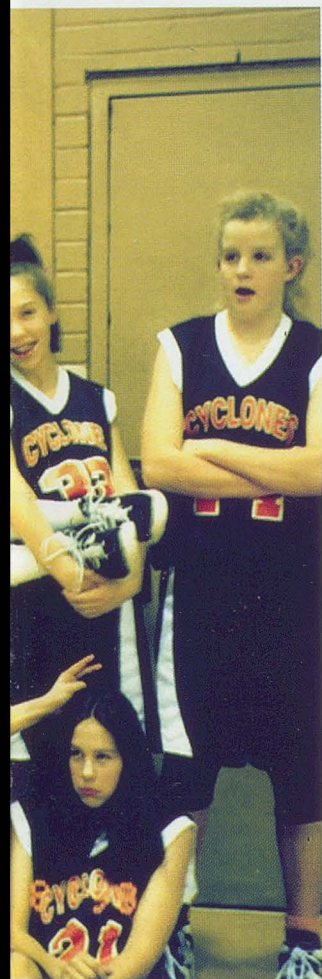

Heading Off to School...

Make way to Camp Casey...

Taylor Trombley, Kelli Green, Autumn Strumpfer, Jessica Carroll, Breck McCollum, Stacia Brough, Morgan Neal-Tape, Jennifer Squire, Ashley Robertson and Casey Coon enjoy the breeze on the ferry as they are ready to explore Camp Casey in sixth grade.

Scooby-Doo, Where Are You?

Teryn Vailar and Teresa Fish enjoy the little things in life with matching panties.

Basketball Time!

Eighth grade girls basketball team, The Cyclones, goof around after dedication and hard work paid off with an undefeated season.

Skate Away!

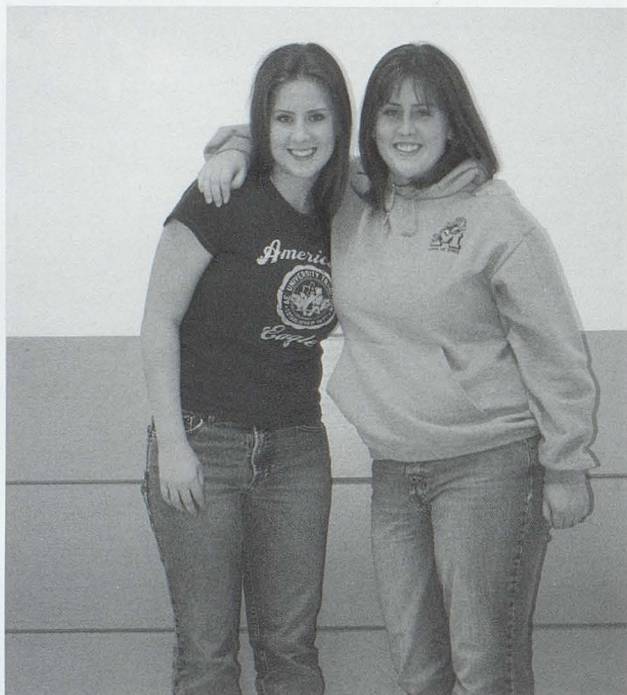

Gabe Hobbs, Tahir Tareen, Shean Jesmer and Brent Keller enjoy the sun as they skateboard at Sky River Park.

Seeing Double

Imagine having someone that looked exactly like you and there was no way escape the conformity. How would you react? Well, these twins say it's the best thing that could have ever happened to them. Having someone who looks like you, and is also your best friend, is the greatest feeling in the world. They can wear each other's clothes, switch places, and if they got in trouble, they could always just blame the other one for it. Make sure if you're walking down the halls and see someone you know has a twin, make sure you have the right one before calling for them.

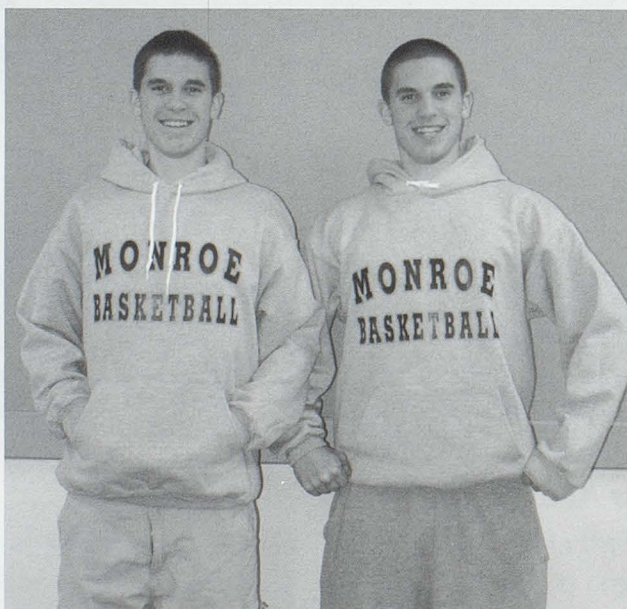

The Best of Friends...

Nicole Archer (12) and Stephanie Archer (12) pride themselves on being the only seniors who get to share in the joy of being an identical twin.

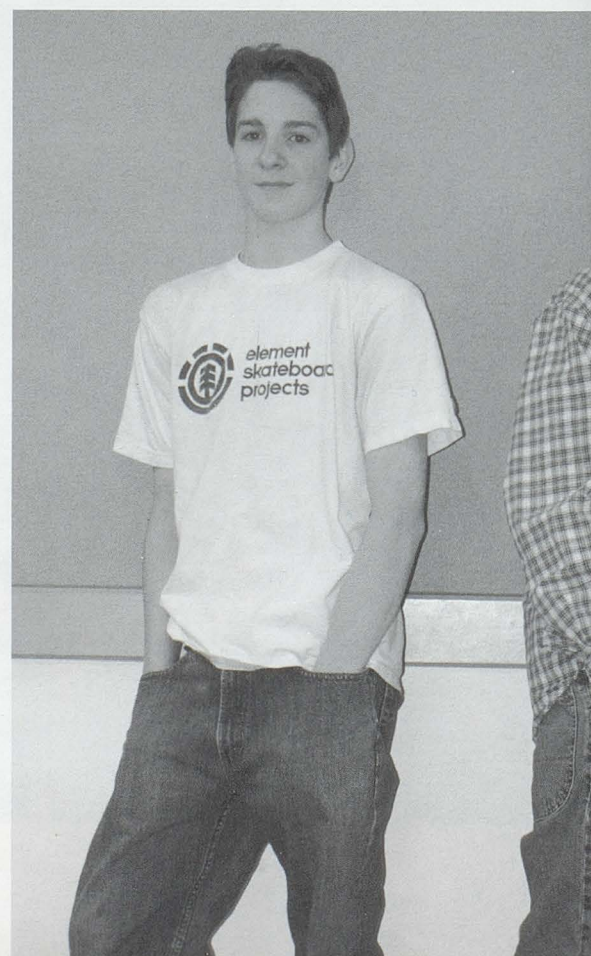

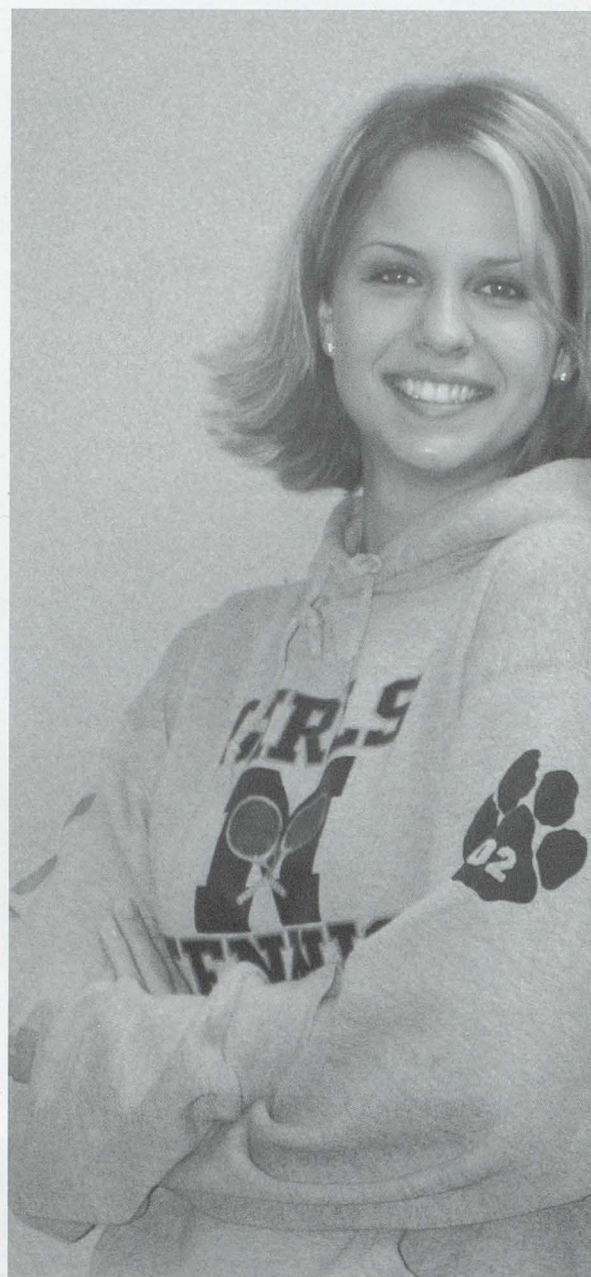

Twins Playing Hoops...

Virgil Brown (10) and Zach Brown (10) hoof it to school wearing matching sweatsuits. Both boys were exhausted from the basketball game the night before. And what better way to relax that in sweats?

Reptile Twins...

Chris Dibacco (10) and Nick Dibacco (10) strike a pose for the camera. Both guys get their charming manners from their dad who owns the reptile zoo in Sultan.

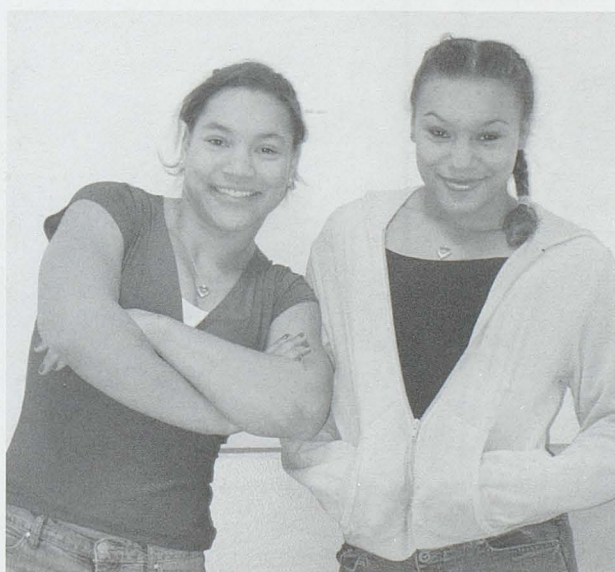

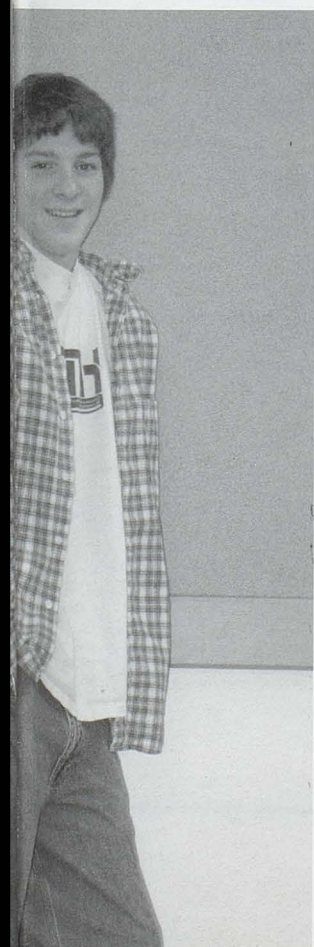

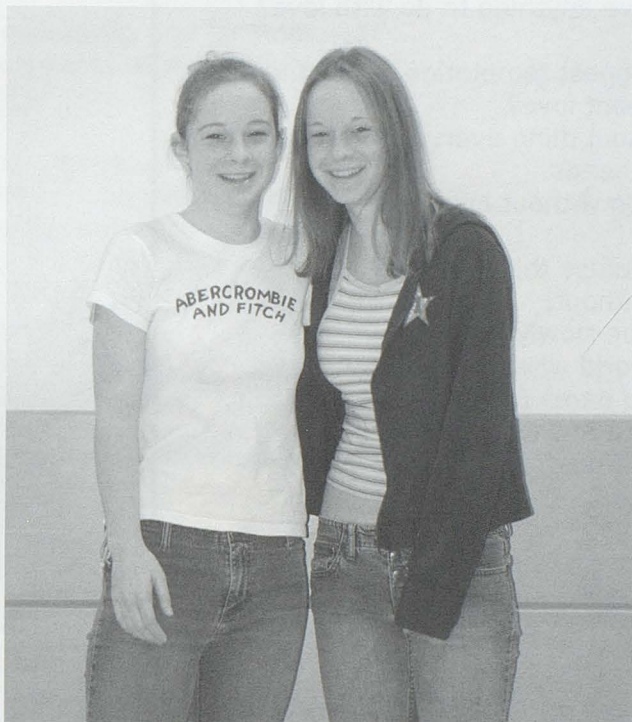

Tennis Twins...

Christine Arany-Kovacs (11) and Michelle Arany-Kovacs (11) stand back to back in their tennis sweatshirts. They both played on JV their sophomore year.

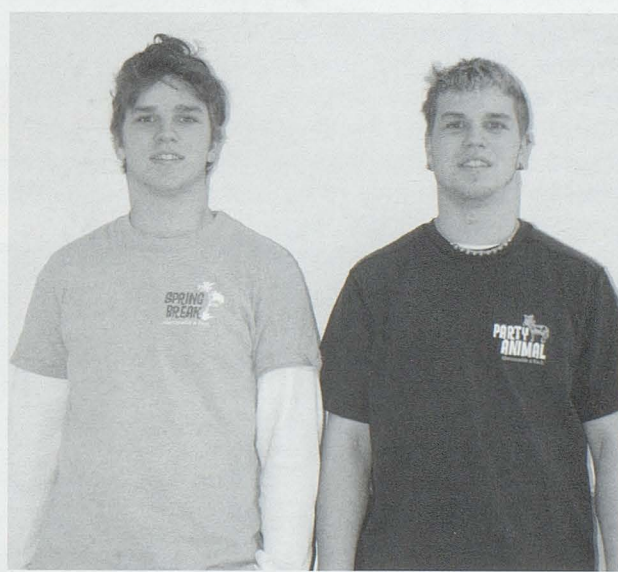

Smiling Doubles...

Mary Morris (10) and Rachel Morris (10) skip class to take a picture for the yearbook.

Buff Twins...

Sharollette Hill (10) and Nicole Hill (10) show their muscles off for the camera. Both girls performed gymnastics at this year's "Orange" Assembly.

Different Doubles...

Richard Ellis (10) and Russell Ellis (10) smile for the camera. They're exactly the same on the outside with the exception that one of them has a lot of piercings and the other doesn't.

A Selection of Student's Work

Amore

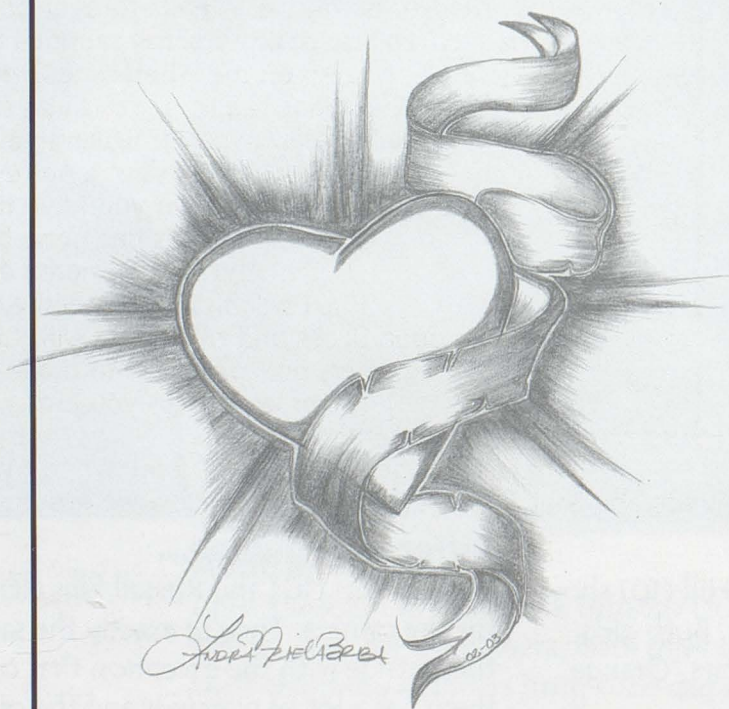

For who is stronger?
Is it the one who dares to love?
Or is it the one
Who will not have anything to do with love?
To refuse love
Would be the biggest temptation ever conquered.
Who wouldn't want love?
For love is the soul thing everyone not only wants,
But just simply needs.
Could you live on without love?
Think again.
If you were to refuse the one thing
You can't live without,
Would you not be slowly killing yourself?
Deprived in a world where you execute love.
For the one who dares to love wholeheartedly,
Will conquer hate and always triumph.
Under any conditions,
Unconditional love,
Just love.

There's Always More

by Lindsey Briggs

A disturbed secluded soul rests within me
The walls in my room surround me like dark empty spaces
Everything inside is safe and forlorn so no one can harm
Thinking about yesterday and all of the days before, what I could've done or Something more

Once, I had this dream, thinking it was reality
Everyone was getting along

No hypocrites
No lying
No peer pressure
And no denying

I thought this dream might last, but nothing ever does
When I awoke everything was clear

Everything was fake, unpleasant, miserable, and far from near Thinking about yesterday and all the days before, what I could've done

"There's always more"

"There's always more"

Then I met new great friends who listened, shared, and never compared
Who they are and who I am are totally different people wandering the earth
With love and ambition we stumbled upon the same complicated mission

Not knowing where it's taking us or where it will end

With our hopes and dreams maybe it will never end

We are the best of friends forever and always

On an inevitable path of personal sacrifice and trust

Lean on me when times were tough

We always managed to get through the rough

Who they are and who I am are totally different people wandering this earth

With anger and laughter we equal the same

Never to part but to remain

We will never end, we will always be together
We are the best of friends forever and always
On an inevitable path of personal sacrifice and trust

Lean on me when times were tough

We always managed to get through the rough

Forever and always I'm missing you already and you're not even gone

The pain I will feel when you have moved on

It has gone by so fast

And the moments didn't last

But I will always remember my past

The good times and the bad, I will remember!

Thanks to, not to all, but to those very few

you know who you are, who stuck

by me and

cared and never questioned me when I was weak

You are my friends and that I can say because hey, now we are on our way, to find a future that seems so distant and far

To get away from what drove us bazaar!

Now we are all off and secluded, to spread our wings and discover the unknown

"There's always more"

"There's always more..."

So you won the Lottery...

What would you do if you were to win the lottery? Would you buy that new Viper that caught your eye? Or would you wisely spend your money on a lifetime supply of candy? Travel the world or give to charity? Here's what a few students said they would do with the money if they would be so fortunate to get such luck.

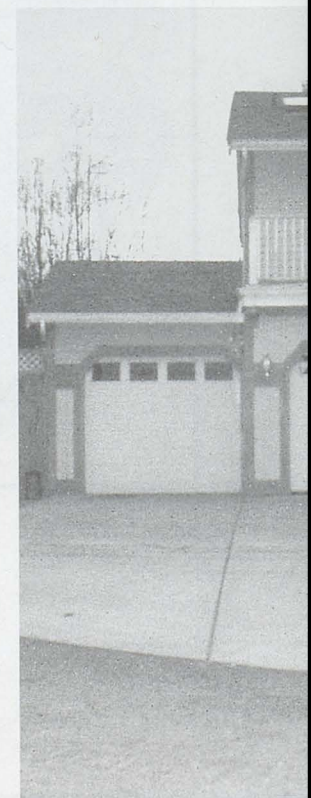

That's Right, This is My Ride...

Danny Kremple (10) saunters up to the truck that he would buy if millions of dollars was thrown in his lap.

Congratulations....

Jessica Hatcher (10) has just announced to Cassie Mello-Reece (12) that she has won the Mega Millions Lottery. As can be expected, Cassie freaked out and even scared some teachers sitting in their classrooms with her ecstatic screams.

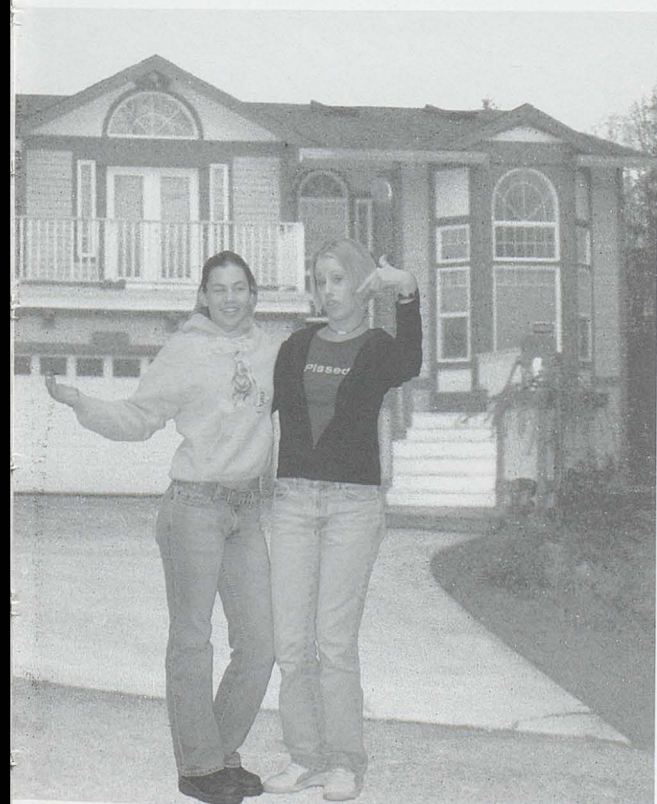

Oh, it's Hard to be Rich...

Jessica Smiley (10) shows us that she has way too much cash to handle.

Watch out, Bon Marche...

Kristina Friend (10) said that if she had won the Lotto, she would do some hard-core shopping.

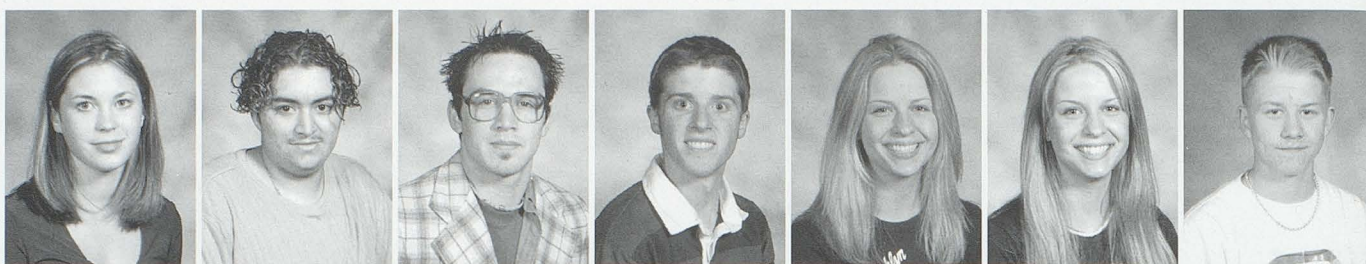

Look at Our New House!!!

Whitney Mueller (11) and Rachel Zuch (11) show off their new house in the Hamptons, that they swear they would get if given the chance and the money.

On it's hard to be rich...
Let's smile (D) know as that the last way too much can be hard to
So you know
the last way to be rich is to be rich in the way you live

How Do I Get Down?

As I walked back from the science fair, not thinking of the car in the road, I felt this sudden threat. The car swerved toward me, my natural reaction was to jump to the nearest building, which I abnormally stuck to. Who would have thought that when I jumped out of fear, I would have jumped 70 feet high onto the side of building? Then it occurred to me, early that evening I was testing new radiation technology, when a spider crept into the radiation beam. The spider, glowing of radiation jumped onto my hand and bit me with its piercing teeth, injecting me with radiated spider venom. Rethinking the events of my day, could it be possible that this spider was the cause of my new super natural powers and abilities to have the speed, strength, agility, and the unerring sixth sense of an arachnid. After rethinking the events of my day this is the only possibility of where my powers came from.

From Thailand to Finland to Germany to U.S.

Over the last year, many great people come to our home. There was Maike Truels (Germany), Santhon Chirathipan (Thailand), and Varpu Mantyla (Finland). When asked about cultural differences, Varpu (12) said, "We don't have a kindergarten, and we receive grades on a basis of 4-10, where 4 is failing." Maike (12) explained, "We have a system of 3 grade lengths. Depending on what you choose you can go until 9th grade, 10th, or 13th." Also, Santhon (11) clarified, "We have 10, 11, and 12, not sophomore, Junior, and Senior. We're also required to wear a school uniform, a P.E. uniform, and a native uniform. Plus we can't select the classes we want to take. In addition, we can't change our classes either."

These three foreign exchange students gave us their advice to those thinking of traveling abroad. "Don't be shy, be Confident" Varpu

"You should learn the laws before you go" Maike

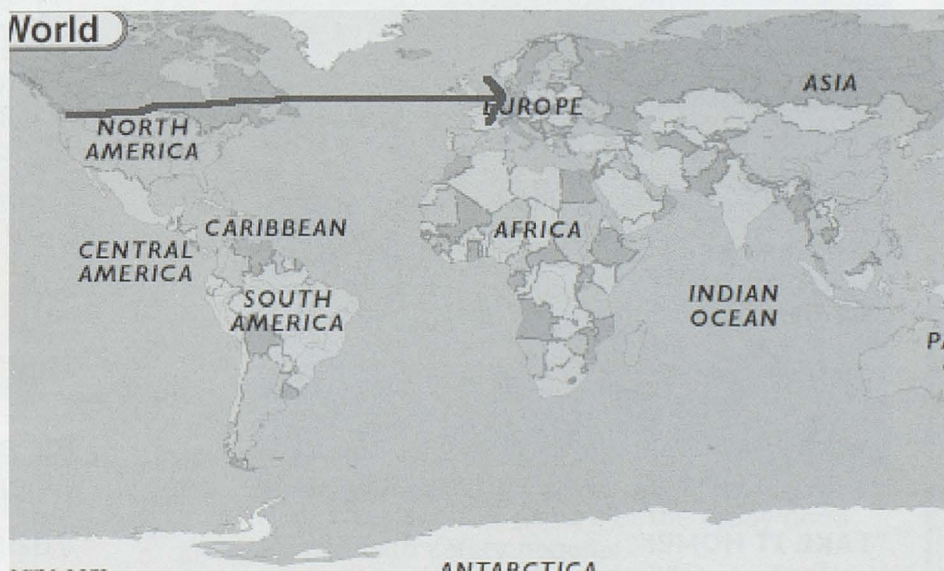

"If you want to discover the true Thailand, go to some of the smaller cities" Santhon

Find the Six Differences

Every day you look at the newspaper or watch the news and you see pictures. These pictures affect your view on a subject and what you believe, because seeing is believing. Or is it? Pictures are easily changed, altered, and in a very real sense can lie to you. See if you can find the six lies in each set of pictures. Also try and guess which picture is the original. (See index for answers)

Then check out the page opposite of this one to see what you can do to your friend with a simple photo editing program. Did anyone see the movie "The Ring"? Remember pictures where the faces were twisted, we can even re-create that effect.

A BLAST FROM OUR PAST ~ LEADING IDOLS

Both Jimi Hendrix & Kurt Cobain originally came from Washington and suffered a tragic death that shocked our nation and music industry. People looked up to them as leading icons in the music business. Acknowledging our past, they both amazed fans and charted to the top lists. Although tragedy had to hit both of these young stars who had changed the shape and face of music, their music still inspires today.

Kurt Cobain, a loving father, husband and adored by millions. As the lead singer as well as guitarist of his metal group NIRVANA, Kurt was originally born in Hoquim, WA, on Feb. 20th, 1967. In the year of 1986 Nirvana the group was formed leading them as a future success.

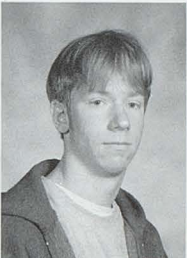

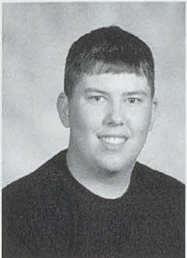

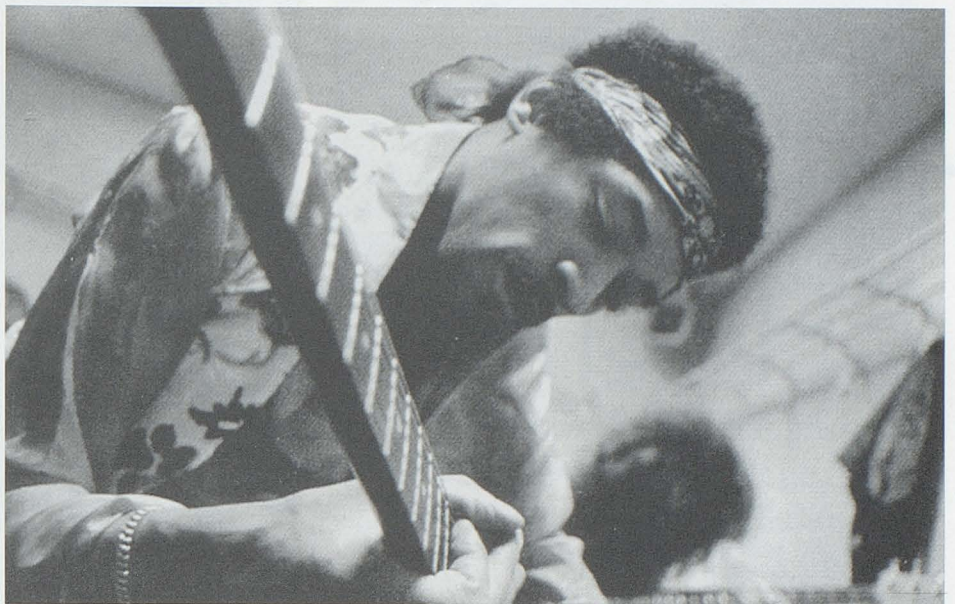

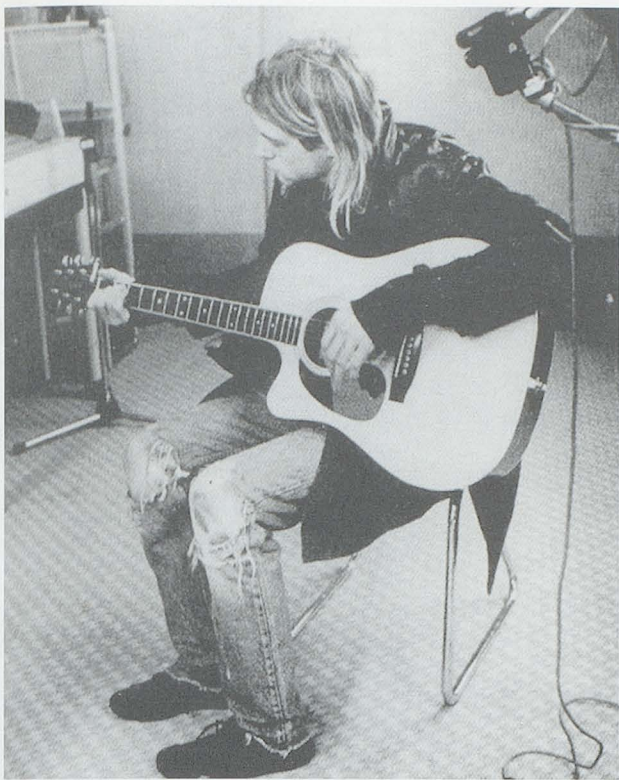

Although we could never understand Kurt Cobain, he lived a suicidal life. In one event, he was rushed to the hospital after consuming 50 prescription pain-killer pills with champagne. Then on April 5th, he barricaded himself, then put a shotgun in his mouth and pulled the trigger. His body was then discovered by an electrician who had come to check out the house with a suicide note. Two days after his death, 5000 people gathered in Seattle for a special candlelight Vigil in his honor. Dwelling over the evidence of Kurt's death, many have certain theory's upon this incident, like did Kurt really commit suicide or was he murdered?

Jimi Hendrix, a guitar rock legend who died of drug overdose during his 4-year reign as a superstar. Jimi was born in Seattle and is known to have changed the face and form of music. He was a talented songwriter, dynamic performer, and studio pioneer. During his reign he performed with R & B masters and remained a chart topper. Devastating news hit the world when it was concluded that Jimi Hendrix had died in London on September 18th, 1970, when he was on his European Tour.

Kurt Cobain's final resting place is at the Wishkah River in Washington, his ashes were scattered all along it. You can still visit the grave site where Jimi Hendrix is still buried today:

Greenwood Memorial Park
350 Monroe Ave NE
Renton, WA 98056 - 4151

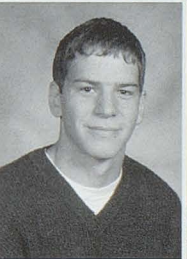

However if you'd like to find further information about these two legends of our time, you can visit their room at the Experience Music Project (EMP) in Seattle, WA.

Ride...Ride...Ride....Or. ...Hitchin' A Ride!

MHS students have a wide range of vehicles. Fords, Volkswagons, Toyotas, Hondas and other brand of cars overflow the lots.

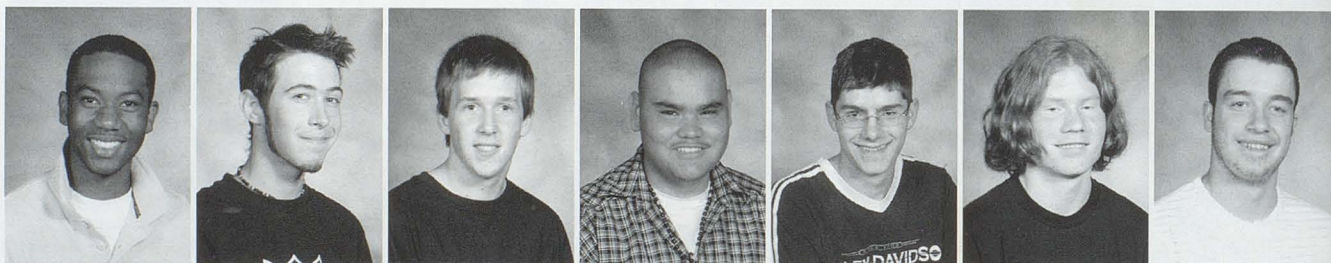

Some students put time, money and effort into their cars. They range from being lifted, grill guards, fog lights, new added rims/chromes/polished and other car accessories to complete the look.

Not all students have cars. It's very common for teens to have local jobs in order to save up enough money to buy a car for themselves. But in the mean time, they either bum rides off friends or ride the yellow school bus home.

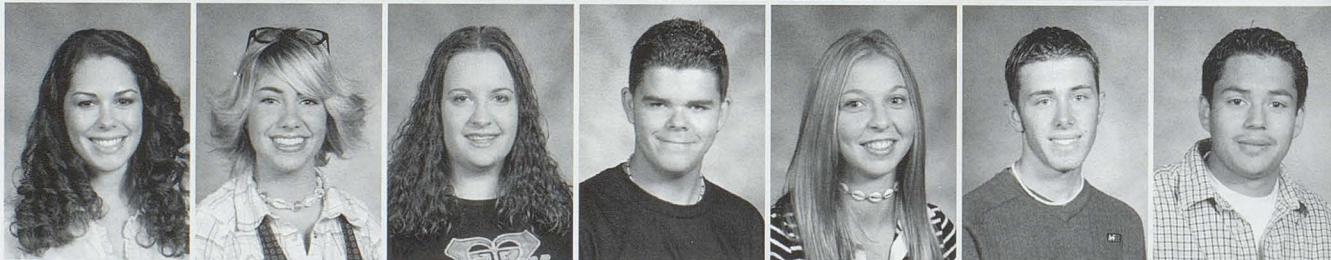

Owning a car is not only the best thing, but it allows students to be able to do things in a split second. It allows us to feel free.

The Day America Stood Still

Sept. 11th 2001, at 8:48 EDT the north tower of the two Twin Towers in New York city was hit by a commercial flight, number 11. Then, at 9:03 EDT the south tower was hit by flight 175. Also at 9:40 EDT flight 7 crashed at the Pentagon, taking out a sizeable chunk of the structure. There was one flight that didn't make it to it's target. It was flight 93, which many believed that it was headed for the White House. Some brave souls tried to stop the hijackers, they struggled in the cockpit causing the plane to crash close to Shanksville, Pennsylvania. Most of the hijackers were armed with box-cutters. Many people on board called their loves one knowing that they would never see them again.

Takin' A Break

Who doesn't ever get bored in class? We all do. We stroll out and about during class. We space out when we need to be paying attention. We even try not to stare at the clock to see when we get out of class, but that only ends up making it twice as long. We're here 5 days a week and that's long enough.

Sophomores Surround MHS

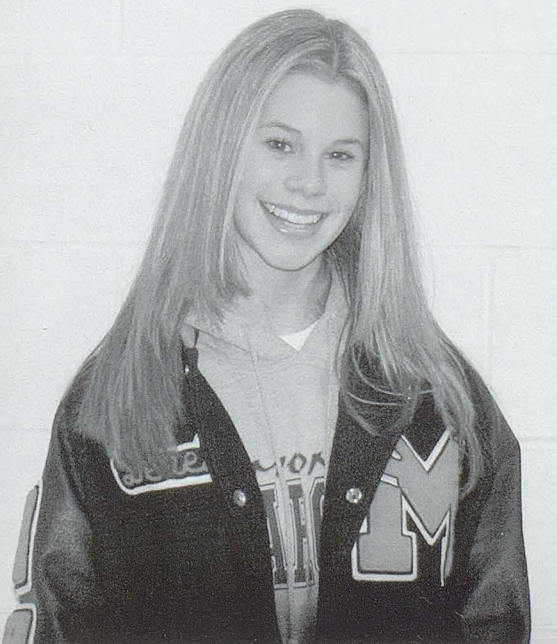

Defining students is hard, but defining sophomores is easy. They're the underdogs, plain and simple. As they get older their perspectives change from the person they are, to the person they would like to be. Sophomores go from being head honcho at the junior high to small fry at the high school.

Sophomores learn to live with their status, while still having fun at the same time and integrating the grades. Even though they're the last in line for parking spots and most of them still have to ride the bus, the majority replied "It's better than walking in the rain." Sophomores also have to battle with their counselors against juniors and seniors for the best classes.

Sophomores: Kara Rassmussen, Kaylee DiMaggio, Katrina Sanders, Julia Martinez, and Mindy Smith gather for a picture after basketball practice.

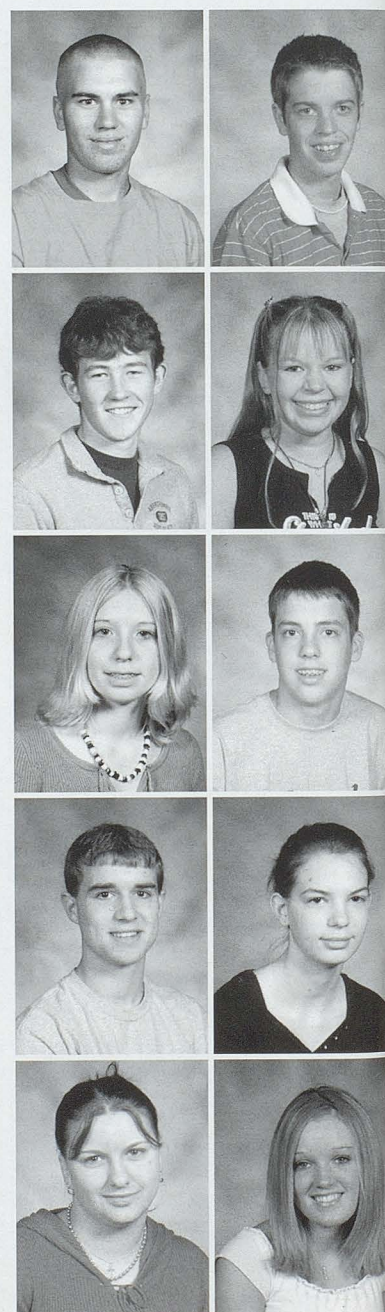

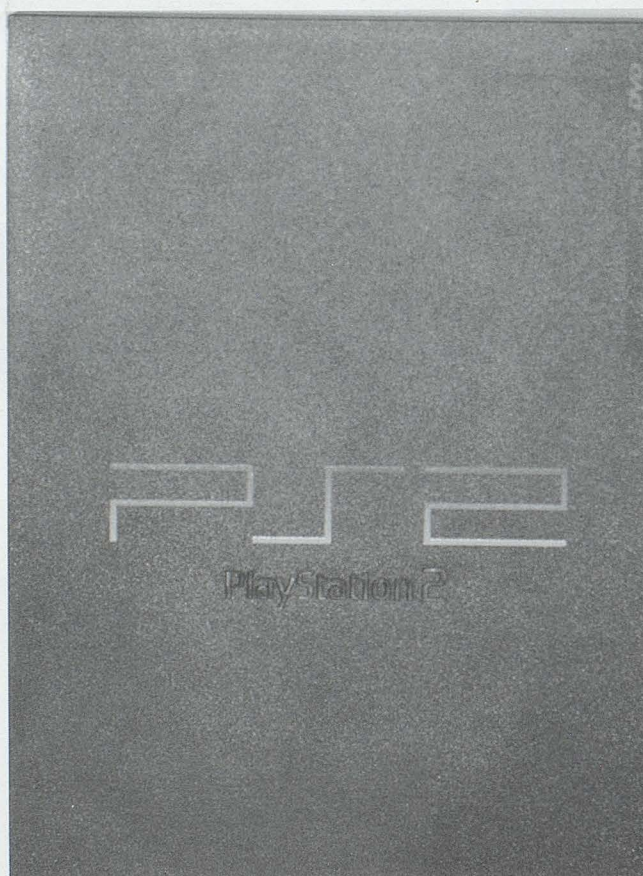

Sierra Yri (10) has taken a liking to Monroe High School. She has chosen to get involved with the school by joining Key Club and volunteering her time at the annual Kiwanis Food Drive.

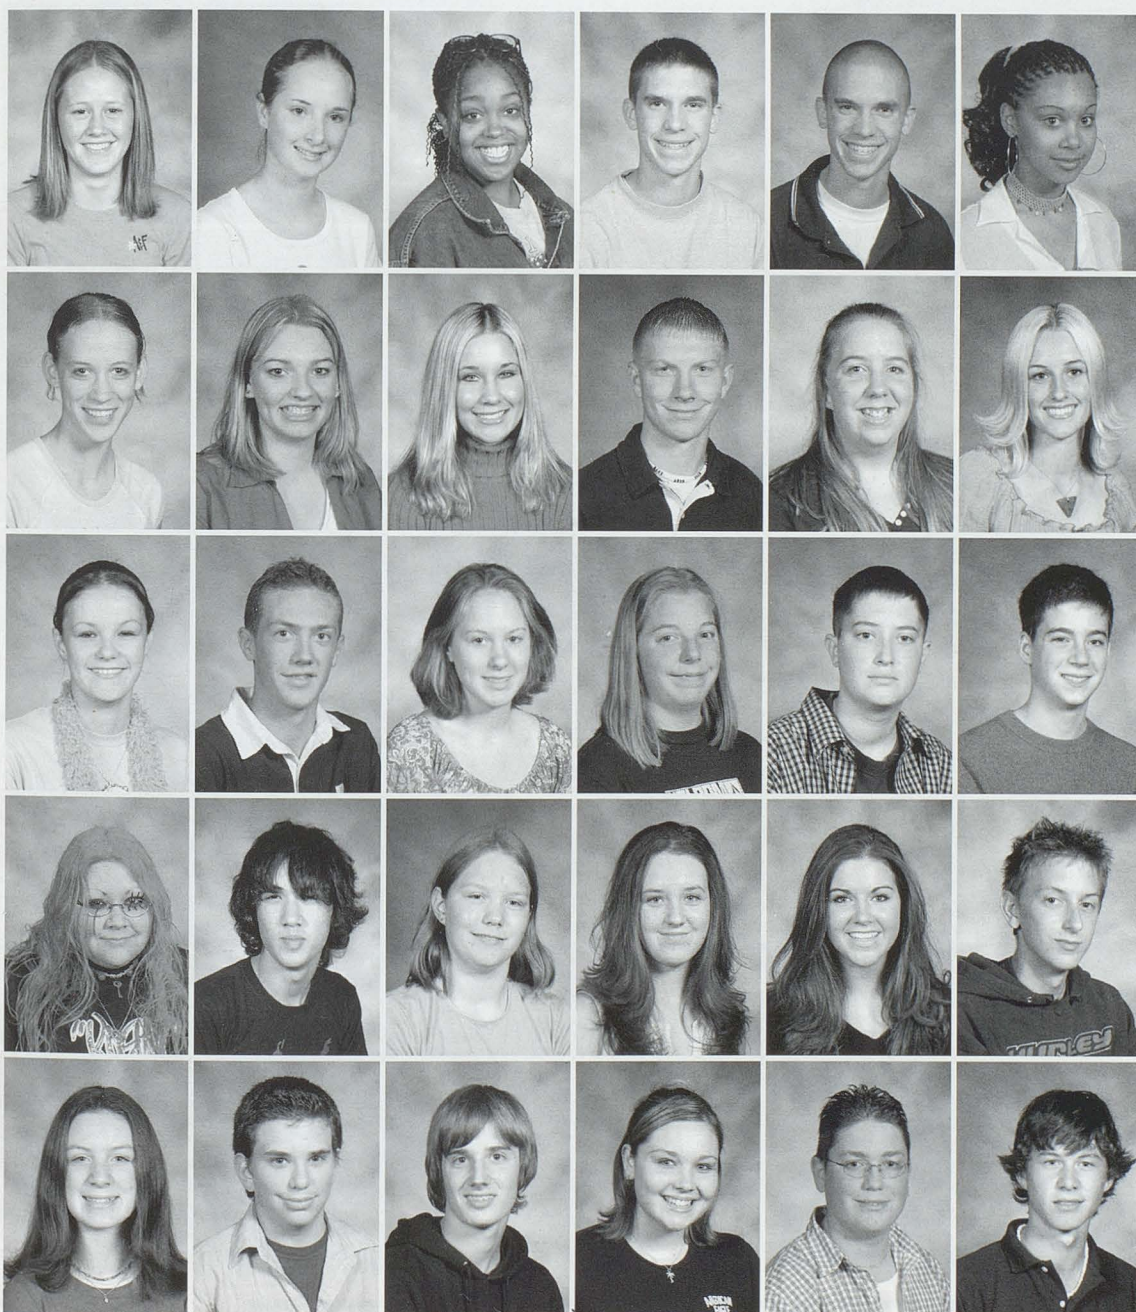

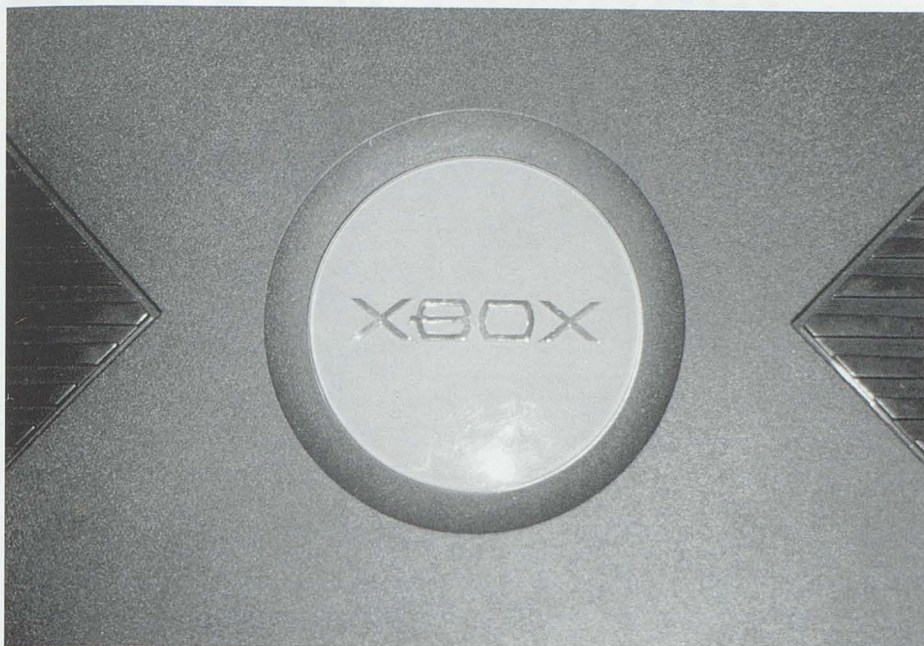

What's Better?

X-BOX or PLAYSTATION 2?

So which is better: X-Box or PS2? This is the question that we set out to prove. Some people say that X-Box is better, while some say PS2 is the ultimate. But, there is only one right answer. We asked two hundred video game fanatics which one they liked more. Danny Ayres (12) "I just purchased a X-Box with my Christmas money and I love Ghost Recon." We asked Anton Podolsky (12) the same question and he said, "PS2 because the ninja games are better." Although both the X-Box and PS2 are good, the tolls added up and the X- box was the favorite among Monroe High School students.

Everything you wanted to know about being a T.A. =

Pros: fifty minutes of joyous freedom. That's a whole period to play "ruler hockey," race in the wheelie chairs, or even catch up on homework. If you know how to pick your teachers, your T.A. experience could be a breeze.

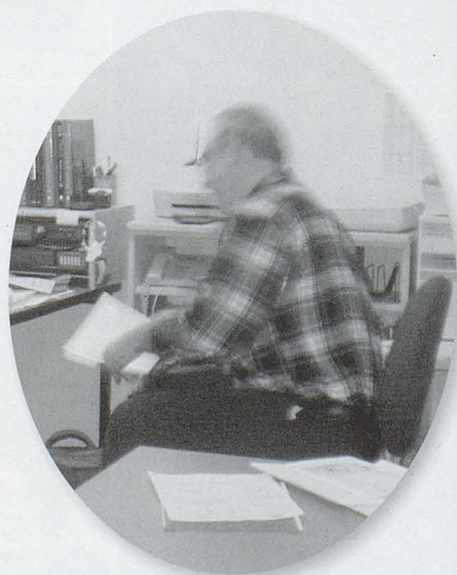

Cons: there are always those teachers who like to make their T.A.s actually do something. Tragically, most T.A.s end up correcting papers, running copies and that sort of thing.

They Fit Together Like A Puzzle

ABOVE: Gregg Piland (11) and Jake Harris (11), both T.A.s, spend their entire fifth period toiling under the oppressive thumb of Mr. Orr.

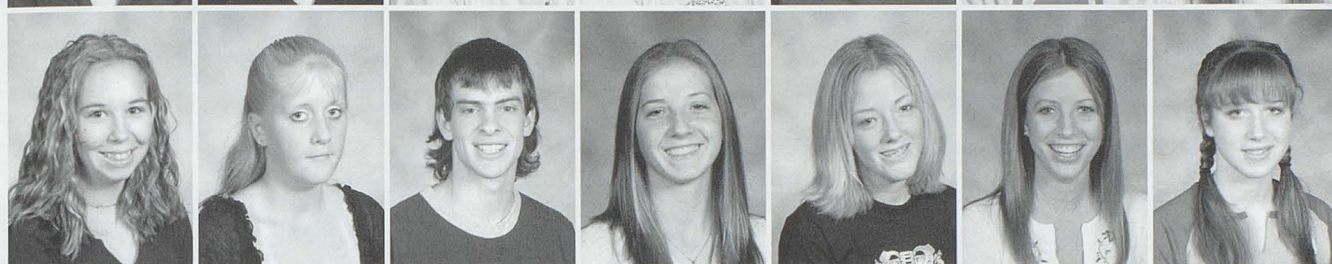

BOTTOM RIGHT: Mr. Orr, The Oppressive Thumb.

T.A. (noun): 1. common abbreviated initials for "Teacher's Assistant" 2. any person or persons who is voluntarily commissioned by an educational official to perform any number of menial tasks, usually in exchange for school credit.

ROCK and ROLL

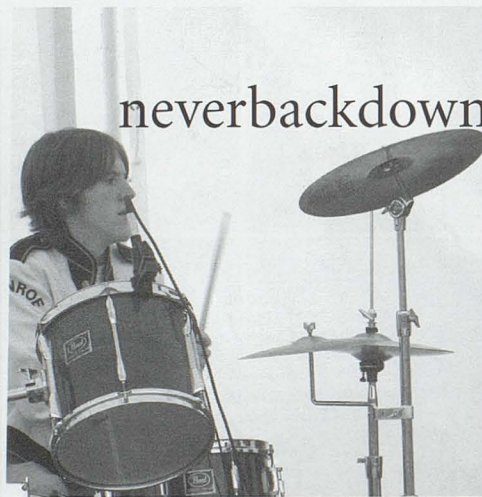

YOU KNOW, for having a reputation as a backwoods haven for toothless yokels, we at Monroe sure do harbour an abundant smorgasboard of musical tastes. We've long since traded in our washboards and banjos for guitars and amplifiers. Here are some bands from our very own high school that are worth keeping an eye on and lending an ear to.

The Student Store

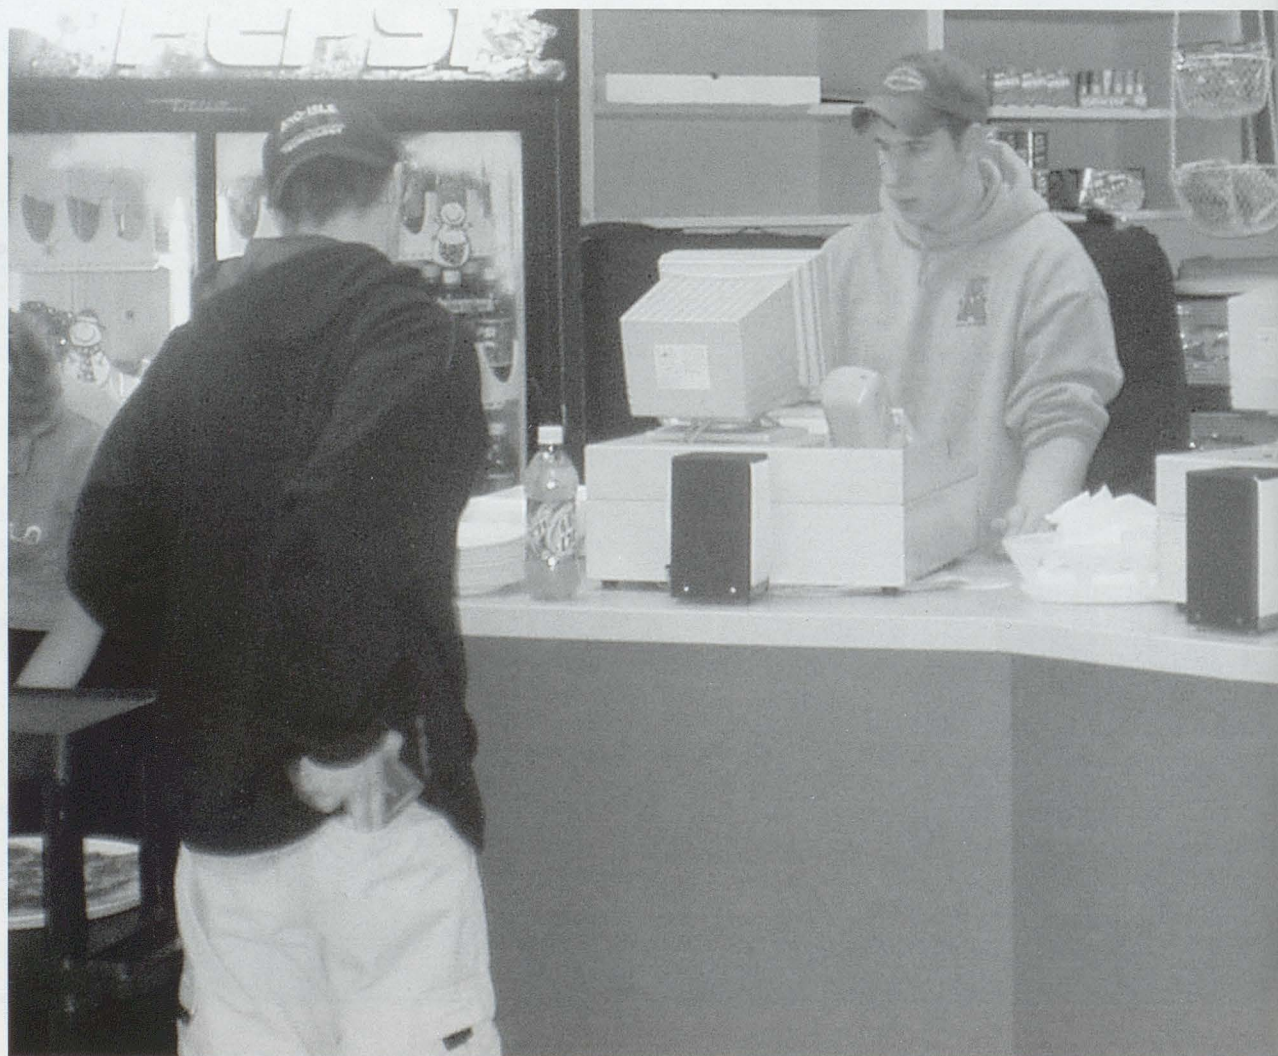

As you make your way to lunch, you can smell the sweet aroma of Otis Spunkmyer cookies. You start to go into the cafeteria. But wait, that delicious aroma is coming from the student store! Everyone rushes to the store to grab their pizza, candy, coffee, yogocinno's, cups of noodles and cookies that they desire while students who work there brace themselves for the rush.

The fourth period class is more than just a class, its a business. A business where money was handled, products and goods were paid for and customers walked away satisfied. The students store is a perfect example of a class that gets you ready for the real world. It teaches students how to run their own business someday.

Great Service

Joe Dobish (12), rings up a student who's buying his all-time favorite Mountain Dew.

"Cheese!"

Ms. Johnson takes a quick pose and smiles for the camera before she heads back to work as student store advisor.

Where is Tech Support?

Where is the tech support? Every day, all day, students have problems with computers. We have all had trouble with the monitors and problems saving files. We've had to deal with extremely slow computers and the biggest complaint of all is, "where did all the games go?"

Fixing the key board.

Caleb Johnson (11) takes out his frustration for computer keys that stick, on the girl next to him. She deserved it for all those snide remarks.

I'm Just Adjusting the Monitor...

Scott Bushaw (10) is trying to fix the computer monitor that, for no apparent reason, changed to a beautiful shade of purple.

The Typical School Computer

You can't see it in this photo but the computer screen has an annoying flicker. The screen, usually a clean crisp image, appears a strange green color.

SKATEBOARDING AT A NEW LEVEL

I Hope I Don't Break My Knees...

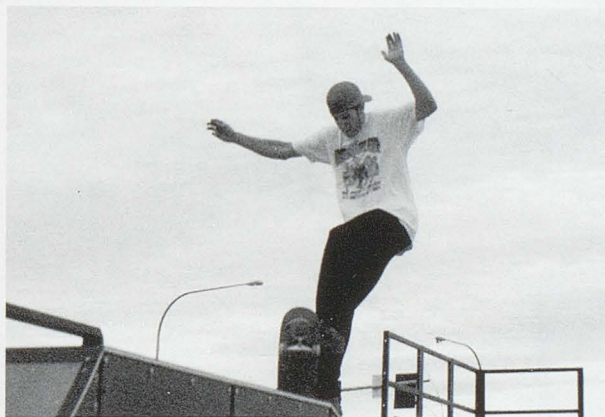

Brent Keller (12) goes for perfection as he grabs his board and masters the perfect landing.

With a brand new skate park that opened up this year, there's not a day that goes by where you don't see it in use. Unless, of course, the weather is bad.

Kids ranging from elementary school to high school all join together to practice their tricks and measure their progress in the sport of skateboarding.

The smaller kids, who are often found sporting rollerblades or bikes, have to constantly be on the lookout for the bigger kids who tend to dominate the new skate park.

Hold on!

Ian Wood (12) tries out his new skateboarding trick for the camera. Lucky for him, the camera was actually fast enough to take the picture.

SKATEBOARDING AT A NEW LEVEL

From 1 hour to 10 hours, the new level of skateboarding is a challenge for all. It's a new level of skill and a new level of fun. The new level of skateboarding is a challenge for all. It's a new level of skill and a new level of fun. The new level of skateboarding is a challenge for all. It's a new level of skill and a new level of fun.

With a brand new skate park, it's a challenge for all. It's a new level of skill and a new level of fun. The new level of skateboarding is a challenge for all. ACADEMICS

The Best Class Ever?

Considered one of the most fun and interesting classes, physical education, aka PE, is a very popular class among MHS students. Having this class offers students challenges, variety, and the chance to have fun. This class is easily enjoyed, and after sitting in chairs almost all day, who wouldn't jump at the chance to get a little bit of exercise in?

The Ball's Mine...

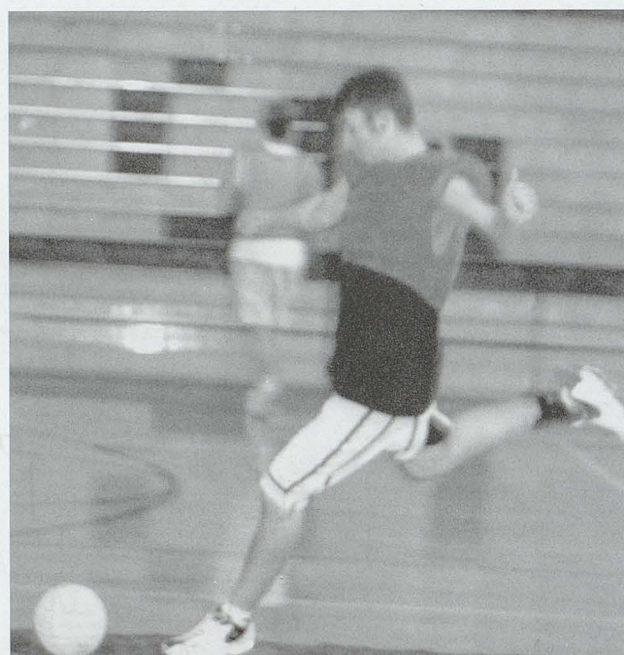

Andrew Ricks (11) and Carlos Anderson (10) both run for the soccer ball.

Now, That's How It's Done...

Chelsea Binder (11) pulls off an extraordinary save for the ping-pong tournament

... And Then He Slipped

Just kidding. Kyle Crowley (11) kicks the soccer ball across the court to his waiting teammate.

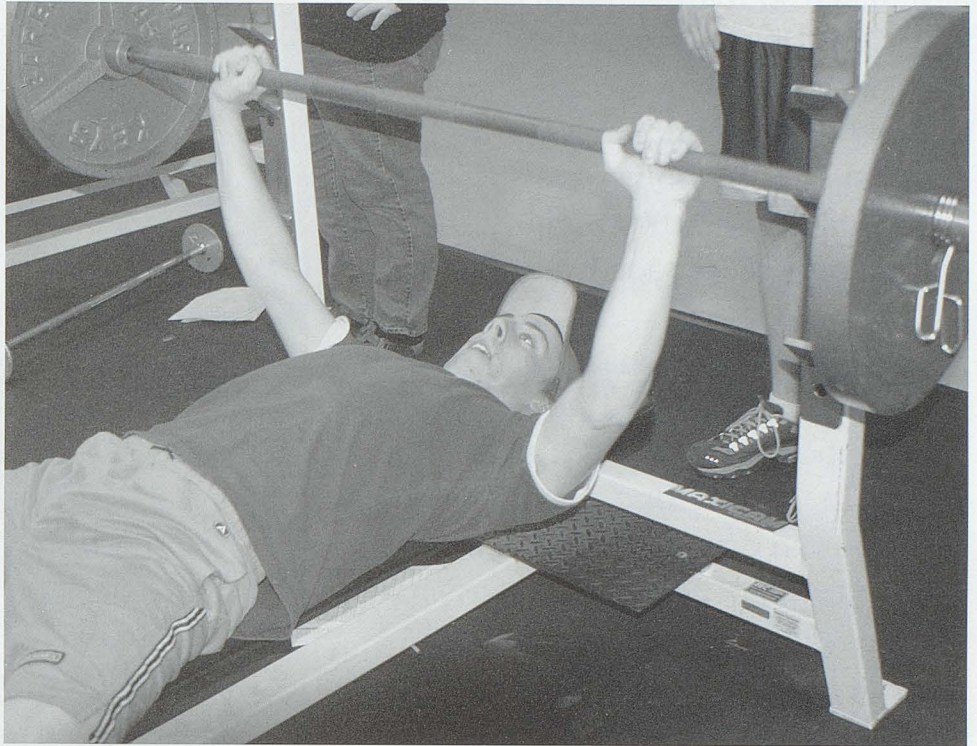

Just Like the Pro's..

Andrew Snider (12) hits the volleyball across the net and scores a point for the team.

One More Set and That's That...

Skyler Goodknight (12) lifts with his class.

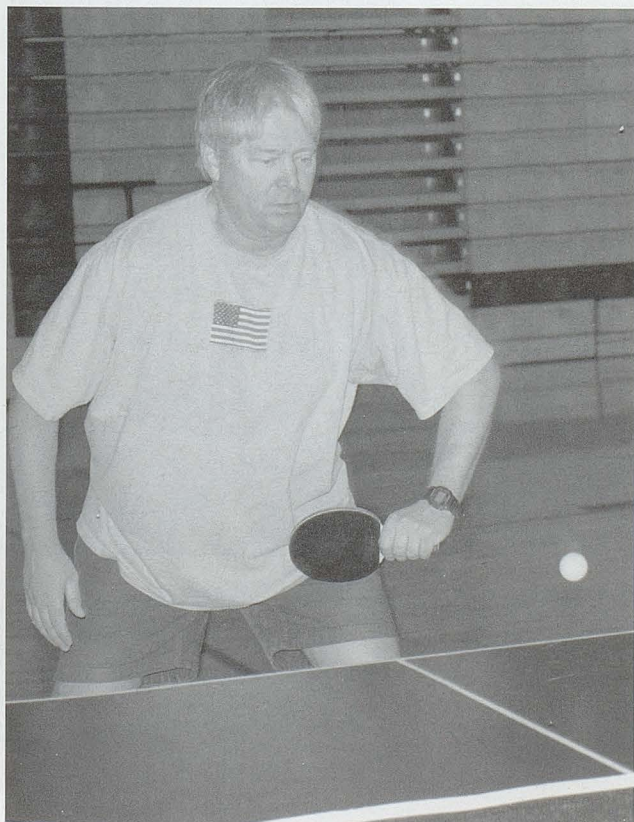

Putting on the Dance Moves...

You Beat Me, You Fail...

Mr. Bemis shows the students what ping pong is all about.

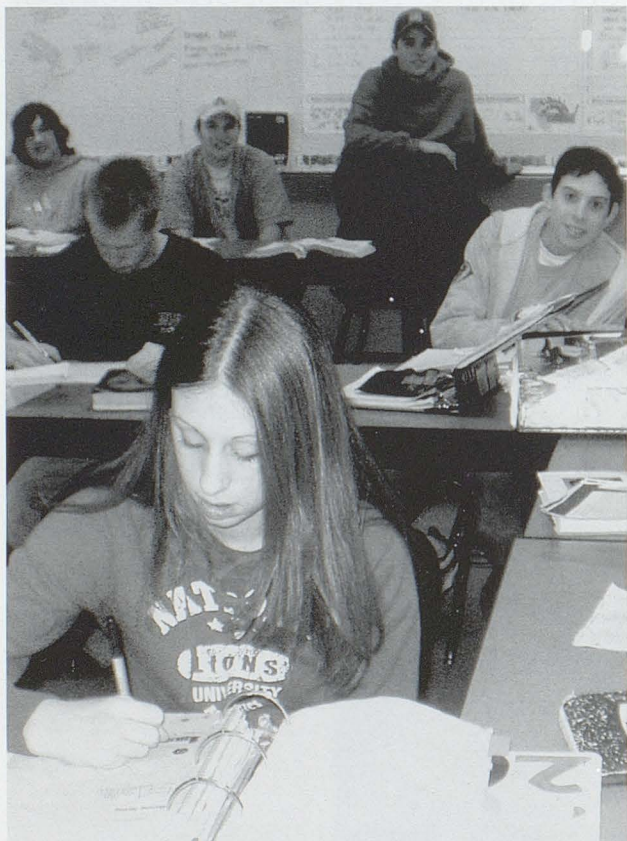

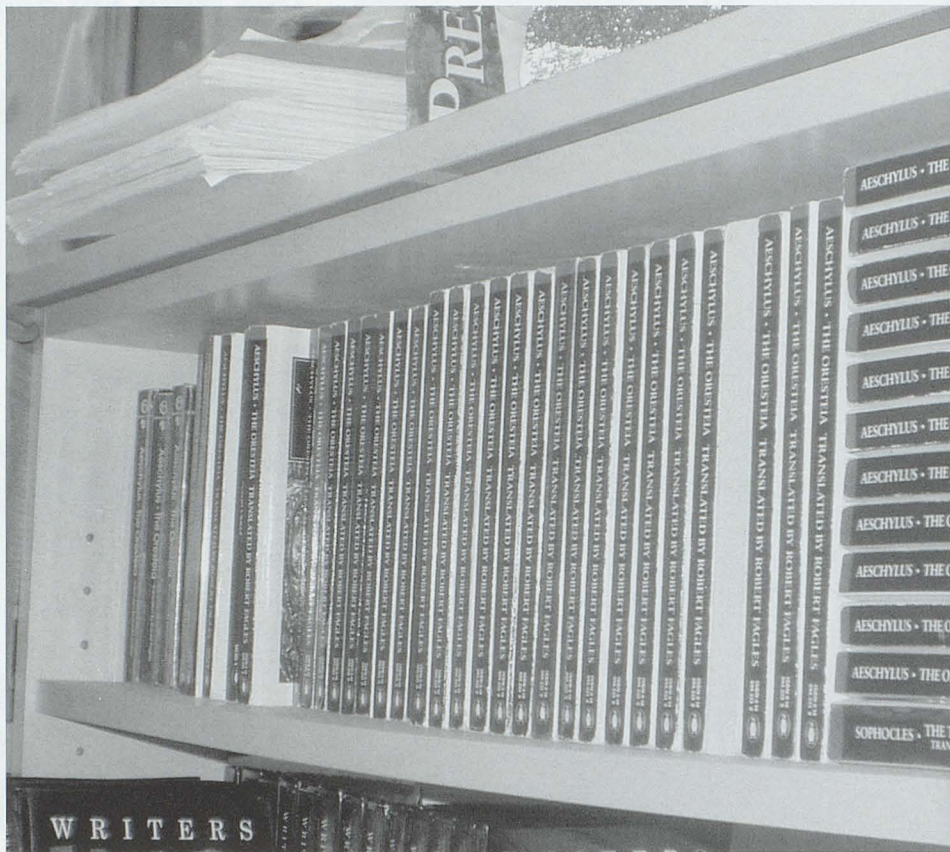

What's with English?

By the time you graduate, you will have taken so many English class that you'll want to bang your head on a desk. What's funny is that some people will come out sounding like a modern-day Shakespeare, while others will make you prefer listening to a whiny, yapping dog than their 30 page tribute to John Wayne.

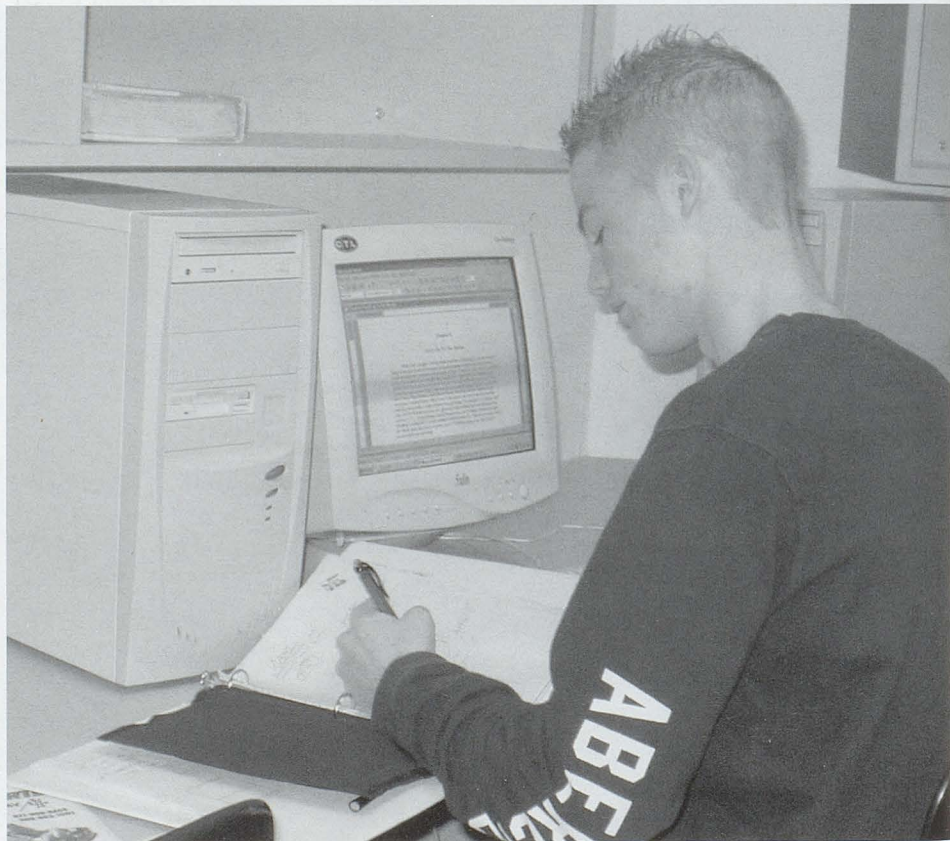

Some just have a knack for writing and others, well, they don't. The most important part is trying. If you're sincere in your writing, then that's the best you can do and that's important.

On the opposite page, an anonymous writer submitted this piece, and we've decided that it's up to you to decide if they have skill, or if you prefer the dog.

A Regular Shakespeare At Work...

These hard workers amaze their teachers by the incredible stories they create.

Great, Now If I Could Actually See The Screen...

Scott Oots (12) works diligently on a English paper. Too bad he can't see what he's typing because of the school computer.

A Tremendously Short Story

ANONYMOUS

Once upon a time, in small city (or maybe it was a big town... I can't really remember), there was this one guy. Actually, there were lots of guys in this big town once upon a time, but this one in particular was special. His name was Stewart. Why, you ask, was he special? Good question. Because, of course, everyone is special in one way or another.

Stewart liked to go for long walks in the woods. There was this one place way back in the deep dank and secluded forest where eleven trees converged in one spot to form a sort of seat where he used to sit and read books. The whole scene was truly quite posh. Sunlight dripped through the overhead canopy and fell into yellow trapezoids of light on the pages of his books. So there he sat every afternoon, reading and thinking and inhaling about twelve and a half million dust mites. Sometimes he forgot his glasses and his eyes would begin to hurt. When this happened his mom would say, "Stewart, it looks like you've got zombie eyeballs again."

Stewart was listening to jazz records in his room one day when he was suddenly very aware of how lonely he was. He wasn't lonely because he was a bad-looking guy, persay. On the contrary, lots of girls liked him. But herein lied the Problem: all of the girls that liked him were congenial schmucks. Even those that seemed harmless at first ended up being terrible, too, for it's a widely accepted fact that love (in it's purist form) turns reasonable, able-minded people into schmucks in very short amount of time. It was sort of a Catch-22.

When Stewart was a wee lad he read a fascinating book with a red cover entitled "The Glories of the Roman Empire." Ever since that day he had secretly vowed to skip school and run away to Italy where he could swim the channels of Venice every day. Several years later he was brushing up his Periodical Table of the Elements when, in the background, a Discovery Channel special report announced that over the past ten years the waters of Venice had become dangerously polluted and infected. Stewart's brain cringed for a split-second as all of his dreams were shattered in unison.

But things really, and in all honesty, could have been considerably worse. Life still went on, as anticipated, and one day Stewart left the small city. He drove far away with only the following things in his small foreign motorcar:

1. a guitar
2. a suitcase
3. a spare tire
4. thirty seven dollars and twelve cents (mostly in nickels and dimes)
5. two industrial-sized boxes of cheese crackers in assorted animal shapes.

And that was the life.

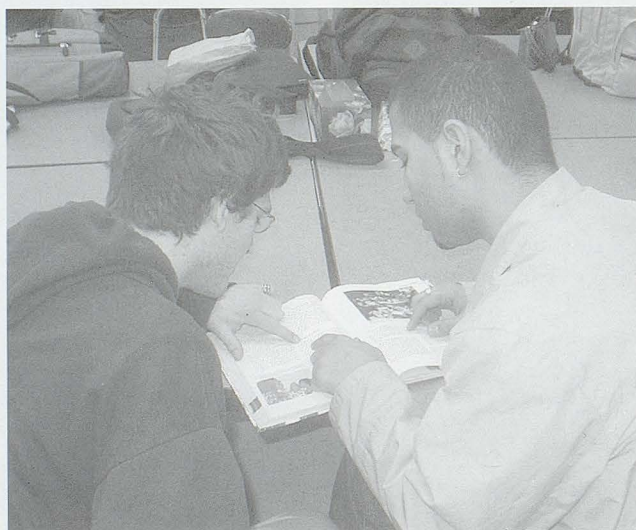

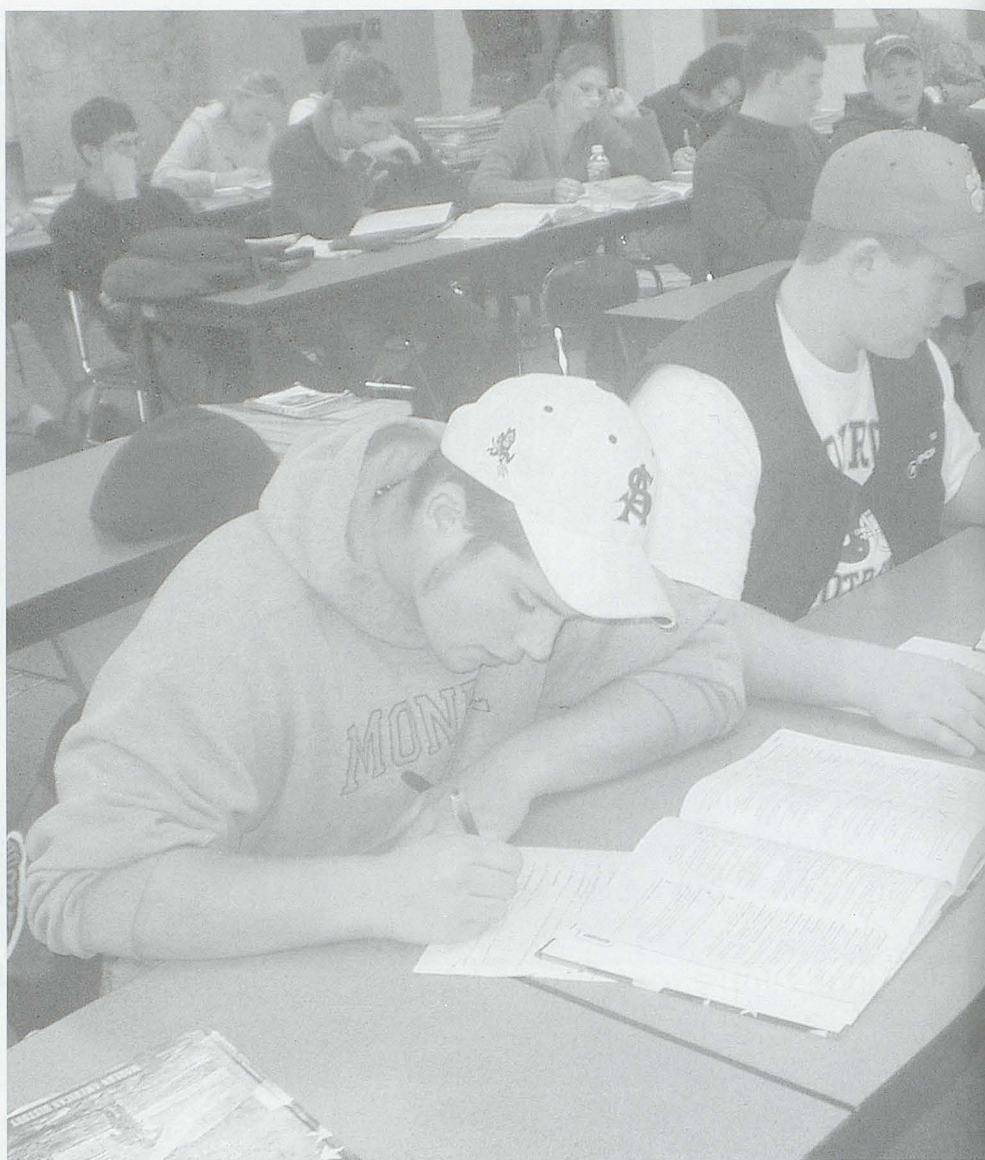

THE END

So what do you think? Skills or no skills? It's up to you to decide.
On a scale from one to ten, what would you rate this writer?

* History *

History, often the most dreaded subject of all. Usually involves a lot of book work, memorization, and worksheets. There are, however, some teachers who throw in a little hands on work with that other tedious stuff. Teachers are constantly looking for ways to help kids learn and make things more exciting, such as doing debates, or roleplays. That way, learning who did what on exactly what date isn't so boring.

Giving Each Other A Helping Hand

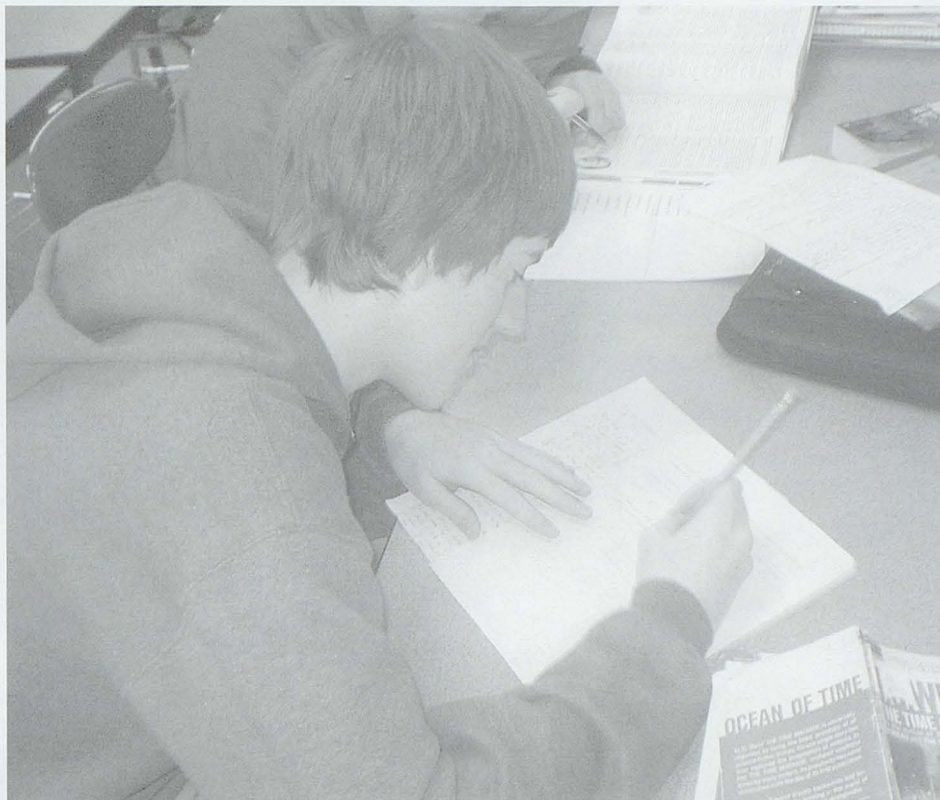

Pooya Roohani (12) points out Ansel Carroll's (11) mistake and shows him what events really took place before the Civil War.

So Much Work To Do And So Little Time...

Tim Schubert (11) and Andy Ranko (11) diligently work together to finish their assignment.

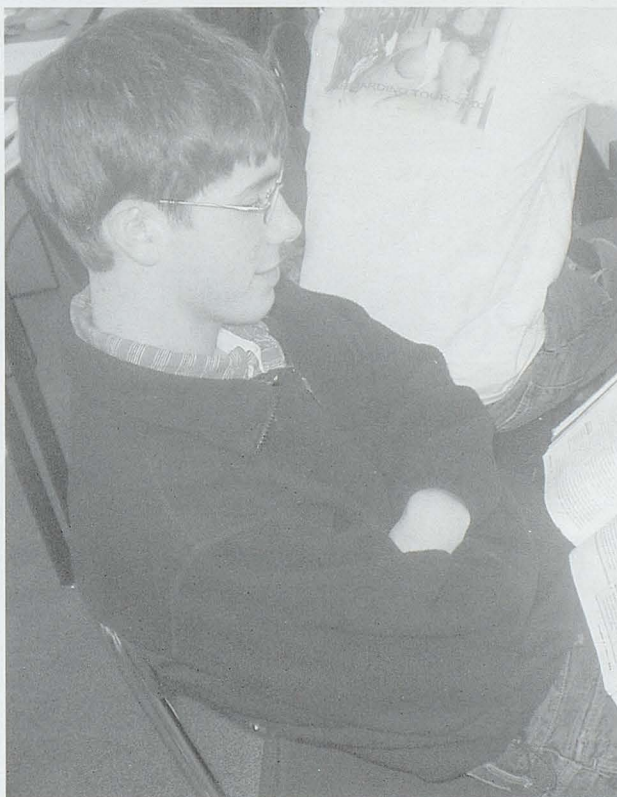

What's This Answer?

Garrett Beslow (11) reads "Ocean of Time," during his history class when he is supposed to be working on his homework.

Relaxin'

Toby Pickens (11) nonchalantly reads his American History text book with hopes of acing his upcoming test.

Mr. Speedy

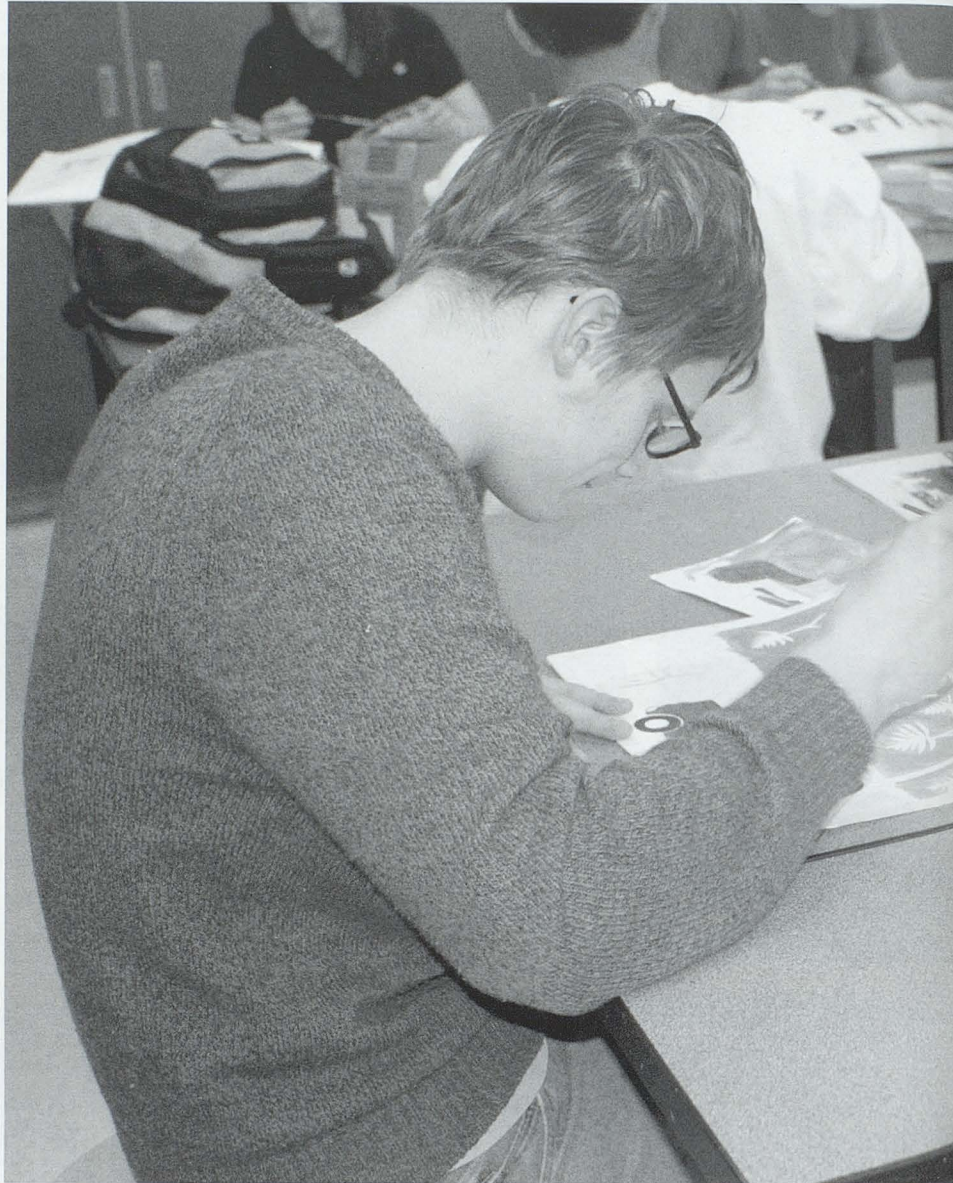

Brannnden Francisco (11) finishes his worksheet that was due that day because he forgot to do it as homework the day before.

Paint, Pencils & Clay, Oh My!"

Playing with clay, to painting a picture, to drawing with a pencil, Mrs. Russel and Mrs. Flashman's class can transform your eyes into seeing and believing. With a flick of the wrist, they can change your opinion of what's art and what's golden. Just take a minute to watch them and you will understand that they take great pride into thier work and that it's not just a class, it's more. "Art is inspiring and true; it gives great meaning to word fun; just think of FINGER PAINT!" Chelan Calhoun.

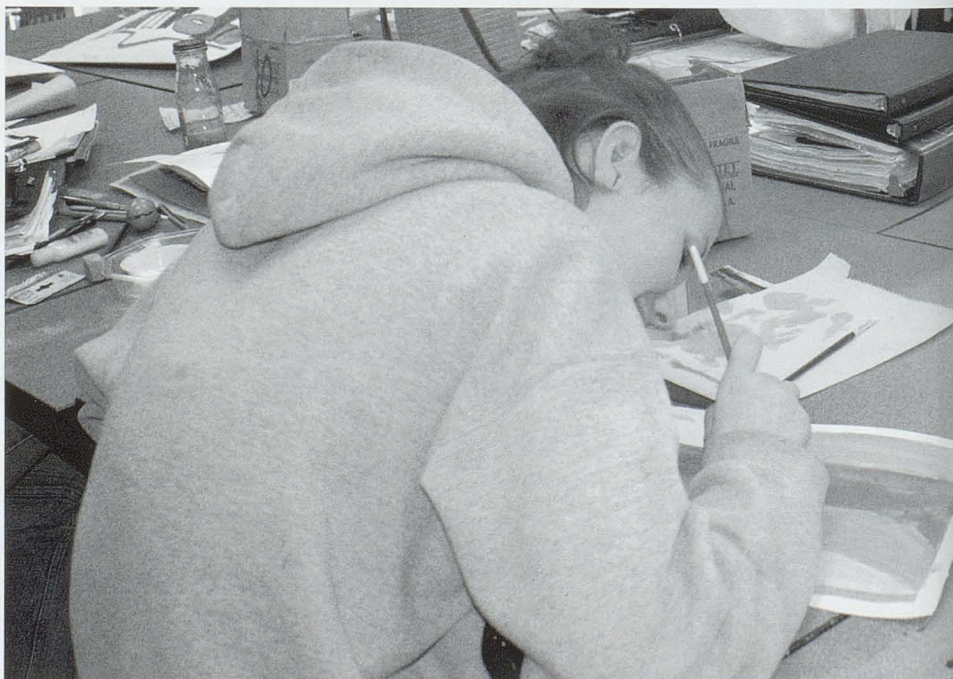

Painting with Passion

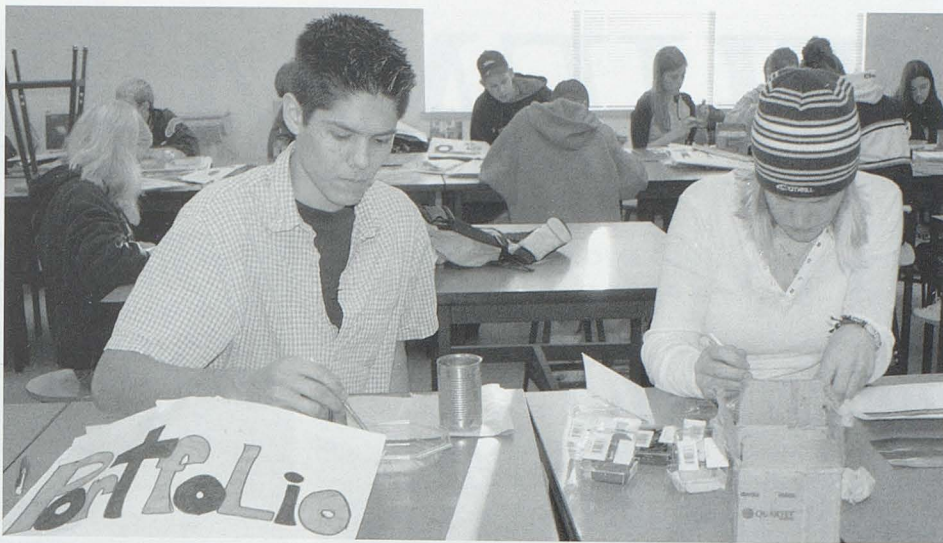

Ricky Porter (11) paints with unimaginable creativity and expresses himself through his amazing work.

Finger Painting

Using fingers or paintbrushes, in Mrs. Flashmans Art class, Chelan Calhoun (10) seems to be enjoying the class and the activities.

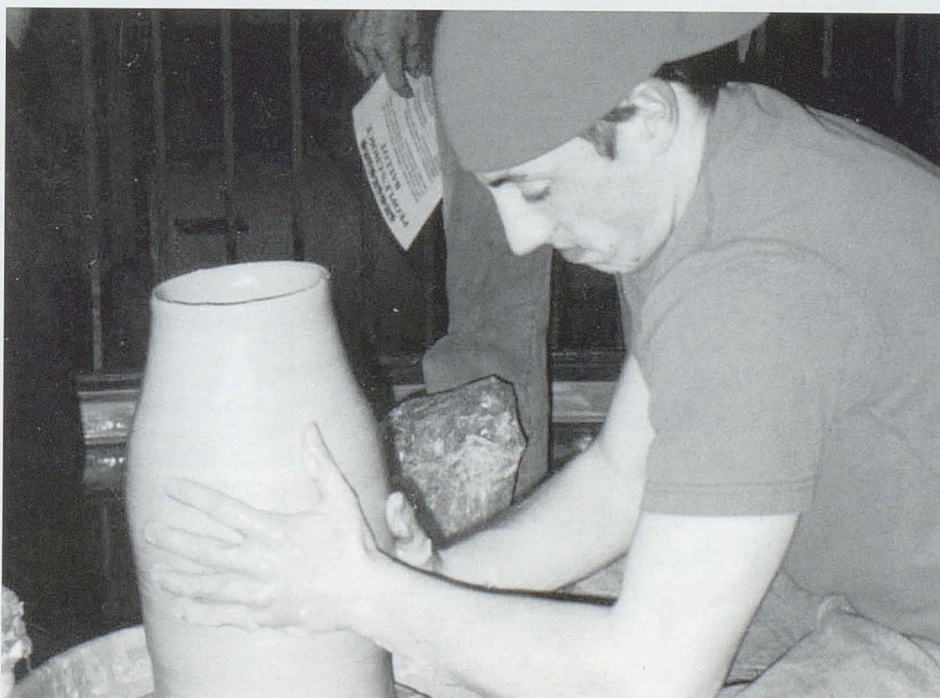

What Artists!

Colin Chaves (12) and Christine Davis (12) work hard to get their artistic, but elaborate, work finished.

A Whole Hunk of Clay...

Joshua Ficsher (12), at the Christmas Concert tries to make fresh clay turn into a hard pot.

Spinning for Smoothness

Skyler Goodnight (12) sets to molding his clay into what will eventually become a beautiful vase.

MATHEMATICS

$C = 3.14 \times r \times r \dots$ Is It Really That Difficult????

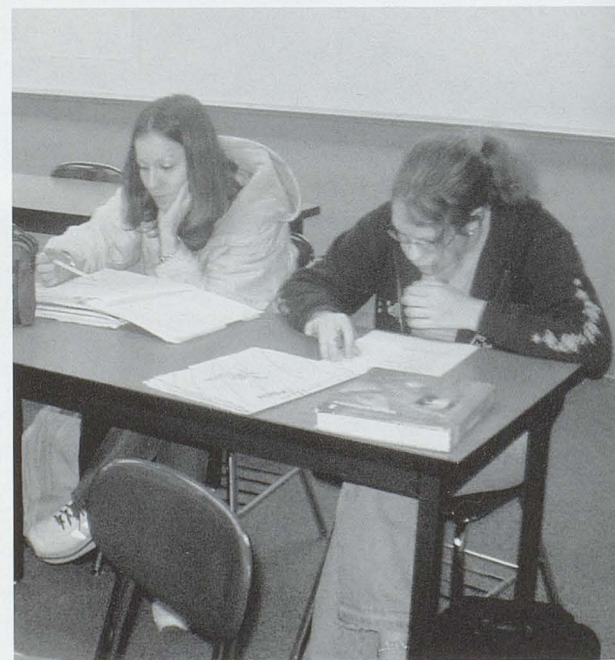

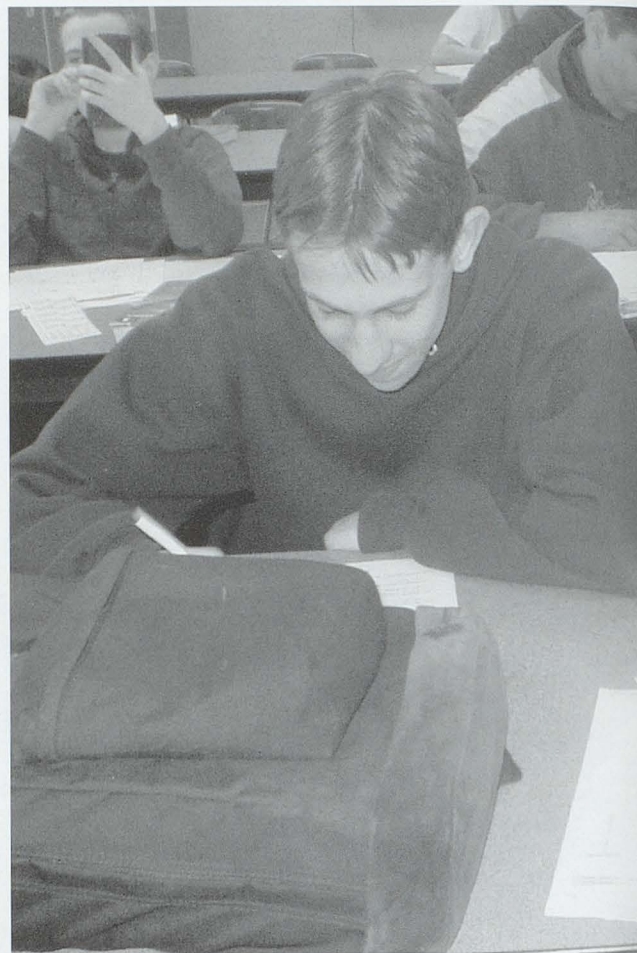

It's the subject that most people have trouble in. Ever since the Greeks, math was an important skill in life. Back then it was the basics of $1+1$, now math has advanced to fractions, graphing, matrices, and much more. "I hate it when I do not understand it," Maicia Cha (11) proclaimed.

Math is difficult, but without it, we probably wouldn't be where we are today. First you must understand how the math you are studying works. The rest is just putting the time in to get it done. Most want to just get the credit and get out. Credits can only get you so far, but knowing the math is what will help you get a job, not the credits. Only two years is required to pass high school, but if you were shooting for a college or university, three years or more would be smart.

“The Main Ingredient”

A remarkable eye-catching experience are the choir students. Dedicating hard working hours in class singing, learning and improving their musical talents has continually made them love singing. “I have always liked singing, even when I was a little kid.” Brady Coates (10) explained.

Coordination was the main factor needed if someone wanted to be skilled in choir or color guard. The twisting flags and the echoing voices in the spotlight was admired by all audiences.

ASL, French, And Japanese

A common misconception that people have is that you have to have languages to graduate. This doesn't mean that languages aren't good though. We can all learn a lot from a language class. You can learn how to communicate with the deaf, speak and write in a foreign language.

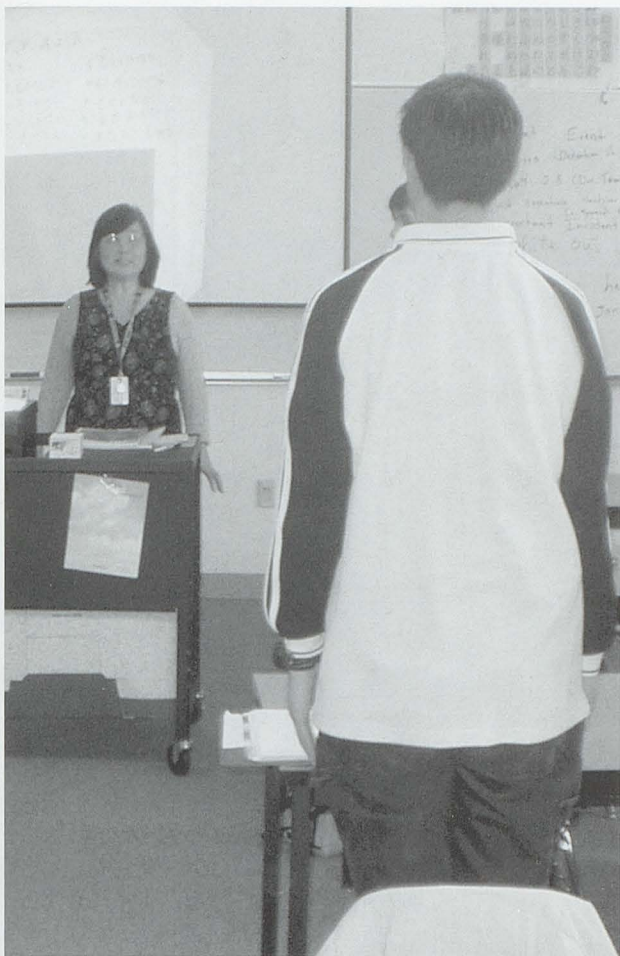

Above

A Lone French student who went out to the hall to study was chanting and clapping to help herself. Nelly Cordova (11) is learning how to be tri-lingual.

Learning The Silent Language

Teaching Her New Class

The new Japanese teacher came late in the year when the old teacher vanished never to be seen or heard from again. (well not seen or heard from by the students at least.)

Student Art Work

In Japanese, students have the chance to learn how to write the Japanese characters.

Learning About Tela Type

Students in Mrs. Ingles ASL Class learn about how the deaf communicate using a telephone.

Paying Avid Attention

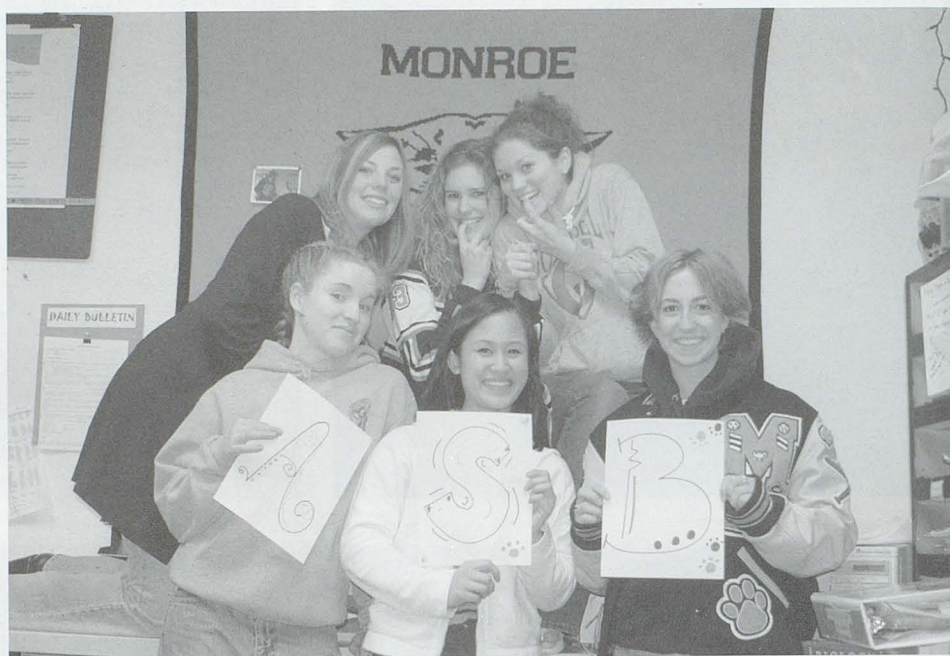

Students in French listen as the teacher instructs them in the language of Love.

Do you taste the spirit?

ASB is changing the way things are run around here.

The way things used to be, you would run for the position you desired. This year, ASB is trying a new approach to the way things are run. Instead of running for class officer, they asked the students to decide and vote on who they want in office. The people elected for their class were labeled class senators. There are four senators for each class. Together these groups of students have combined forces to make 2002-2003 a great school year.

ASB VIP's: Katie Walker (Secretary), Taylor Trombley (Activities Director), Genesis Day, (President), Roxy Berg (Vice President) Janelle Natividad, Lourn Shatz (Co-Treasurers).

VOC ATIO NAL

Sam Nichols (11) tries to focus

Sam Nichols is making a CAD drawing. Computer Assisted Design is one of the many skills honed under Mr. Simoni in Tech Ed.

Some people are visual learners. Some people are auditory learners. For the most part, our teachers cater to the audio/visual students through handouts, notes, and lectures. But, then what becomes of those who learn best with hands-on experience? What class do they take?

TechEd is the ticket. It's a fascinating class.

It's a cavernous room full of disassembled and yellowing electrical equipment. It's here that industrious students prepare for careers in welding, engineering and mechanics. No matter when you visit you'll likely hear strains of Metallica floating through the air.

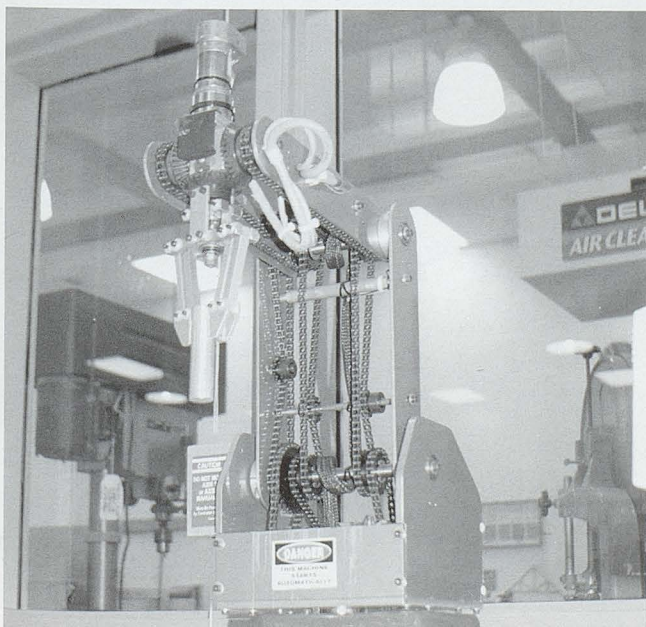

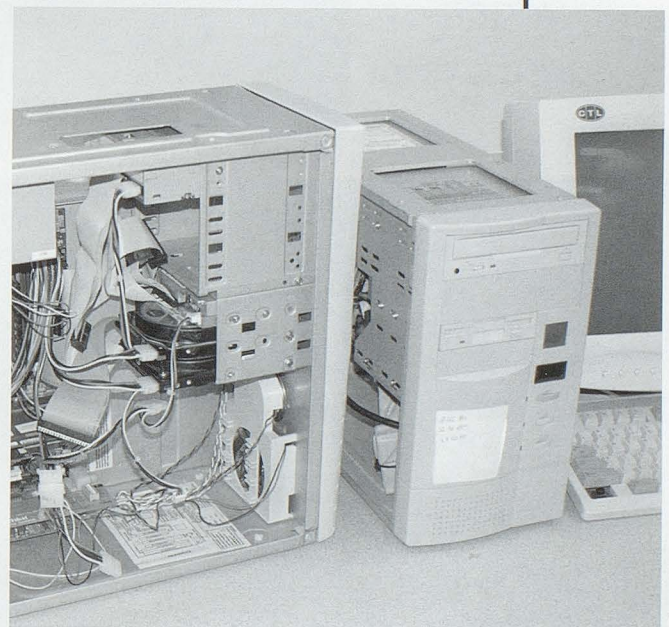

Neil Sissons (11) Jason Marshall (10) carefully pick apart a virus-ridden laptop.

TechEd helps students who are interested in:

- mechanics
- electrical work
- engineering
- welding
- graphic design
- computer animation
- construction
- avionics
- textiles
- and many other careers

The real beauty of TechEd is this: real students have the opportunity to sell their work to real people via the front office. Scale models of buildings and finished wooden chairs litter the room waiting to be sold. It's really cool and it's a way for tomorrow's ergonomic designers and computer animators to get a foot in the door. It's TechEd.

Video Production

The video class got off to a rough start. There was a new teacher who had been hired right at the start of the year and didn't even know what to expect out of the lab. There was a new administration breathing down our necks. Not allowing us to express our sense of humor. It is true that you do lose your first Amendment rights when you walk into the school.

Setting the Key

Key Club is an International Service and leadership organization for high schoolers. It looks great for students applying for college and great volunteer work. The Club motto is "Caring-Our Way of Life."

Through blood drives, and a helping hand during fundraising events, the key club emphasizes a great year. Clubs advisor Mrs. Goodwin and Co-Presidents Becky Casen and Brecky McCollum are proud of the work they've done because each and everyone in the club has contributed a helping hand.

At one point, they collected penny wars during lunch to help sponsor a young two-year old girl in China until she's age 18. During Halloween, the club members went around to raise money for UNICEF and collect food for the food bank. The Key Club is willing to always be there for their community.

Some are pursuing a life in the military, some wanted to add something good to their college application, and some just wanted something to do.

Who are they? They are the loyal ROTC members. ROTC stands for Reserve Officer Training Corps which is basically a pre-military preparation program for those who want to know how to be productive while under a strict disciplinary leadership.

Since the Monroe School District doesn't have a ROTC program of it's own, ROTC members must go through the Snohomish High School's program.

When Brandon Bickler (10) was asked if he would sign up for the program again, if given the chance he replied, "In a heartbeat. ROTC is like a family- by the end of the year, you all bond with each other. I would absolutely do it again!!"

What's all this we hear about Earth Corps?

Chances are that sometime in your high school career, you will have at least heard something about Earth Corps. Unfortunately, not everyone knows what a great after-school activity this club is, and if you heard about how much fun they have, you wouldn't hesitate on rushing over to sign up.

But unfortunately, as in life, not everything is all fun and games, and these members sure know how to get their hands dirty. The students meet on their own time, and they help the community by getting involved in activities such as: habitat restoration projects, planting plants and trees, and also helping with the school's recycling.

Sure, they do a lot for the school and the community, but they are still able to have fun and keep a great attitude.

MARKETING

This year was a difficult, but we got through it. It required a strong determination to get through the competitions and the struggle to improve through the important aspects of marketing. "It's easy, but in one of the classes, we do so much work," remarked an unwilling student. Marketing can be fun, because you learn the basis of trying to sell a product to the actual point of marketing or managing a business, but that doesn't mean there's no work involved.

LEADERS OF FCCLA

This group of all around hard working students have given their time to benefit families around the community. They have gained leadership and communication skills by taking part in the activities that are offered. They have learned about the Monroe community and help the people in need.

Members have joined for various reasons, such as motivation to help others, work on community service projects and have life changing experiences. They also join to research their choice of career and to be prepared for their future. This class focuses on family, career, and making community leaders. It gives students a way to be involved in the community, whether they are doing something little or something big. Family life and relationships are also emphasized by teaching the values of family life. "We get to do group activities and work with the community. Individually we get growth and leadership skills," Marie Stewart explained.

The FCCLA program has been in Monroe High School for six years and continues to grow. Making better people and positive strides toward improving our families and communities is something we all should take part in. "It's a good program, more people should be involved in," Marie said.

Horticulture

Shine On!

Mr. Delp teaches his class the art of growing flowers.

Horticulture gives a sense of completion to its participants. These students get the chance to plant seeds and help them grow into full plants. Learning the Complexities of the Human Mind...

Psychology, a study of the human mind. It is a class that offers students a chance to look in depth of what makes them do things, decide things and live their day to day lives the way they do. Mr. Ottini teaches like no other. He helps get info into his students heads with more class involved discussions and very interesting lectures. There is rarely a dull moment in Ottini's class. All the students are eager to get involved everyday.

Do Re Mi Fa So La Te Da

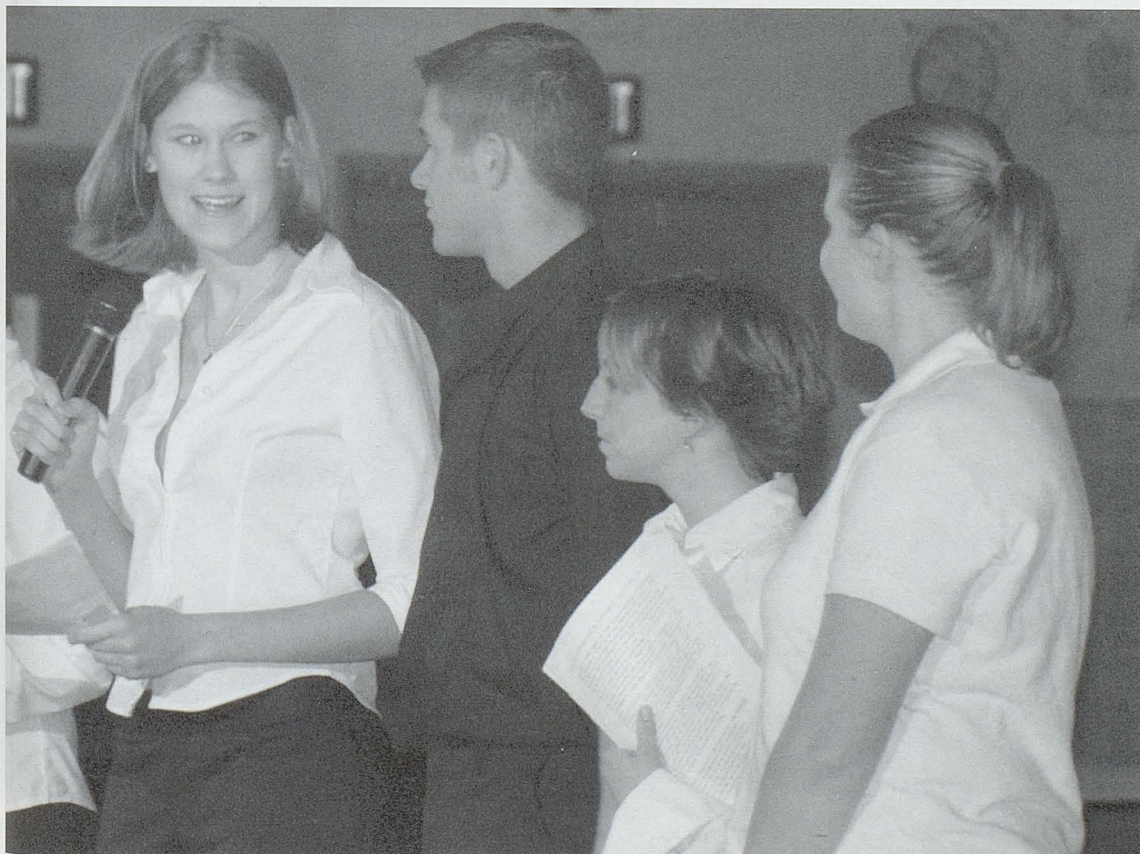

Kate Thueringer (10) acts out a skit while Jennifer Miller (11) sings.

The Multicultural club has put on many events this year, such as assemblies. One spectacular assembly they put on was the Martin Luther King Junior assembly. They had skits, speeches, a video, and an exceptional performance from the choir. They showed us how every race needs to co-exist in order to strive in a diverse society.

Attention!

Kate Thueringer (10), Audra Speer (11), Trevor Hoeker (11), Lauren Shatz (11), and Kelsey Melton (11) were just a few of those involved in the MLK assembly.

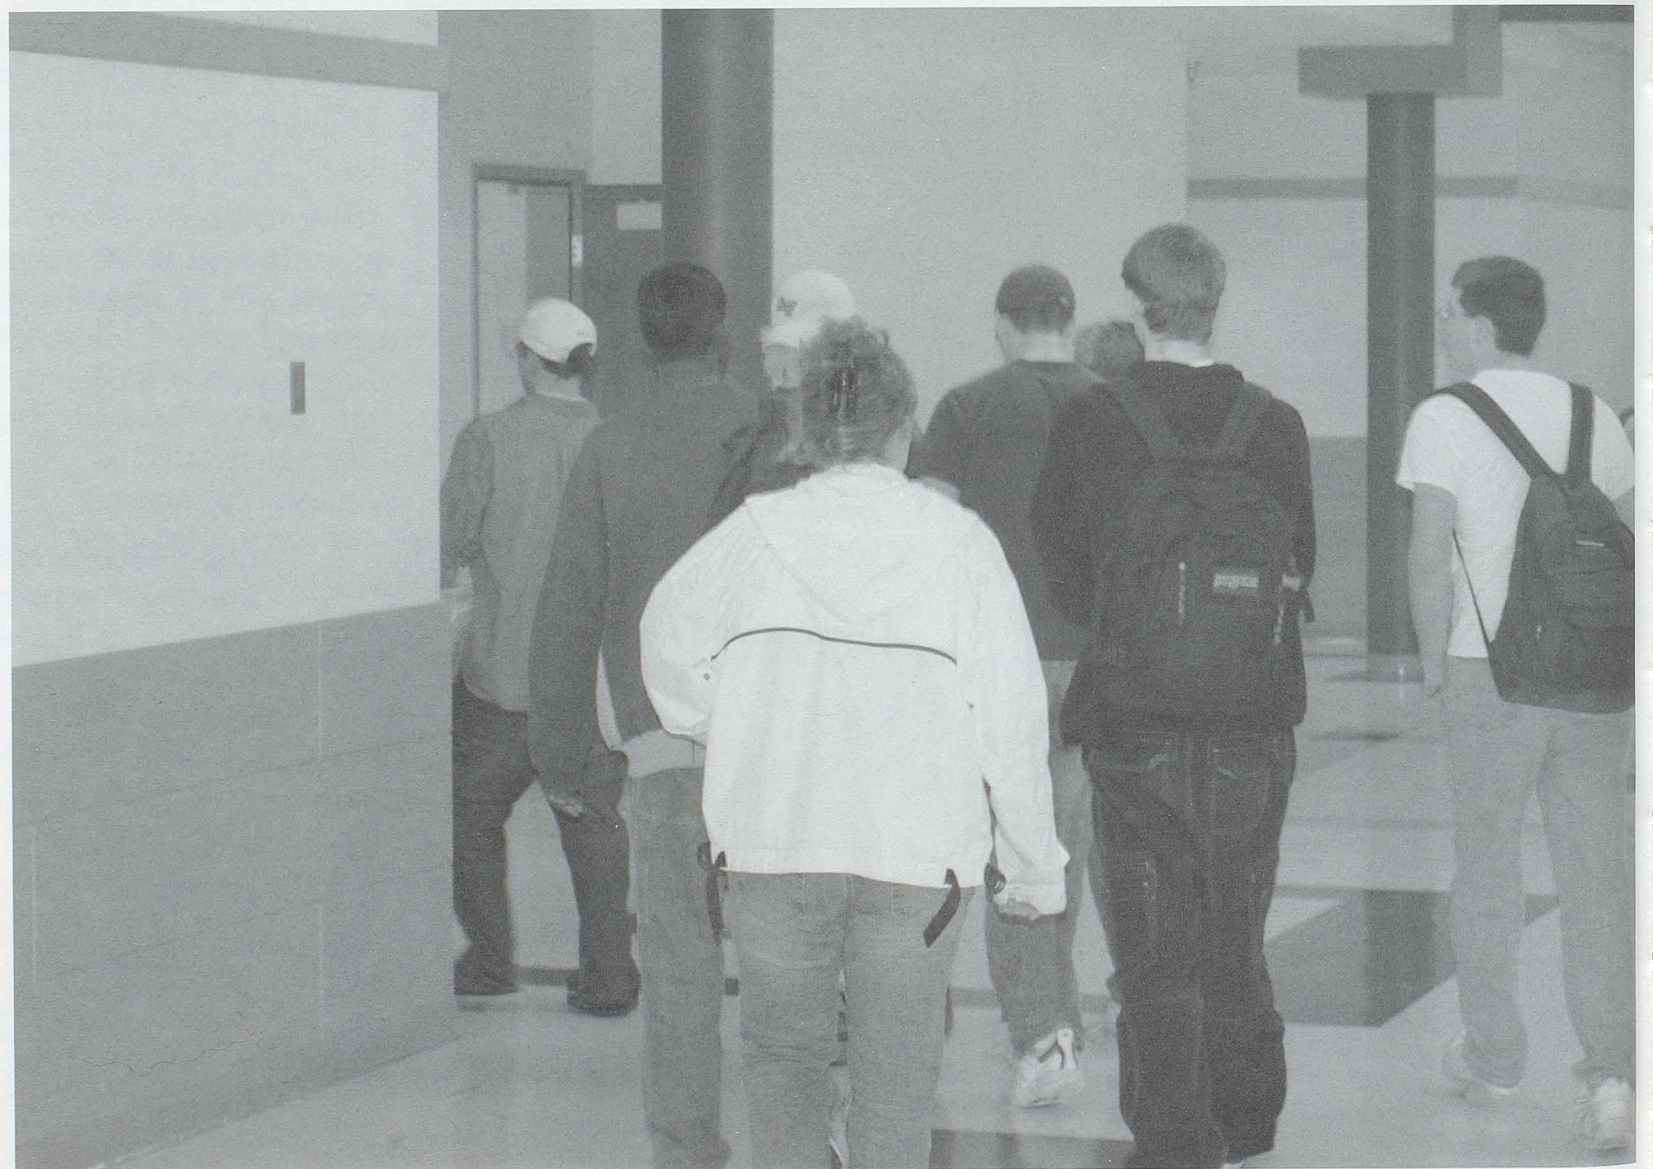

Hmmm.....

Carlos Estrada (10), and others sit and wait during a period where they didn't have a class. Rescheduling was a very lengthy process during the beginning of the semester.

Oh, Well...

Many people were turned down for rescheduling due to class sizes, sometime you don't always get what you request.

Counseling Office

The counseling office, a place where people can change schedules, register with the school, or drop a class all together. Let's flash back to when school first started. Remember when you got your schedules. Some were a little unusual, people were being put in classes they had done before, classes that some disliked, and some had even been assigned to a 9th grade class. The reason for this is that during the summer, a lot can happen. Some classes were too small, some were too big, some teachers left. The computer was fitting things in where they seemed reasonable. Plus with the counseling crew having to adjust to a new system, it could have been even more hectic than last year. Thankfully the number of people that attended were right on what the counselors expected. Amidst all the complaining, they managed to pull it off and things were much smoother this year than last. Regarding the delay in schedule changes, they were focusing on the people who had no classes first, then going onto the rescheduling after. All in all the counseling center is a fun an interesting place to work.

Business as usual

Just another day at the counseling office. Many people come in and out, keeping this school on track, scheduling assemblies and other special activities too.

What A Great Year For The Soccer Girls...

They won some, they lost some, but the most important thing is that they walked away with friendship.

As with any sport, these ladies worked hard and through that hard work, they bonded with each other. Soccer is quite possibly one of the most challenging sports out there. Unlike baseball, where there is time to rest and catch your breath, soccer is a sport where you run around the whole time, and only stop when the whistle blows for half-time.

This was a great season for the girls, partly because of all the hard work, and partly because of their great attitude.

Kara Rasmussen (10) sits on the sidelines to catch her breath for just a moment before she gets back in the game.

Football has always been an American tradition, and for some, their favorite pastime. As we all know, our football program has not been the best out there. This season a new coach has stepped up and promised us a change. This coach's name is Coach Andrew Haney, along with Coach Eran Hannah, Coach K, and Coach Rudd by his side. Haney promises a better football program in the near future. Even though we didn't do particularly well this year, we're a great football team in the making. Bumps are bound to occur in the road. From what has been said, the practices have been way more intense than they have been in the past. Next season will be the one we've all been waiting for.

What A great Season...

These girls have it all—brains, beauty and skill. This year, the girl's volleyball team did a great job of representing our school and our sports abilities, but even more impressive were the academic abilities displayed by the whole team.

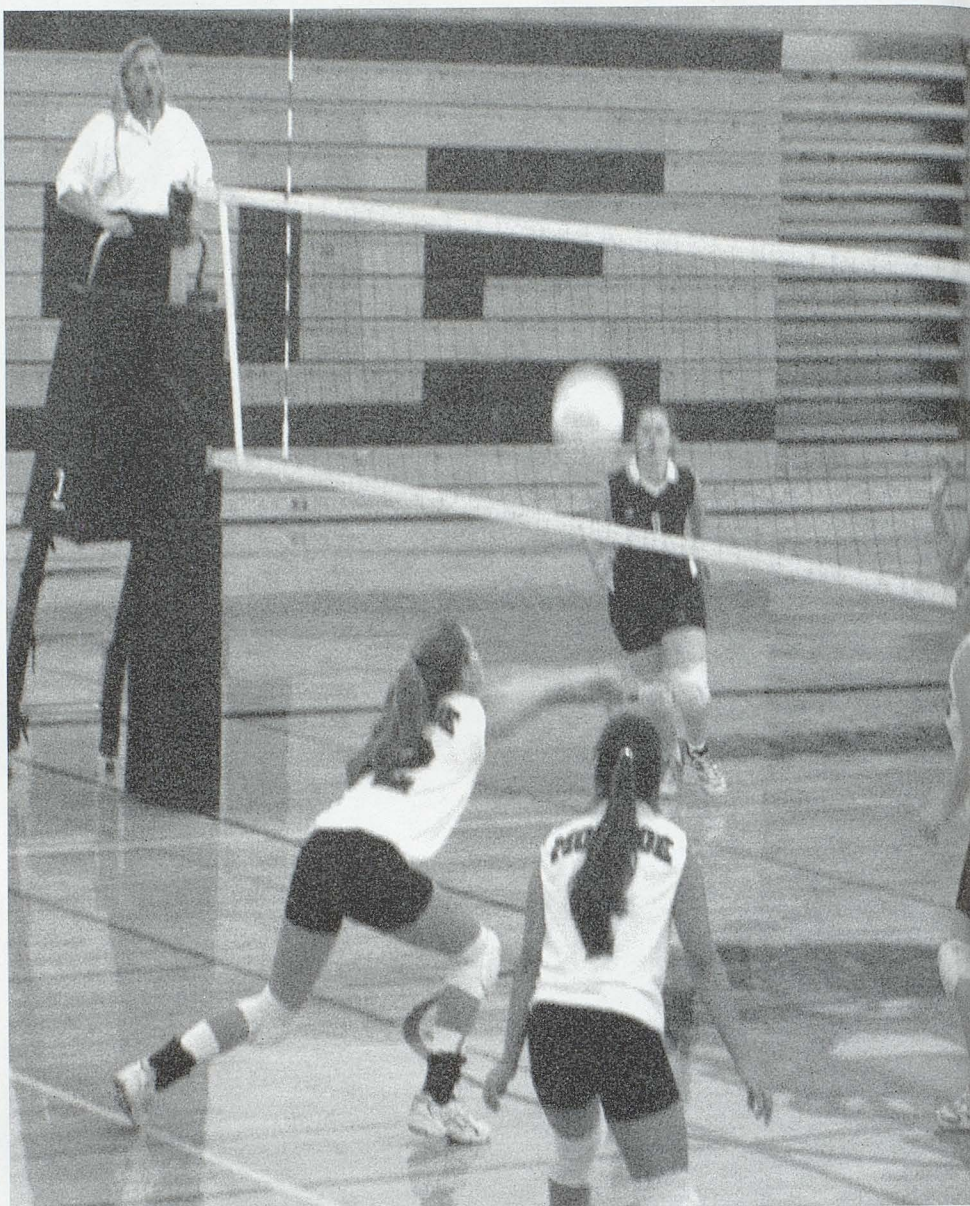

Each and every team member of the Varsity and Junior Varsity Team received at least a 3.5 GPA throughout the season. At one of the last games of the season, they were recognized with a scholastic achievement award, which had everyone on their feet in applause when it was announced.

The season itself was great to watch, and audience members were in awe of the unity and teamwork displayed by the girls. They held their breath when a close shot was being taken and they rejoiced when another point was added to the score sheet.

Great job 2002/2003 lady cats!!

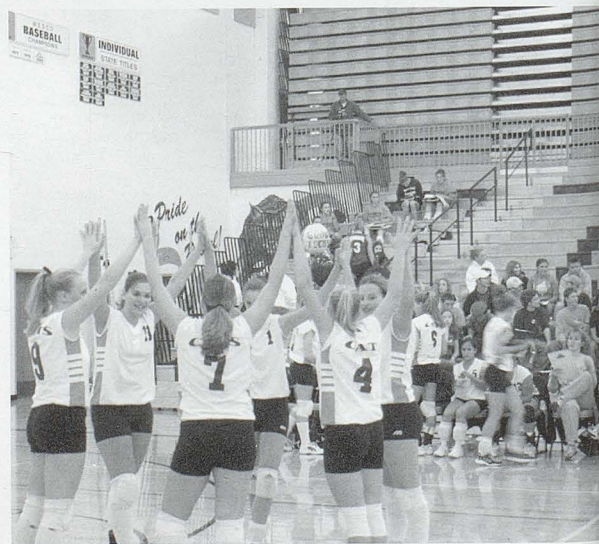

Don't Worry, She's Got It Under Control

Yeah, all in a day's work. Jessica VonBorries (11) pulls off the usual save while the rest of us watch, amazed.

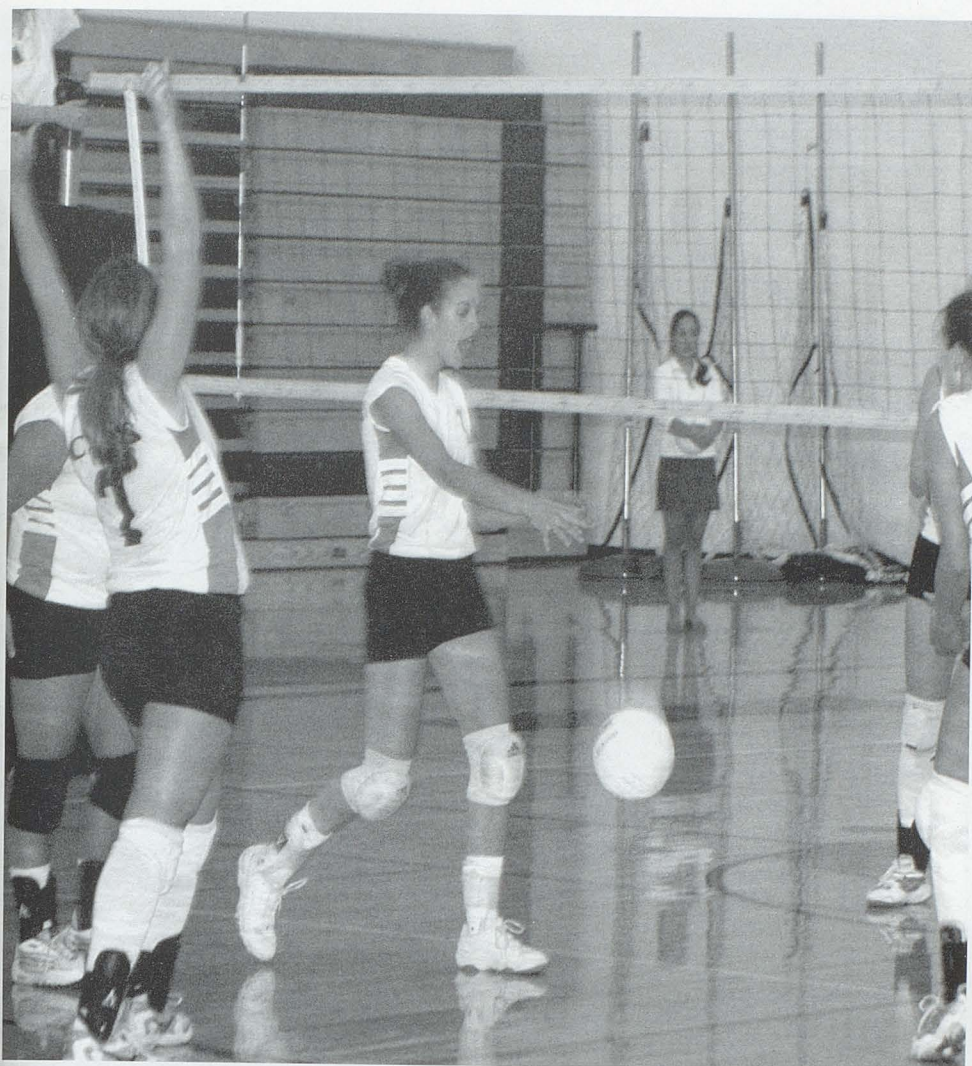

What A Team...

The team cheers on Brittany Rose (11) as she is introduced to the raging crowd.

The team gives each other a round of high fives as they pump themselves up for the next play.

Cheer

The Bearcat cheerleaders of the 2002-2003 school year made it through with hard work and dedication. A day in the life of a cheerleader may seem easy, but guess again. Cheerleading is a year-round sport.

Starting with 7:00 AM morning practices at school during the summer, followed up with practice after school until about 4:30. The cheerleaders spread spirit throughout the school by putting up signs, coordinating pep assemblies, working hard academically and of course, cheering all at the same time.

These cheerleaders introduced new stunts, dances, stomps, and cheers to M.H.S. They worked hard together, and accomplished a lot. "Cheer gave me the opportunity to learn leadership skills and to support our teams," explains Jessica Mirsky, the cheer captain. The cheerleaders wanted to make an important impact at the games and most of all they wanted to gain support.

As time goes on they will look back and remember the important things, as in how hard they worked, and how much fun they had together. "After doing cheerleading for three years, I have been able to make great new friends, and long lasting memories," said Jessica Mirsky. They will remember that their purpose was to be supportive. Also to find unique ways of showing their spirit. They succeeded and they will always remember cheering on the mighty Bearcats.

I Think I Used Too Much Vaseline on My Teeth...

Anna Wolf (10), Stephanie Smith (11), Adrienne Heffner (11), Amy Trafford (11), and Jessica Mirsky (12) give their best smile to prove their love for cheer.

The cross country team might not sound like fun, but you won't know unless you attend one of their meets. It's very intense and they run as much as 3 miles in one race. Tons of things happen that you wouldn't expect. For instance, one time in a meet at Al Borlin Park, runners were chased by a swarm of bees. Brendan Murphy (12) was stung 11 times. Cross country is a good sport because it helps you to get in shape and keep a long endurance.

One person who had an amazing year was Bethany Ojalheto (11). She went to regionals, and placed 2nd at district. In state, she placed in to number 26! WAY TO GO BETH-ANY!

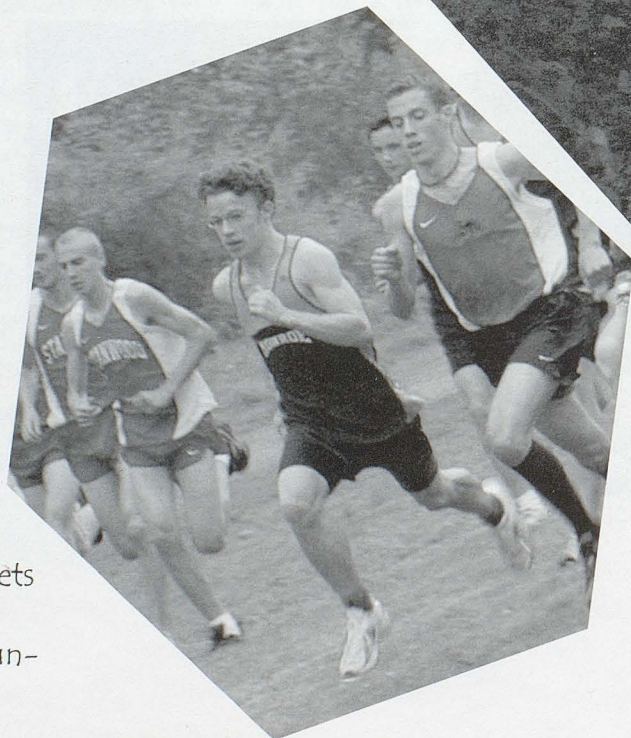

My Lip Hurts

Richie King (12) bites his lip and takes the pain as he keeps up his pace.

Go Team Go!

The Monroe Cross Country Team breaks into a frantic run as the referee blows his whistle.

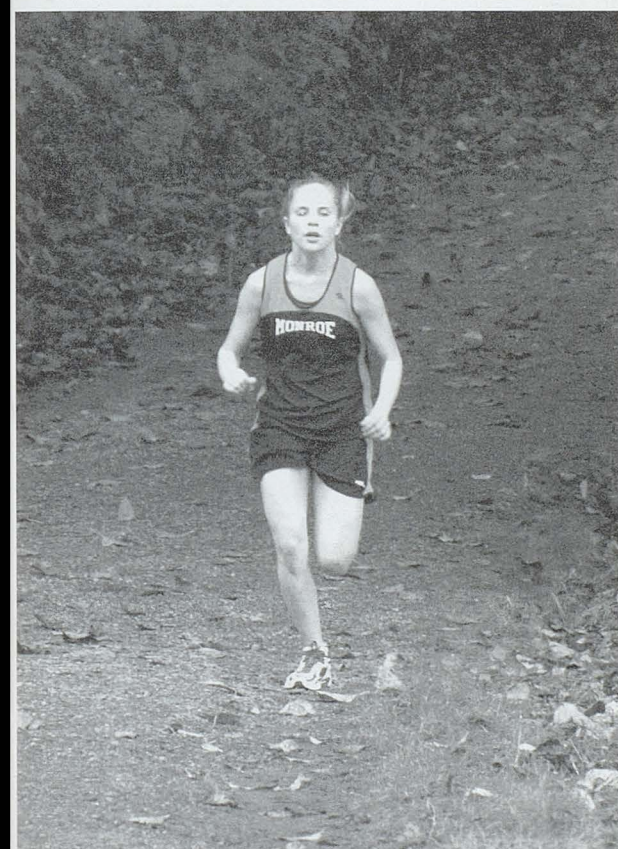

Maximus!

Max Rauh (10) gets stuck in between many hustling runners.

1, 2, 3, GO!

The Monroe boys run with all their energy towards the finish line, with the hopes of beating Stanwood.

Sprinting to Finish

Roxy Berg (12) sprints to finish at Fort Stilkum.

Keeping with the Pace

Phillip Jacobson (10) seems tired out and out of breath after running along the curvy trail.

Move, Get Out of the Way!!!

Julie Durringer (12) strives to pass all the girls from Stanwood High School.

2002-2003 Girl's Basketball

The girls have been playing exceptionally well this year. They started out a little bumpy, but pulled it together and have qualified for district and even qualified for state. One aspect of the game that everyone seems to notice is the team's unity; the way they help each other on the court in order to get better at what they do. The team consists of mostly sophomores and juniors, so they'll have another year or two to get better and improve their basketball game.

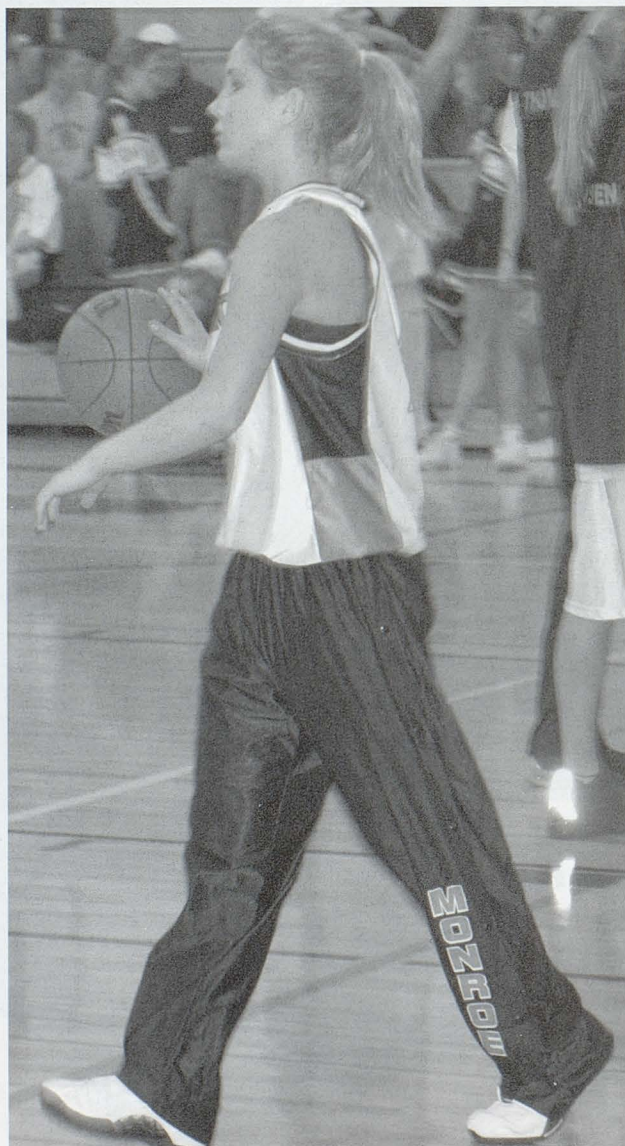

Defense!

This is a great example of team defense; causing the player to throw the ball out.

"Love Is Playing Every Game as If It's Your Last."

Monica Bunge (10), warming up before a basketball game. Just look at the expression on her face. You know she's ready to tear it up.

"You've Got The Power..."

...to sink it. Marjani Muhammad (10) makes a outstanding shot and scores two points for the Bearcats.

Dani Defense is Intense

Defense!! Dani Drivstuen (10) puts a stop to the Lake Stevens offense with her remarkable defense capabilities.

Celebrate, Celebrate!!!

The Lady Bearcats jump with joy as they celebrate their close victory against Lake Stevens ending with a score of 54-50.

Dance Catz

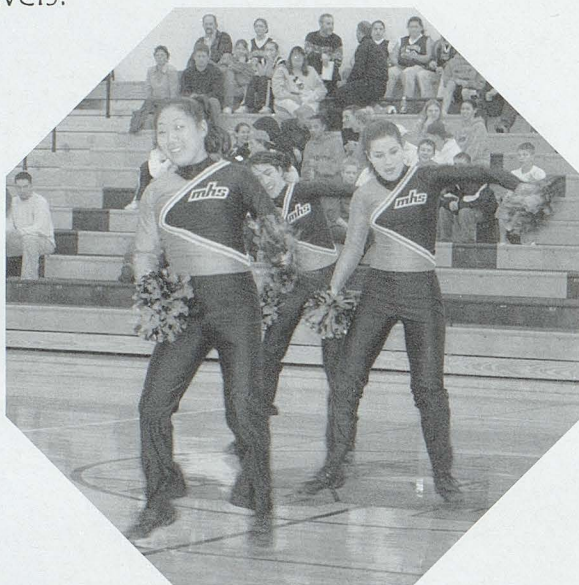

The dance team had a rough year during 2002-2003. At the beginning of the year, the turn-out was not as big as expected, so the team consisted of about ten girls. Compared to other teams, which had as many as forty girls on them, the Monroe team seemed miniscule.

But these girls spent hours practicing, sometimes even coming in at 7:00 AM on Saturdays for all day workouts. All of the girls attended dance camp during the summer and competed at different levels.

Although it was sometimes frustrating, the majority of them plan on trying out next year.

Now That's Whiplash

Stephanie LaBoda (11), Sarah Nolte (10), and Brenda Brown (11) whip themselves into a frenzy with their fast-paced dance moves.

Smile Big

Tiffany Scott (11), Christina Groeneveld (10), Sarah Nolte (10), and Brenda Brown (11) all go for the triangular move. Perfect form is a must for this routine.

Is My Butt Hanging Out?

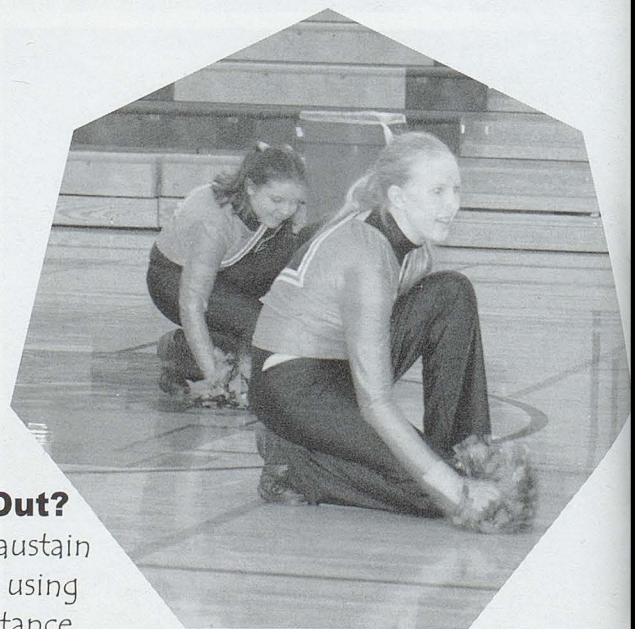

Erica Barr (10) and Cayla Paustain (10) scoot along the floor, using their poms to get some distance.

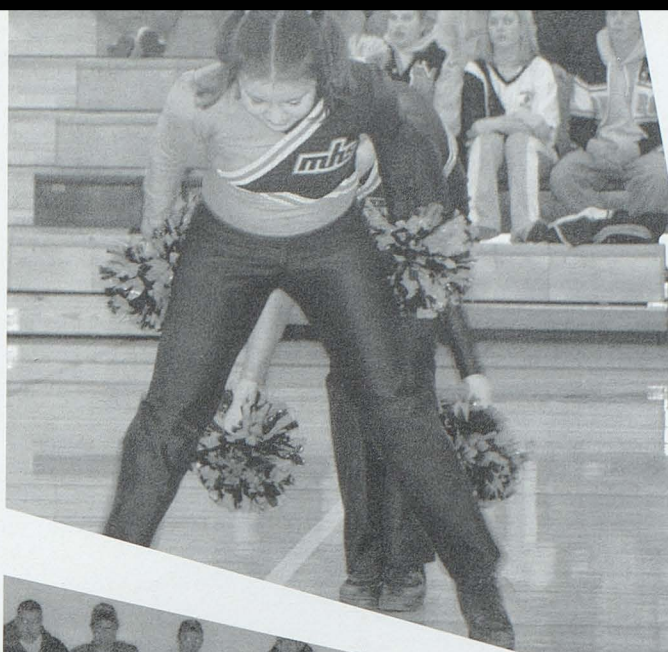

I Love Myself

Carina Fredrickson (12), captain of the dance team, knows what she's doing when it comes to moves. Not only can she complete the regular moves, she's good at gymnastics too.

Kickline Time

Tiffany Scott (11), Christina Groeneveld (10), Stephanie LaBoda, (11) and Cayla Paustain (10) form a mini kickline for one of their basketball performances. The dance team had to participate in enough performances in order to compete at Regionals.

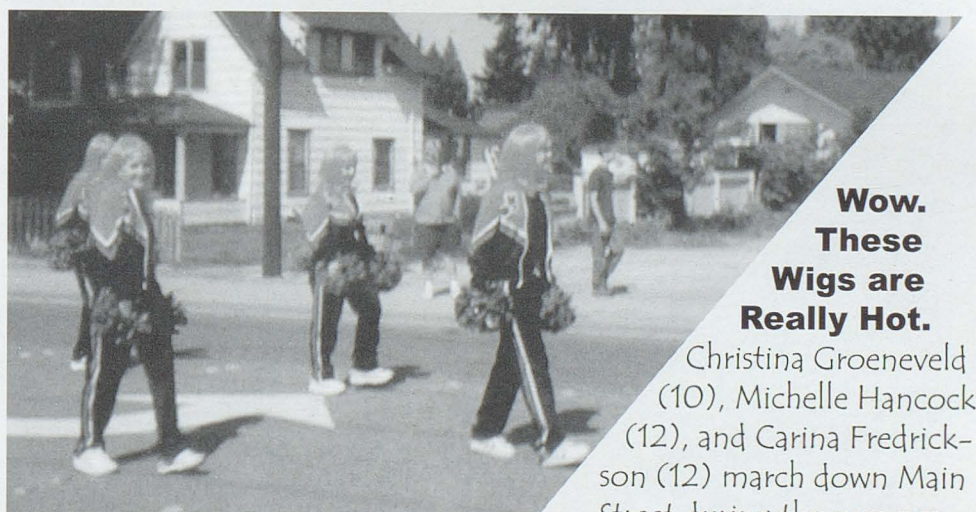

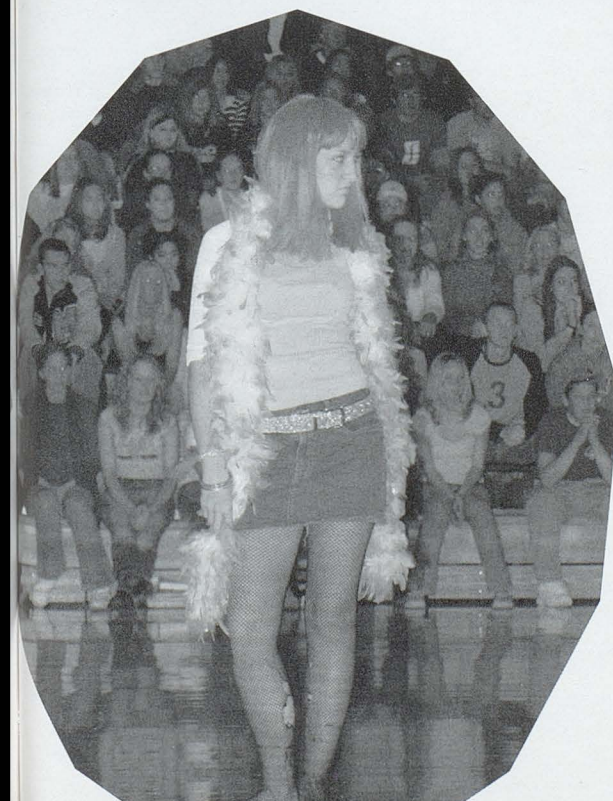

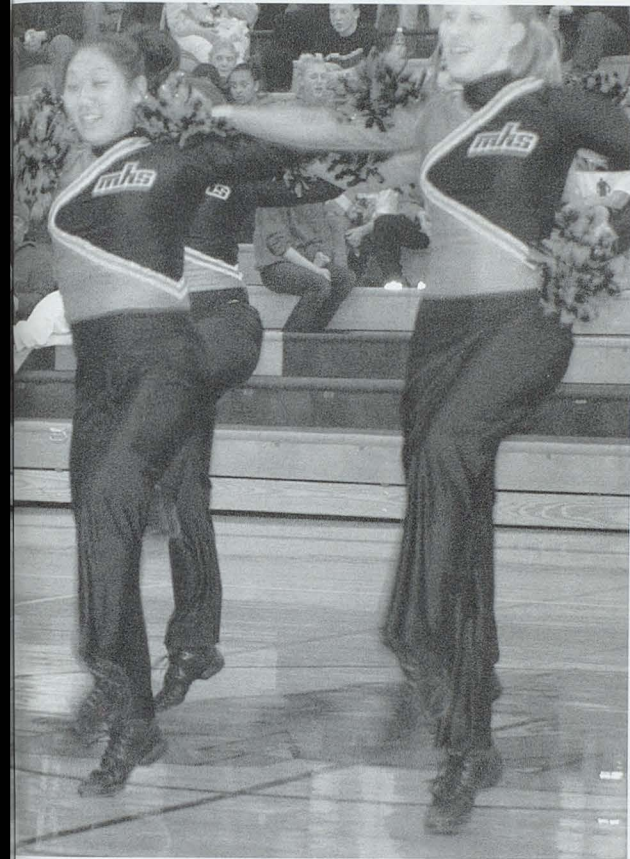

Wheeee!!!!

Erica Barr (10) gets into her dance routine while at a basketball performance.

Don't Try This at Home...

Tiffany Scott (11) mockingly bashes Cayla Paustain (10) with a plastic guitar at the homecoming assembly skit.

Wow. These Wigs are Really Hot.

Christina Groeneveld (10), Michelle Hancock (12), and Carina Fredrickson (12) march down Main Street during the summer parade to inform people that there is a dance team at MHS.

Does This Make Me Look Trashy?

Christina Groeneveld (10) dons this stylish outfit for the skit, which the dance team put on for the homecoming assembly.

Neil Manthe (11), in both pictures, is obviously a star on the varsity boys basketball team. He attempts to make two difficult shots against Mount Vernon.

Extreme

Some love it for the excitement, some love the skill needed, and in a word, they love the rush.

Extreme sports vary as much as people do. They go from wake boarding and jet skiing in the sea, flying down steep mountains on a snowboard or skis, to mastering the ditches and holes of the muddy trails in trucks, to ambushing the "enemy" in intense paint ball

Blue-eyed baby sent from above.
Sweet little smiles with lots of love.
Busy and happy as she grew up.
Playing around with her new little pup.
Always making others feel good inside.
Having to do with the Lord by her side.
Ready now, to go on her way.
We must let go somewhat, but still we will pray,
For the course she will travel after graduation day.
She might be in business or nursing or teaching.
She may be on the mission field with her hand out reaching.
One day she may marry the man chosen for her.
For now she will go and learn more and serve.
She's been more joy than we could have known.
But that's just what God did, when we got her on loan.
We love you girl, with little or no curl.
Let Christ guide your way for each new day.
So you will have peace, love and joy that always will stay.

We love you so much!

YEARBOOK

New teacher. Inexperienced staff. Technology challenged computers. What else could have gone wrong? The Monroe yearbook staff started off with three students, minus the teacher. The number quickly grew to about 20, with only one of them having taken yearbook before.

But, despite obstacles, the 2002-2003 yearbook staff made it. Mrs. Spong did a great job obtaining new, workable computers and the staff caught on quickly to the ups and downs of producing a yearbook. "Yearbook isn't that hard. It just takes a little bit of effort."

---	---	---	---	--

The girls know what it takes to win a great battle. Staying together, working hard and thinking ahead of time. This year, the girls did exceptionally well in the dress up contest by wearing more pajamas to school than the boys.

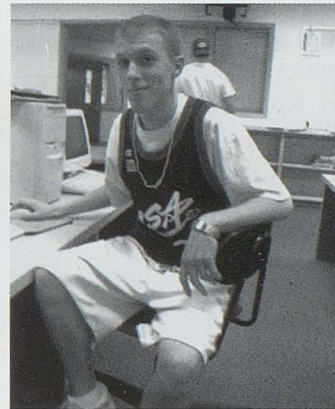

On Monday, messages were sent to the opposite sex, during the lunch periods and the gender with the most messages lost. On Tuesday, it was the boys dress up day. Many boys wore their sports attire, which helped to even the score as the girls were in the lead. Each girl got a pink yarn necklace to wear, if they talked to a boy in hall they would have to give their necklace up. On Wednesday, both genders wore their 70's clothes and many students really went out of their way to look great. On Thursday, it was the girls turn for dress up day. We saw many bright colors on the girls because spring fever was here. The boys got their blue yarn necklaces and it was their turn not to talk in the halls. They gathered necklaces from both genders and it was counted for the assembly.

On Friday, we had the ping-pong tournament finale, which went really well for the amount of students we had signed up to play. At the end of the week we meet for an assembly to inform everyone of which gender had won the competition. The girls had dominated the battle of the sexes questionnaire game and of, course the girls won this battle!!! It was a fabulous week for all of us. Things went as planned and the girls proved to the boys that they aren't the weaker sex.

On Boys Challenge Day Richie King (12) shows pride in his sports wear.

Men are cool. Sure, we didn't win the Battle of the Sexes this week, but who really cares? Ha! Not us! Ha, ha! We know that we're the best. We don't have to be in stupid contests to prove that. Yeah... um... men are cool.

Maui Trip 2003

It's a trip everyone in high school would love to take. Who wouldn't want to go to a place so beautiful as Maui? Monroe High School has been taking students to Hawaii for thirteen days each year for the past two years. This year, they plan on making a video documentary on their trip. It's a great way to capture the excitement and all the things they see. Forty-five lucky students get to experience this wonderful journey, while staying at Camp Pecusa. "It's a great way to learn real science in the field," Mr. Morrison reports. Kids study Marine Biology while enjoying the weather there, they study coral reefs, tropical rainforest, and volcanos. They cover the subjects on ecology, geology, astronomy, and other science related topics.

I asked some of the students who went on the trip last year, they all said it was a trip like no other. They did many fun things and were very glad they went. They snorkeled almost every day, took long hikes, learned about plants and animals on the island and enjoyed the rich region of Maui. They saw so many things they haven't seen before, on the land and in the sea. "People should go on the trip, it's a good experience" stated Casey Coon (12). Going to Maui has given students knowledge about the plants that grow there and the plants beneath the sea. The animals that thrive in Hawaii's habitat are some of the most amazing creatures on the planet. Going to Maui with your friends is one of the best things you could do. It's always good to travel to a new place, try new things, and see a different environment.

Roxy Berg (12) and Genesis Day (12) smile like princesses before they hop into their carriages and drive off into the night.

Same Ol', Same Ol'

Union Station is lit up and glimmering before the prom kicks off.

"A Moment In Time"

Look At My Pretty Tiara...

Kathy Lee (12) and her date make their entrance into the prom.

Seniors, the time has finally come for the senior prom, the event we have all been waiting for since the moment we stepped foot into this high school. We all know that prom always leads to...GRADUATION!

Although, last year's prom was held at the Union Station, everything was still decorated nicely and just as beautiful. Prom night was the night the senior class came together and every one realized just how close graduation was getting. Growing up, moving on, making new friends and entering the real world are close at hand.

That's why it was really important to make prom "A Moment in Time."

Adorable?

Jeremy Steeb (12) and Katie Walker (12) take time out of dancing to pose for a picture.

Bling, Bling.

Ashley Barron, Meike Truels, Kalyn Shellenberger, Aubrey Allen, Kari Fetrow, and Autumn Roth strike a pose in front of their Stretch Suburban.

Always on the Scene

In between the dancing, the pictures, dinner, and getting ready, Krystal Rupard (12) barely had time to hang out with her old pal, who just happens to be a Monroe Policeman.

Pretty in Pink

Cassie Mello-Reece (12) and her date made their outfits from duck tape...Cassie, have you ever thought about a career in design?

America's Pastime

Coming Home

Zach Adam (12) cheers as Jason Cocking (10) crosses home plate.

Safe on First

Neil Manthe (11) makes it safe to first base.

Baseball is truly an All-American sport. The smell of the freshly cut grass and the breeze rustling the leaves. There's hot dogs to be eaten and pop to drink. Baseball is just an all-around enjoyable sport for everyone involved. People will enjoy it for years to come.

Getting Them Out

Zach Adam (12) throws to Mitch Recor (12) to stop their opponents at first.

Check Out The Rose

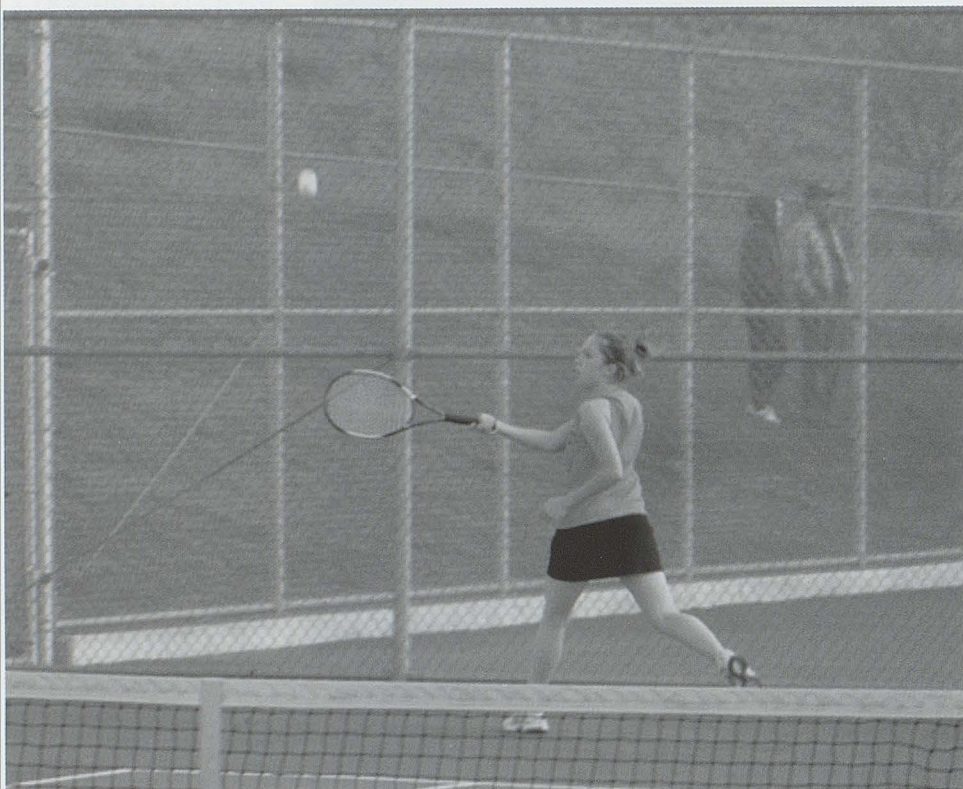

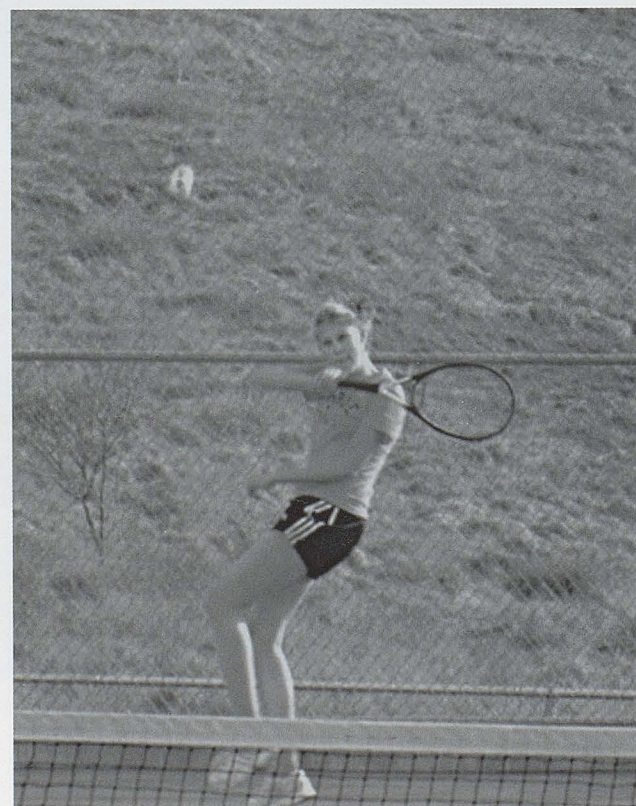

Number five does a Pete Rose stealing second base.

Wait For It

Victoria Jirack (10) gets ready for the next serve while she figures out how to make that perfect shot.

That Was Close

Morgan Neal-Tape (12) hits the ball almost before it went out of her side of the court.

I Got It!

Emily Peterson (10) runs up and smacks the ball to the other side of the court.

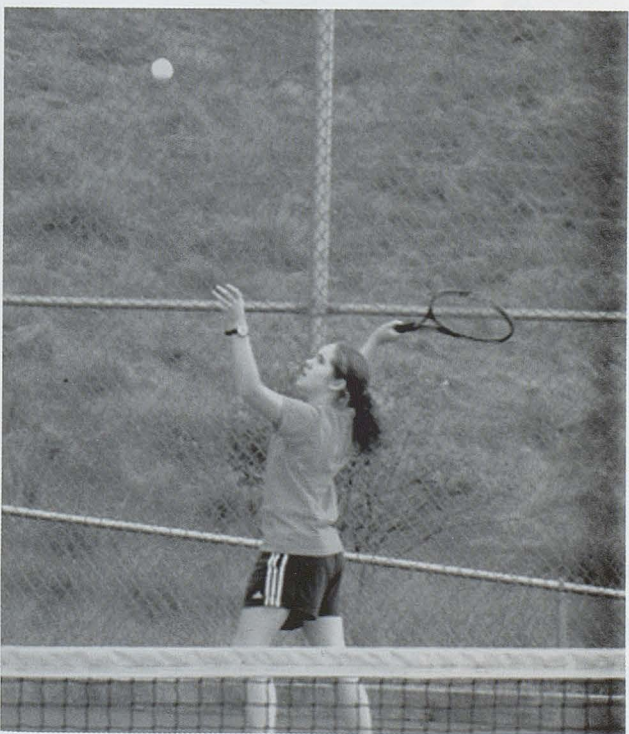

Right Back at Yah

Audra Speer (11) deflects th ball right back at the opposing team member during a varsity meet.

Game Set & Match

Who Do You Think Will Win?

Here local spectators talk and watch the thrilling games that go in Monroe tennis courts.

40-30

Jennifer Hume (11) is about to serve the next volley.

Tennis, the name given to the game differs in different countries. In Great Britain, it is called Tennis or, to distinguish it from Lawn Tennis, Real Tennis or Royal Tennis.

In the USA it is called Court Tennis: in France Jeu de Paume (hand ball): and in Australia Royal Tennis. The various names throw light on the development of the game.

Tennis originated in France before the 12th century. The whole appearance of a tennis court is influenced by its origins. The first courts were to be found in courtyards immediately adjacent to a castle or in cloistered monastery quadrangles. Originally, the players played with their hands (jeu de paume). Later they used gloves, then short bats to hit the ball. The game became very popular and in the 13th century it is said that there were as many as 1,800 courts in France. Lawn Tennis, which derived from Real Tennis in about 1874, is played on a marked-out surface without side or end walls.

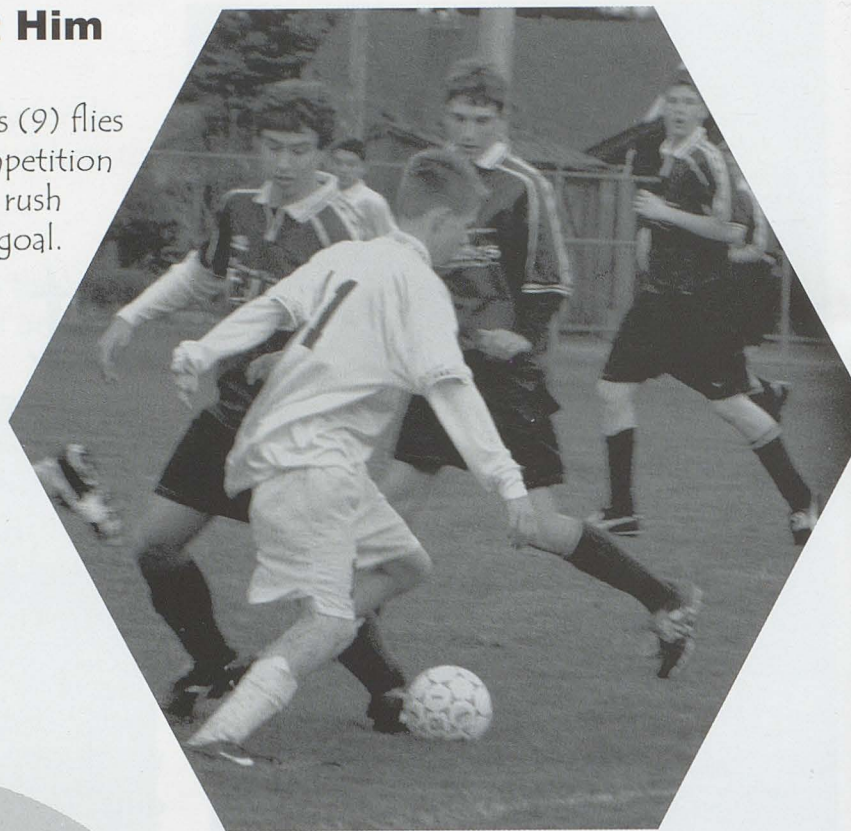

Court Tennis, to use the American name for tennis, indicates that tennis is played in a specially court with walls on four sides. No two tennis courts are exactly alike. That at Hampton Court is marginally wider than others. Other differences occur in the width or angle of the penthouse roof above the corridor and in the width of the tambour. Today the number of courts has dwindled. There are 17 courts in use in Great Britain; 7 in the USA; 2 in France; and 3 in Australia.

There are not more than a few thousand players in the world; but they make up in keenness for any lack of numbers. There are amateur, professional open and world competitions. The main tennis participants are young girls and boys such as those at MHS.

Soccer: It's all about Domination

Look At Him Go!

Justin Milnes (9) flies past the competition and makes a rush towards the goal.

Just Another Day on the Field

Damien Durringer (10) head-butts the ball, as it soars above the heads of the awed opposite team

*"I like plowing

McCreary (10)*

You Ain't Getting Past Me...

Justin Milnes (9) ferociously stands his ground against the opposing team.

These quotes are from soccer players and enthusiasts

Look At That...

Our team is dedicated enough to take a hit to stop the ball from advancing down the field.

"I like it for the adreniline rush I get while I am playing..."

Leaving Em' in the Dust...Again

Justin Milnes (9) is getting used to leading the pack.

"I like it 'cause it's fun..."

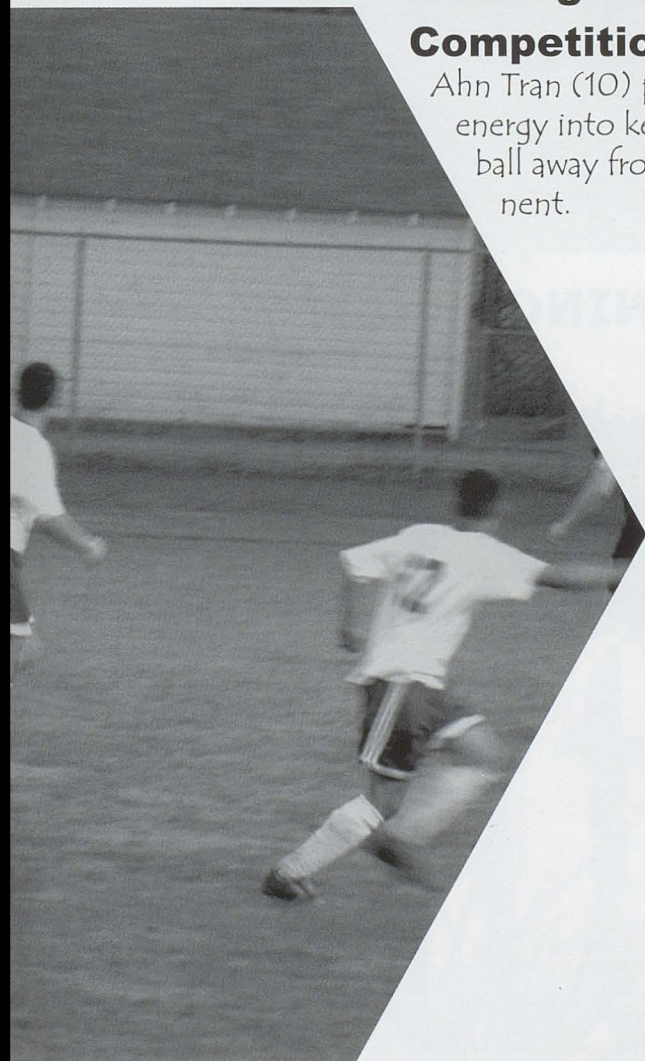

Blowing Past the Competition

Ahn Tran (10) puts all his energy into keeping the ball away from his opponent.

On Your Mark, Get Set, Go!

The team looks and prepares for the incoming ball kicked off by the goalie.

spring 2003

Ah, Spring! That magical time of year when a young man's fancy turns lightly to thoughts of running himself ragged, jumping hurdles, and sweating several pints! This is the beauty of running track, and anyone can do it. Girls and boys of all sorts ran and jumped their way to victory this year. See the Bearcats in action:

VAULTING!

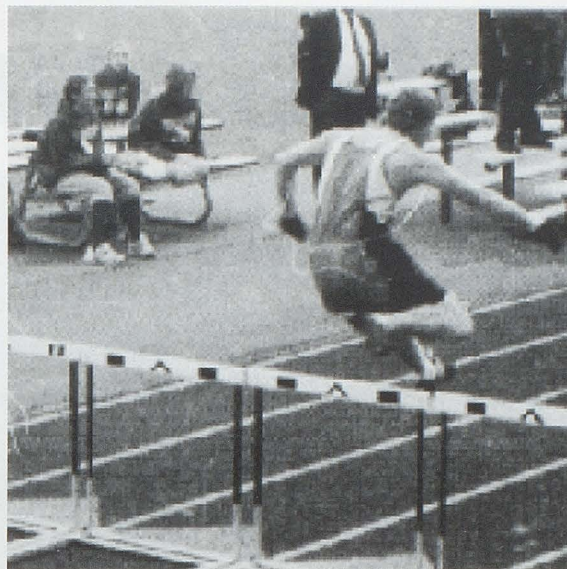

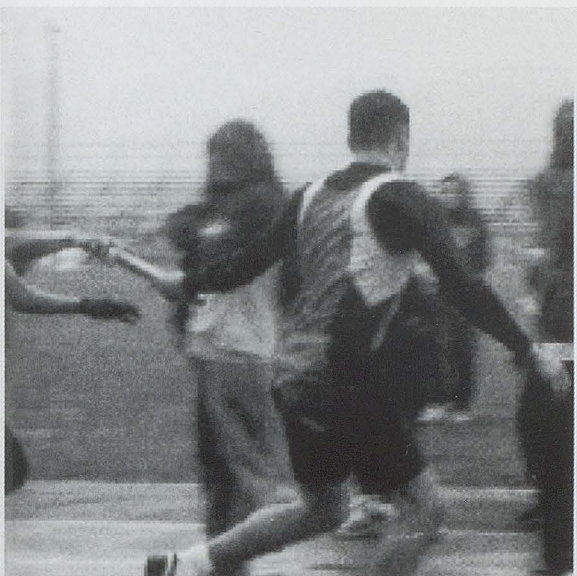

RUNNING!

PASSING!

JUMPING!

This season saw a ton of athletes turn out to run for Monroe. The season went well under the watchful eye of Coach Brekke, and saw seniors, juniors and sophomores of all sorts coming together under the Bearcat moniker to represent Monroe High School. Way to go guys! Thanks for making us proud.

track attack

"It's A Grand Slam!"

From hitting homeruns, striking out, playing outfielders, or even pitching. These fastpitch chicks started off with an amazing season, beginning their first games coming out as wins. "I couldn't have done it without my teammates," said Britney Rose (11). Their leading coach, Eskeback was a big help during practices.

Just A Bunt....

Kailyn Ellenger (11) gives a little tip to make it to 1st base!
